Madrid, April 17.

WE have Advice from Lisbonne that the Duke de Giovinazzo, whom our King has thought fit to send thither, with the Character of his Envoye Extraordinary, to endeavour so to compose Matters, with relation to what has happened in America, that the friendship between the two Crowns here in Europe may not be disturbed, arrived there the 5th Instant, and that he had had Audience of the Prince Regent, and several Conferences with the chief Ministers, who continue, as we are informed, very highly to resent the action of the Governor of Buenos Ayres, and Demand not only the Restitution of the Fort by him taken, and satisfaction for the Damage sustained; but that it may be Declared, that the Sovereignty of the Isle of St. Gabriel does of right belong to the Crown of Portugal; This the Duke de Giovinazzo has by an Express acquainted this Court with; and we must now expect to see what Resolutions will be taken here upon it, which its hoped will be such, as may disappoint the Designs of those that would willingly see things brought to an Extremity, and the Peace between the two Crowns interrupted.

Strasburg, April 29. The Assembly that was held at Molsheim for the choosing a Dean in the room of Count Coringsee, is broke up, without making any choice, for that the Cannons found they were not at liberty to proceed therein with freedom, but that they were awed by the French; and we have reason to think that the French King intends to appropriate to himself the disposal of this and the other Benefices and Dignities in this Country. From Kasse they write, that the Fortifications which the French are making at Hunningen, give great jealousy to the Swisse-Cantons, who grow every day more and more sensible, that this new Fortres will be a check upon them, and that therefore they ought to concern themselves more effectually than hitherto they have done, for the hindring a thing that may be so prejudicial to them; but those Fortifications are now too far advanced for any stop to be given to them.

Cologne, May 2. It was reported all the last week that there was a Bridge laying over the Rhine at Wesel; that several French Officers were employed by the Elector of Brandenburg to raise Men, and that other preparations were making for some great Design: but the Letters we received this day from very good hands at Wesel only tell us, That the Sieur de Bouquemaure a French Officer, who had formerly served the Elector, had now received a Commission from him to raise a Regiment of Dragoons, and that they heard not of any other French Officers being received into his Electoral Highnesses Service. Our Magistrates have appointed the Sieur Judondonck to assist at the Conferences that are to be held at Francfort, for the adjusting the differences arisen between the Empire and the Crown of France, concerning the execution of the Treaty of Nimeguen.

Hague, May 5. Several Reformed Officers are come hither from Flanders to seek Service, which if they cannot meet with here they will go for Germany, whereas well the Imperialists as French are making Leavies. By some persons that came not many days since from Lingen we are told that the Duke of Zell, the Prince of Orange, and many other Persons of great quality, had begun the intended Hunting, which they would continue for several days; that the Prince of Orange purposes to return hither about the middle of this Month, and that the Duke of Zell, the Prince of Hanover &c. would accompany him. We have certain Advice from Luxemburg, that the Count de Bissy has left that Country, after having very much ruined it, by obliging the Inhabitants to furnish him with Provisions, &c. and after all, by raising 200000 Crowns upon them in ready Money, on pretence of Damages which his Troops had sustained from the Boors; who when they had opportunities, were indeed very apt to Treat the French Soldiers as they would do Persons that came to spoil them of what they had. The Sieur Pestecum, Envoye Extraordinary from the King of Denmark, does now receive the Visits of all the Foreign Ministers here.

Brussels, May 2. The Dean of one of the Trades (or Companies) of this City, who we told you in our last was seized by order of the Prince of Parma, and sent prisoner to the Castle of Vilword, has been three several times examined by the Fiscal and other Officers of the Council of Brabant, who intend to proceed criminally against him, for having endeavoured to raise disturbances by his seditious Discourses and Practises, &c. and it is not doubted but he, and perhaps some others too, will be made publick Examples of: On Wednesday some of the chief of the Trades were at Court, and desired an Audience of his Highness, who not thinking fit to grant it, they made their Application to the Count d' Archinto, to whom they represented the great trouble they were in, occasioned by the imprisonment of one of their Brethren, which they were the more concerned at, for that they feared it might be a breaking in upon their Priviledges; but the Count d' Archinto told them, that his Highness would be very careful to preserve all their just Rights and Priviledges
