A PROCLAMATION,

For a General Fast.

GEORGE P. R.

WE, taking into our most serious consideration the just and necessary war in which His Majesty is engaged, and putting our trust in Almighty God, that He will graciously bless His Majesty's arms, both by sea and land, have resolved, and do, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, and by and with the advice of His Majesty's Privy Council, hereby command, that a Public Day of Fasting and Humiliation be observed throughout those parts of the United Kingdom called England and Ireland, on Wednesday the Fifth Day of February next ensuing, that so both we and His Majesty's people may humble ourselves before Almighty God, in order to obtain pardon of our sins, and in the most devout and solemn manner send up our prayers and supplications to the Divine Majesty, for averting those heavy judgments which our manifold provocations have most justly deserved: and for imploring His blessing and assistance on His Majesty's arms, for the restoration of peace, and prosperity to His Majesty and his dominions: and we do strictly charge and command, that the said Public Fast be reverently and devoutly observed by all His Majesty's loving subjects in England and Ireland, as they tender the favour of Almighty God, and would avoid His wrath and indignation; and upon pain of such punishment as may be justly inflicted on all such as contemn and neglect the performance of so religious and necessary a duty: and for the better and more orderly solemnizing the same, we have given directions to the Most Reverend the Archbishops, and the Right Reverend the Bishops of England and Ireland, to compose a Form of Prayer suitable to this occasion, to be used in all churches, chapels, and places of public worship, and to take care that the same be timely dispersed throughout their respective dioceses.

WAR DEPARTMENT.

Downing-Street, January 25, 1812.

A DISPATCH, of which the following is a copy, has been received at the Office of the Earl of Liverpool, addressed to his Lordship by Lieutenant-General E. Maitland.

MY LORD, Messina, November 10, 1811.

ON the 26th of October, I received information from Captain Duncan, of His Majesty's ship Imperieuse, that a small convoy of the enemy had taken refuge at Palinuro, where it was protected by some works, and a body of troops posted upon a commanding ground; Captain Duncan requested a detachment of His Majesty's troops to co-operate with His Majesty's ships Imperieuse and Thames to take or destroy this convoy, which consisted of nine gun-boats and twenty merchant vessels, laden with naval stores for the enemy's ships of war at Naples.

A detachment of the 62^d regiment was, therefore, embarked on board of His Majesty's ship Thames, consisting of two hundred and fifty men, under the command of Major Darley; and I have the satisfaction to report to your Lordship, that this little expedition has had complete success.

I enclose Major Darley's report of this service; and with the greatest satisfaction I express the high opinion I entertain of the intrepidity and judgment of Major Darley, and of the perfect good conduct of all the officers and men employed.

Major Darley states also, that the able manner in which Captain Duncan, in the Imperieuse, engaged the enemy's battery and gun-boats (which he silenced) was the prelude to their success, and reflects the highest credit upon that officer; that Captain Napier, of His Majesty's ship Thames, landed with His Majesty's troops and marines, and most gallantly set an example to them all, and contributed greatly to the fortunate issue of the attack.

I have the honour to be, &c.

(Signed) F. MAITLAND, Lieut. Gen.
To the Right Honourable the Earl of Liverpool, &c. &c. &c.

SIR, Melazzo, Nov. 8, 1811.

IN compliance with your desire, I beg leave to transmit a statement of the enemy's forces at Palinuro, under the command of General Pignatelli Cercaro, together with a brief account of the action that took place upon our landing.

The force we had to contend with, as far as could be scrutinized into from the questioning of prisoners, &c. were as follows: three companies of the 2^d or Queen's regiment, two of which were rifle, and amounting to three hundred and fifty men; Corsican regulars, sixty; artillery, forty-five; civic guard, eighty; with at least four hundred peasantry, armed as light troops, and particularly serviceable over the kind of ground they had to act, thereby making the total amount, nine hundred and thirty-five men.

This force was acknowledged; but from the reinforcements known to be continually accumulating, the enemy are supposed to have been stronger.

I disembarked with fifty of the royal marines, the grenadiers and skirmishers of the 62^d regiment, at about half past three o'clock, P. M. on the 1st instant, leaving Captains Pollack and Irving's companies to follow. Upon landing, I immediately commenced ascending the heights, when Captain Oldham was unfortunately severely wounded; and after some firing, in the hope of opposing our progress, we completely succeeded in gaining them; whereupon I threw out my skirmishers, and formed the remainder to advance upon the enemy, reserving a part to attack (and storm, if possible) the telegraph tower, and another division to keep in check the enemy, who menaced my left, as also to maintain the commanding position on the heights.

The telegraph tower, and fine adjacent position, we shortly got possession of; when my attention was particularly drawn towards the front of our advance, where the enemy had concentrated his main force, and, under a heavy fire, was endeavoring to force his way to the heights, huzzaing and drumming as he advanced, while his riflemen had the same object in view on our left; but the steadiness and superiorly gallant conduct of the officers and men defied the most daring intrepidity; and, after allowing the enemy to advance within a very few yards, and whilst coolly lying on the ground to receive him like British soldiers, the enemy was charged, and routed most completely; when ended the action, without his having the temerity to renew it again. About this period I had to lament the severe loss of Lieutenant Kay, 62^d, who was gallantly fighting his skirmishers; and shortly after, Lieutenant Popon, of the royal marines.

The loss of the enemy is supposed to be between sixty and seventy in killed and wounded; but I am rather inclined to imagine it more. Lieutenant-Colonel Matsciola was severely wounded, with little hopes of recovery.

I hope, Sir, you will excuse any inaccuracy that may have escaped my pen in this very hasty sketch, and beg leave to add, that we embarked in the afternoon of the 3d instant, without molestation, being covered by the fire of His Majesty's ships the Imperieuse and Thames.

I have, &c,

EDW. DARLEY, Major 62d, commanding a Detachment of 62d Regiment.
To Major-General Heron, &c. &c. &c.

DISPATCHES, of which the following are copies, have been received by the Earl of Liverpool from Major-General Cooke.

My Lord, Cadiz, December 29, 1811.

I BEG leave to refer your Lordship to the copy of my last dispatch to General Lord Viscount Wellington, with the papers enclosed in it, relative to the situation of affairs at Tarifa.

I have not received any thing from thence since the 24th, at which date the French had not brought up their artillery; and there has been so much rain during the last two days, that they may have met with great difficulties.

I have, &c.

(Signed) GEO. COOKE, Major-General.
The Earl of Liverpool, &c. &c. &c.

Extract of a Letter from Major-General Cooke to Viscount Wellington, dated Cadiz, December 27, 1811.

I HAVE the honour to transmit copies of dispatches from Colonel Skerrett to the date of the 24th.

The enemy's troops, in addition to those employed immediately against Tarifa, extended across the plain to Veger, where Marshal Victor had his quarters with a strong corps. I do not learn any thing of General Ballesteros since my last.

SIR,

Tarifa, December 24, 1811.

I HAVE the honour to report that, on the 20th instant, the enemy invested this town with from four to five thousand infantry, and from two to three hundred cavalry. As it was not adviseable to fight so superior a force, I resisted him for an hour with the cavalry and infantry, Spanish and British piquets of the garrison, reinforced by a company of the 95th, and two six-pounder field guns of Captain Hughes's brigade. The loss of the enemy was considerable. On the 21st, Captain Wren, of the 11th, destroyed, with his company, a small piquet of the enemy. The 22d, I made a sortie at the request of General Copons, and in conjunction with his troops, with the intention to ascertain the numbers of the enemy, by inducing him to shew his columns. His light troops suffered considerably from our shells. The enemy is now making his approaches at a long musket shot from the town: but the ground so completely commands us, and is so favourable to him, that our small guns have little or no effect upon him.

I have the honour to be, &c.

(Signed) J. B. SKERRETT, Colonel.
To Major-General Cooke, &c. &c. &c.

My Lord,

Cadiz, Dec. 31, 1811.

I HAVE received a dispatch from Colonel Skerrett, dated yesterday, of which I enclose a copy. It appears that the enemy had brought up four sixteen-pounders and some howitzers, and had opened their fire against the wall on the 29th. The shipping had been driven away by the gales of wind.

I have, &c.

(Signed) GEO. COOKE, Major-General.
The Earl of Liverpool, &c. &c. &c.

SIR,

Tarifa, Dec. 30, 1811.

IN my last I had the honour to state, that the enemy had invested this town on the 20th instant; since which period he has rapidly carried on a regular parallel and approach against the wall of the town, which I consider as doing much honour to the garrison.

I have several times found it necessary to drive back the enemy's advance, and to interrupt his works, in which we have met with a slight loss, and the enemy, from being exposed to the fire of the few small guns we possess on the towers, has suffered considerably. It was only on these occasions that we materially annoyed the enemy; for the wall of the town is so completely commanded, that, in a few hours' work, he has every where much better cover than ourselves.

The enemy yesterday opened his fire at half past ten, and continued to batter in breach at a distance of about three hundred yards, with four French sixteen-pounders on the east wall, near the Retiro gate, and four howitzers and other smaller pieces playing on the island and causeway. He continued a constant fire until night, the first and each shot passing through the wall, and through some of the houses in the rear of it. Before night, a practicable breach was effected. He this day continued to widen the breach, and, I imagine, will not attempt the assault until it is extended to the tower on each flank (a space of about forty yards.) I have traversed the streets, and taken the only measure by which there is a chance of preserving the place—that of defending the houses. The enemy's force employed in the siege is stated at ten thousand; probably this is in some degree exaggerated. A constant fire of musketry is interchanged. I have particularly to regret the loss of the service of Lieutenant Guanter, Deputy Assistant Quarter-Master-General, a very intelligent and brave officer, who is severely wounded.

Enclosed is a return of killed and wounded since my last.

I have the honour to be, &c.

WAR DEPARTMENT.

Downing-Street, January 25, 1812.

A DISPATCH, of which the following is an Extract, has been received from Colonel Green, employed upon a particular Service in Catalonia.

Extract of a Letter from Colonel Green, dated Berga, 27th November 1811.

I HAVE the honour to report to you the progressive state of improvement of affairs in this province, which is very great, considering the very few means there are to assist it in addition to the very excellent inclinations of the public.

The enemy has not augmented his force in this principality, having only replaced the casualties; and there is little difference in the operations, excepting that there is a small flying corps of fifteen hundred men, which is increased to three or four thousand men, or decreased, according to circumstances, from the garrison of Barcelona. This circumstance occasions the towns of Mataro and Villarcuva, and others on the coast, to become more precarious; but as all the excursions of the enemy cost them many men, it is to be supposed that they cannot continue this warfare long without exposing their force to be cut off, which nearly happened a few days since at Mataro by the Baron de Eroles's division.

The siege of the Medas Island is also an occupation of the enemy; but I am happy to learn, that there are no apprehensions for its security.

The news from Aragon is very favourable; the entire defeat of one thousand men at Calatuyud, by the Empecinado, is confirmed; and, in addition to the confirmation of various small and successful actions of Mina, in the neighbourhood of Zaragoza, there is strong reason to believe a report, that he has lately attacked and routed six thousand recruits or conscripts, near Caparosso.

The French force in Aragon at present is very small, General Suchet having almost drained it to support him in Valencia, so that there is reason to suppose, from every information, that there does not exist more than very weak garrisons in Zaragoza, Daroca, and Jaca, and in those points absolutely necessary for communication.

Copy of a Letter from Captain Griffiths, of His Majesty's Ship the Leonidas, addressed to Vice-Admiral Thornbrough, and transmitted to John Wil-son Croker, Esq.

SIR, Leonidas, at Sea, Jan. 17, 1812.

THIS morning, at daylight, we fell in with a schooner privateer, to whom we gave chase; our presence saving two merchant vessels then at hand. The very variable and unsettled weather rendering our catching her a doubtful point, I was glad, at half past two, P. M. to observe a ship crossing her track. It proved His Majesty's sloop Dasher, to whom she surrendered at half past four. Her name, the Confiance, of fourteen guns (thrown overboard in the chace), and sixty-eight men, nine days from Saint Maloes, and had taken nothing.
