St. James's, September 28, 1803.

THE following Addresses having been presented to the King ; which Addresses His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously :

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's loyal and dutiful Subjects, the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, Freeholders, and other Inhabitants of the County of Westmeath, beg Leave to approach your Throne with renewed Assurances of the Fidelity and Attachment which we have always borne towards your Royal Person and our happy Constitution ; and more particularly at this Time, when an insatiate Enemy hath threatened an immediate Attack upon our Country with a View to general Plunder, and to reduce to slavery a free and independent Nation.

With united Hearts and Voices we humbly tender to your Majesty the zealous and constant Exertion of our Lives and Fortunes in Defence of that admirable Constitution, those revered Laws, and that benignant System of Government which has given to us the Enjoyment of great, and the Promise of still greater national Prosperity.

By the wild and insatiable Ambition of the present Ruler of France, deaf to the Calls of Humanity, and neglectful of the Duty he owes to the People over whom he presides, your Majesty has been forced again to have Recourse to Arms, and Two Nations, disposed to live in Peace and Amity, are once more plunged into a State of Warfare from which they had been rescued by the Wisdom and Moderation of your Majesty's Councils.

We view with peculiar Indignation the baneful Designs of the Enemy on this Part of your Majesty's Dominions, his base and malignant Conspiracy with those Traitors who so recently experienced your Majesty's Clemency, who are now become the Instruments of a foreign Despot, and are again employed in Endeavours to seduce from their just and honorable Allegiance, those deluded Men whom they had formerly misled, and afterwards betrayed to the Punishment, from which, by the Royal Mercy, they were saved. To frustrate this and every other Design hostile to your Majesty and to the Welfare of our Country. We pledge ourselves, Sire, to shun no Fatigue, to shrink from no Danger, to repine at no Expence, and we firmly rely on the paternal Protection of your Majesty, on the Countenance, the Support, and Direction of your Government here, to give Effect to our humble but zealous Endeavours.

We call upon the Almighty Ruler of the Universe to shield and protect your Royal Person and Throne from foreign and domestic Foes, and so to direct your Councils and invigorate your Arms as to secure to your Majesty that Glory most dear to your Royal Breast—the Glory of terminating a just and unavoidable War by a safe, honourable, and permanent Peace.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the High Sheriff, Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, and Freeholders of the County of Donegal, humbly beg Leave to assure your Majesty of our firm and devoted Attachment to your Majesty's Person and Government, and of our unalterable Resolution to guard and protect them both from the open or seditious Attacks of foreign or domestic Enemies.

When Rebellion has again dared to shew itself in this Island, and a vindictive and implacable Foe threatens us with Invasion and Desolation, it becomes the indispensable Duty of every loyal Subject to declare his Sentiments, and to assist in increasing and directing properly that patriotic Spirit which now animates the Breasts of so great a Majority of your Majesty's Subjects.

We are happy to declare that in this County every Rank and Description of Men, warmly concur in support of the public Tranquillity ; we trust therefore, that at this Crisis, when every Thing dear to us is at stake, the same Unanimity will continue to prevail, and that every Irishman will be emulous to manifest, by his Exertions, his Zeal in Defence of his King and Country, and in the Support of that enviable Constitution under which the Empire has so long flourished.
