

flood the Shock of so long, so bloody, and so expensive a War, ruinous in its Consequences to so many surrounding Countries.

The wise and salutary Prudence of your Majesty's Councils, and the heroic Courage of your Forces by Sea and Land, have been eminently conspicuous.

May Heaven bestow on your Majesty long Life, with Health and every other Blessing, that you may continue to your People the Happiness they have so long enjoyed under your Majesty's most auspicious Reign.

Signed at the unanimous Request, and in the Name of the Inhabitants of the ancient Town of Rye, at a Meeting held at the Guildhall this Thirty-first Day of May—One thousand eight hundred and two.

Thos. Lambe, Mayor.

[Presented by the Right Honorable Lord Hawkebury, His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Foreign Department.]
