St. James's, March 2, 1808.

THE following Addresses having been transmitted to the Right Honourable Lord Hawkebury, His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, have been by his Lordship presented to the King; which Addresses His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously:

To the KING.

SIRE,

WE, the Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, Commissioners of Supply, Clergy, and other Gentlemen of Nairnshire, called together this Day at Nairn, cheerfully embrace the Opportunity, along with the rest of your loyal Subjects, of assuring your Majesty of our most sincere Attachment to your Person, Family, and Government, and of expressing our sacred Veneration for the British Constitution.

If necessary, at a Crisis like the present, we are ready to prove that Attachment, and support that Constitution, with our Lives and Fortunes. We fervently invoke the Almighty for your Preservation; and that, aided by Wisdom in your Councils, Unanimity in your Parliament, with the Energy and Spirit of your Navy and Army, you may soon accomplish the anxious Wish of your Heart, a safe and honourable Peace.

Signed in our Name, and by our Appointment,
by James Brodie, of Brodie, Esq; our Preses.
Nairn, February 19, 1808. James Brodie, P.

[Transmitted by James Brodie, Esq.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's loyal Subjects, the Provost, Magistrates, Merchants, Traders, and other Inhabitants of Montrose, beg Leave to approach your Majesty with the most dutiful Expressions of our Loyalty and Attachment to your Person and Government. At a Period when the most powerful Combinations are formed to abridge our Power, and crush our national Prosperity, we consider it to be the indispensable Duty of all your Majesty's Subjects to express their Determination of defending with their Lives and Fortunes those invaluable Blessings, of which the rancorous Envy of their Enemies would deprive them. We have beheld with Sorrow the Degradation of Europe; and with mixed Feelings of Pity and Indignation have seen the most powerful Monarchs humbling themselves before a desolating and insulting Foe. We are convinced, however, that the Devastations which we deplore have been brought about more by the Imbecility of the Measures adopted by the Sovereigns, and by the Subversion of patriotic Feelings amongst their Subjects, than by the Valour and Prowess of their Enemies. This Conviction is sufficient to set us perfectly at Ease as to our national Security; for we have full Confidence in the Wisdom which directs your Majesty's Councils, and in the Patriotism which animates the Hearts of your Subjects. And we cannot help feeling a Degree of Exultation when we reflect that these Principles, as often as brought to the Trial, have never failed to prove triumphant.

Confiding, then, in your Majesty's paternal Solitude for the Welfare of your People, in the Extent of our Resources, and in the Bravery of our Countrymen; and humbly trusting that the Al-
