advice of His Majesty's privy council, is thereupon pleased, in pursuance of the powers vested in His Majesty by the said above-recited act, to allow, and doth hereby allow, for the space of six months, from the eighth day of February next, the importation of hides, or pieces of hides, dressed or undressed calf-skins, or pieces of calf-skins, dressed or undressed horns or pieces of horns, tallow, and wool (except cotton wool), and also of goat-skins, dressed or undressed, in any foreign ship or vessel, from any port from which the British flag is excluded; and that on the arrival at any port of the United Kingdom of any foreign ship or vessel, from any port from which the British flag is excluded, with any of the articles abovementioned, the said goods shall be admitted to entry on payment of the same duties of customs and excise as are due and payable on the like goods when imported in any British or Irish-built ship or vessel:—And the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury are to give the necessary directions herein accordingly. Chetwynd.

Admiralty-Office, February 4, 1812.

Copy of a Letter from Captain Rowley, of His Majesty's Ship Eagle, addressed to Rear-Admiral Fremantle, and transmitted by Vice-Admiral Sir Edward Pellew to John Wilson Croker, Esq.

The Eagle, off Brendisi,
Nov: 28, 1811.

SIR,

I HAVE to acquaint you, for the information of the Commander in Chief, that at 9 A. M. on the 27th instant, His Majesty's ship under my command made sail towards three vessels in the North-West quarter, Fano bearing S. E. distant four leagues, and that after a chase of ten hours and a half, she captured La Corcora, French frigate, commanded by Monsieur Bonplade, Lieutenant de Vaisseau, pierced for forty guns, but mounting only twenty-six eighteens on the main deck, and two six-pounders on the quarter deck, with a complement of one hundred and seventy seamen and one hundred and thirty soldiers, laden with three hundred tons of wheat, and a quantity of military and other stores, bound to Corfu from Trieste, which port she left on the 13th of November, in company with La Uranie frigate of forty guns, and Scemplone brig of fourteen, both likewise laden with wheat and stores.

The Scemplone separated early in the chase, and the Uranie, I have to regret, effected her escape by superiority of sailing, added to the darkness of the night, and badness of the weather, as well as from the Captain of the Corceyre having carried away his fore-top-mast by press of sail, and not surrendering till his fore-top-yard was shot away, and otherwise much disabled by returning our fire for a few minutes, which obliged me to stay by him to prevent his going ashore near Brindisi, into which port I imagined the Uranie succeeded in getting, as we were within a mile and a half of it this morning at two o'clock, with the wind on shore blowing strong.

I have great pleasure in adding, that nobody was hurt belonging to this ship, and that only three were killed, and six or seven wounded, belonging to the Corceyre; amongst the latter, the Captain slightly.

I have the Honour to be, &c.

(Signed) C. ROWLEY, Captain.

Rear-Admiral Fremantle, &c. &c. &c.
