

the Line was observed on her Beam Ends, with all her Masts gone, and apparently bilged. She grounded upon the Shoal called Les Palles within L'Isle d'Aix; and is the same Ship mentioned in my Letter of the 27th Ultimo, supposed by Captain Seymour to have been a Frigate. From many Circumstances I apprehend this Ship is the Warfaw, a new Eighty. There are Two Rear-Admirals' Flags and a broad Pendant at the Main. One Rear-Admiral is on board the Three Decker.

The Enemy's Frigates remain at the Sables d'Oloane. One of them is abandoned by the Crew, and bilged upon the Beach; another is hauled up close to the Opening of a small Inlet, but grounding every Tide; and the Third is in the same Situation, but not quite so near the Inlet. These Two last appear to float at High Water, but are on their Beam Ends at Low Water; a Western Swell, which has set in, will completely destroy them.

The Loss of a French Line of Battle Ship is confirmed by the Masters of Three Doggers which came out of the Charante, and were boarded in the Night by our Frigates, but they did not know her Name.

I send this Account to England by the King George Cutter, and a similar Report for the Information of Admiral Lord Gambier, in the Event of the latter falling in with his Lordship on her Passage.
