THE following Addresses have been presented to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent; which Addresses His Royal Highness was pleased to receive very graciously:

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Provost, Magistrates, and Council of the city of Aberdeen, in Common Council assembled, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness, with the most sincere assurances of attachment to your royal person, and of ardent zeal in support of your government.

While we cordially join with our fellow subjects, in lamenting the continued indisposition of our beloved Sovereign, we are thankful to God, that the exercise of the royal authority is, in the mean time, vested in a Prince, of whose wisdom and patriotism even the short period of your regency, has already furnished so many endearing proofs.

We rejoice in the signal success, which, during the administration of your Royal Highness, has attended His Majesty's arms; and we cannot but admire the modest and dignified conduct of your ministers, who, without any boast of superior talents, have eminently evinced that they possess them.

We humbly desire to express our hearty approbation of those public measures, which have been deemed necessary for the security, prosperity, and happiness of the church and state, and we trust, that in the government of these realms, your Royal Highness will be enabled, under the blessing of Divine Providence, to preserve inviolate the rights both sacred and civil, and to advance the glory of the British empire.

Signed, in name and by appointment of the said Magistrates and City Council, in Council assembled, and the City Seal hereto affixed, at Aberdeen, the 21st day of April, in the year 1812, by James Young, Provost.

[Presented by James Farquhar, Esq; M.P. for the said city.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Mayor, Bailiffs, and Commonalty of the borough of Lancaster, in Common Council assembled, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with every sentiment of duty and respect.

Submitting with all humility to that dispensation of Providence, which for a time has suspended the blessings of your royal father's reign, we congratulate, with sincere duty, and affectionate regard, your Royal Highness and the country at large, on your accession to the government of these kingdoms.

Impressed with the most ardent zeal for the preservation of the constitution under which we live, and firmly united in principles of loyalty and affection to your illustrious house, we feel it our duty, in times like these, publicly to declare our firm attachment to your Royal Highness's person; and our approbation of the measures hitherto pursued, for the safety and prosperity of the nation.

We also congratulate your Royal Highness on the good effects already produced by adopting the councils and firmly pursuing the measures, by which the glory of the nation has been so eminently exalted, under the auspices of your royal father.

And although we lament the difficulties which, from the peculiar situation of the country, are at present partially, but unavoidably experienced by many of our fellow-subjects, we cannot but deprecate the conduct of those factious and designing men, whose clamour for peace and reform, deludes the ignorant and unwary, and whilst it promotes discontent and disorder at home, gives spirit to the efforts, and encourages the designs of our enemies.

Being fully confident of your Royal Highness's anxious care for the welfare and prosperity of the nation, and that through the vigour of your councils, and the wisdom of Parliament, such measures will be adopted, as will be best calculated to produce the blessings of peace, when it can be obtained with safety and honour, we entreat your Royal Highness to accept this our humble address, with every assurance of loyalty, attachment, and support to your royal person and government.

Given under the Seal of the borough of Lancaster, the 24th day of April, in the year of our Lord 1812.

[Presented by Colonel Patten and John Dent, Esqrs; Members for the borough of Lancaster.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

WE, His Majesty's loyal and faithful subjects, inhabitants of the towns of Manchester and Salford, and the neighbourhood, deem it our bounden duty to approach your Royal Highness with the strongest
