St. James's, September 7, 1803.

THE following Addresses having been presented to the King; which Addresses His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously:

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Gentlemen, Clergy, Freemen, and Freeholders of the County of the City of Waterford, in that Part of the United Kingdom called Ireland, duly convened by the Sheriffs of said City, seize this awful Period, when your Majesty's Dominions are threatened to be invaded by a fierce and haughty Foe, to express our unfeigned and inviolable Attachment to your Majesty's sacred Person and Government, and to that Constitution under which we have the Happiness to live, and for the Support and Protection of which we are ready to die.

Sensible of the many Blessings we have long enjoyed under your Majesty's mild and paternal Reign, we feel it our bounden Duty to offer our personal Service and Property to defend and maintain that Constitution we have so just Reason to boast, and on which our Rights and Liberties so essentially depend.

Reigning, as you do, in the Hearts of your true and faithful Subjects, may your Majesty's Arms be crowned with Victory; and may the Enemy by Experience find that no Force or Numbers can conquer or dismay a free and loyal People.

John Burchall and James Hackett, Sheriffs.

[Presented by the Right Honorable Mr. Secretary Yorke.]

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's Subjects, the Gentlemen, Clergy, and whole Inhabitants of the County and Town of Nairn, most sincerely and unalterably impressed with Sentiments of Veneration for the be. of Kings, and Attachment to the British Constitution; anxious that, at a Crisis momentous as the present, these our Sentiments should keep Pace with, and be corroborated by, our Exertions, are, on that Account, thus late in approaching your Throne. We have the proud Satisfaction of communicating to your Majesty, that every Man demanded by your Government for the different Levies have cheerfully joined their Corps, and that the Remainder of this County are either in Arms as regular Volunteers, or zealously ready to take them up in Defence of our beloved Monarch, our Religion, Laws, Liberty, and every Thing dear to us on Earth.

We pray for the Protection of the Almighty God to your Majesty and the British Empire.

Signed at the Desire of the Meeting, in their Name, at Nairn, the First of September One thousand eight hundred and three.

James Brodie, Lieutenant Nairnshire.

[Presented by the Right Honorable Mr. Secretary Yorke.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Grand Jury of the County of Tyrone, assembled at Summer Assizes One thousand eight hundred and three, think ourselves called upon at this alarming Period to express our sincere, firm, and unalterable Attachment to your Majesty's Person, Family, and Government.

Attached as we are to our most excellent and unparalleled Constitution, we view with no less Wonder than Indignation the tumultuous and savage Insurrection which so lately disgraced the Capital of this Kingdom, for the Purpose of its Subversion, an Insurrection excited and fomented by an Enemy the most desperate and determined that ever yet appeared for the Destruction of the Liberties and Happiness of Mankind.

We have now before our Eyes the abject and disgraceful Slavery to which the insidious Arts, as much as the Arms of the French Republic, have reduced many of the Nations of Europe; and we stand determined, if needful, at the Expence of our Lives and Fortunes, to maintain our most glorious Constitution, and such as we have received it; to preserve and transmit the same to our Posterity under the Government, we trust for ever, of your Majesty's illustrious House.

John Stewart, Foreman.
