From Saturday, May 23, to Tuesday, May 26, 1812.

THE following Addresses have been presented to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent; which Addresses His Royal Highness was pleased to receive very graciously:

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, &c. &c. &c. REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

SIR,

WE, His Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the county of Middlesex, assembled in the General Sessions of the Peace, humbly beg leave to testify to your Royal Highness, the extreme horror and indignation excited in our minds by the recent daring and unexampled assassination of a confidential Minister of the Crown, within the sanctuary of Parliament.

As guardians of the public peace, of a county comprehending the seat of His Majesty's government, and the metropolis of the British empire, and deeply participating in those melancholy feelings which necessarily predominate in the mind of every faithful subject, we cannot but contemplate with abhorrence so flagrant an outrage upon all laws divine and human, perpetrated as it has been in the face of day and within the limits of our official cognizance.

To render the mournful tribute of justice to the virtues of the Minister who fell by the deadly stroke of the assassin, we feel ourselves wholly unequal, although we can well appreciate the extent of the calamity.

At this awful crisis, we will not further intrude on your Royal Highness's sensibility, than by reiterating the assurances of our devotion to His Majesty's government administered by your Royal Highness, nor can we more adequately demonstrate the sincerity of our professions, than by a steady perseverance in the performance of our prescribed duties as Magistrates and Subjects; in zealously promoting the peace, the honour, and prosperity of our country.

Sessions House, Clerkenwell, May 14, 1812.

W. Mainwaring, Chairman.

[Presented by William Mainwaring, Esq. Chairman, with Sir John Cox Hippisley, Bart. and Reverend Dr. Bate Dudley, and other Magistrates.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the undersigned, Magistrates of the County of Berks, deeply impressed with abhorrence of the late atrocious murder committed on the person of one of the confidential Servants of the Crown, within the walls of Parliament, beg leave at this momentous crisis to lay before your Royal Highness our indignation and heartfelt regret.

We trust the same sentiments with which we are animated, will excite the efforts of all His Majesty's subjects—ours shall not be wanting within the county entrusted to our care, for the maintenance of the laws and the happy constitution of this realm.

[Presented by the Earl of Radnor.]

To His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's dutiful subjects, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council, of the city of Bath, in Common Council assembled, beg leave to lay before your Royal Highness our sentiments of sincere condolence on the late tragical event which has deprived the British empire of one of its brightest ornaments, the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval, First Commissioner of His Majesty's Treasury, and Chancellor of the Exchequer, and to express our detestation and abhorrence of the atrocious deed.

It is, however, some consolation to us at this particular crisis to find, that it was the cruel act of a desperate individual, and not the concerted plan of a seditious and disaffected party.

We crave permission also to profess the satisfaction we feel on observing the prompt means used by Parliament to enable your Royal Highness to make a suitable provision for the afflicted widow and family of that able and upright statesman, whose loss we cannot sufficiently deplore.

Allow us, most gracious Prince, to avail ourselves of the opportunity which this lamented event affords us, to present our assurances of loyalty and devotion to His Majesty's sacred person and government, and to the person and administration of his illustrious representative, and we do not hesitate pledge ourselves, that no exertions shall be wanted on our part in assisting to give efficacy to those measures, which the wisdom of your Royal Highness's council, aided by Parliament, may judge best calculated to maintain the integrity of our excellent constitution, and to secure the rights, the tranquillity, and happiness of the people.

Given under our Common Seal of the said city, this 18th day of May 1812.

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT of the United Empire of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble Address of the Mayor, Recorder, Aldermen, and Common Councilmen of the City of Exeter.

MAY it please your Royal Highness to permit us, His Majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the Mayor, Recorder, Aldermen, and Common Councilmen of the City of Exeter, in Chamber assembled, humbly to express the continuance of our firm, faithful, and loyal attachment to our most gracious Sovereign and to his august Family; to whom, under Providence, the people of this empire are indebted for blessings of civil and religious liberty superior to those which have been dispensed to any other nation upon the face of the earth: It has fallen to our lot, to grieve for the calamity of seeing our beloved Monarch, alike the object of our gratitude and veneration, depressed with age and infirmities, through incessant care for the good of his subjects during a long and arduous reign. We have also had the consolation to experience at this afflicting period, the never-failing goodness of the Almighty Ruler of the Universe, in raising up to us, in your royal person, the most perfect source of confidence for protection by wise and vigorous councils, calculated to surmount every difficulty, and to repel every danger.

Feeling as we do, most gracious Prince, for the regard you were pleased to display for the good of our country, in continuing the services of that virtuous and able Statesman, the now much-lamented Mr. Perceval, we beg leave to condole with your Royal Highness upon his untimely death, through means the most atrocious. His memory will ever be endeared to us by his zeal for his Sovereign and his Country, by his indefatigable exertions in your Royal Highness's service, and by his pure and upright conduct in every department of State. Snatched by lawless violence, without a moment's warning, he fell a model of every private and public virtue.

At such a crisis as the present, Sir, when some parts of the empire are become scenes of tumult and outrage, when the ordinary course of justice for preserving the public peace, and protecting the persons and property of the King's well-affected subjects, is openly set at defiance, we have to implore, that the continuance of the wisdom and energy of your councils, which, by the Divine blessing, have successfully checked the progress of tyranny in foreign countries, may be equally prosperous in suppressing the efforts of insubordination at home; and that, under the auspices of your illustrious family, the people of this united empire may long, very long, be sensible of the blessings of good government, and of the allegiance they owe to it.

Given under our Common Seal, at the Council Chamber of the Guildhall of the said City, on the 16th day of May, in the year of our Lord 1812.

[Presented by James Buller, Esq; M. P. for Exeter.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Mayor, Aldermen, Bailiffs, and Common Council, of the borough of Liverpool, in Special Council assembled, feel it our peculiar duty at this moment, humbly to approach your Royal Highness with our sincere condolence on the death of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval, First Commissioner of His Majesty's Treasury, and Chancellor of the Exchequer, who, in his way to the discharge of the important duties of his office, and within the very walls of the Honourable House of Commons, has fallen by the hand of an assassin.

When we reflect that the history of this country will proclaim a series of events, which have rendered us conspicuous in the eyes of the world for every quality that can exalt a nation, we are the more impressed with sorrow and indignation that one page will be stained by recording an act, which is a disgrace to civilized society, and is without its parallel for cruelty and atrocity, as the object of the assassin's vengeance was singularly eminent for the virtues which most adorn and endear the private character, and for that integrity and ability which render the life of a statesman of the greatest importance to his country.

We derive some consolation however now from the reflection that this horrid deed was conceived and perpetrated by a malignant and revengeful individual, unconnected with any of those disgraceful proceedings which have lately occurred in some parts of the kingdom.

We are anxious to express to your Royal Highness our feelings of detestation and horror at an act which has deprived your Royal Highness of a most valuable servant, and the country of an upright and enlightened statesman, and on an event so much to be deplored, humbly to offer to your Royal Highness our strongest assurances of loyalty and attachment to your Royal Highness's person and family, and of our fixed determination to support on every occasion the honour and dignity of the crown.

Given under our Common Seal, at Liverpool, this 18th day of May 1812.

[Presented by the Worshipful the Mayor of Liverpool, Alderman J. B. Aspinall, Esq. Thomas Corrie, Bailiff, accompanied by General Tarleton and General Gascoyne.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the undersigned, Gentlemen, Clergy, Merchants, and others, Inhabitants of the borough of Liverpool, beg leave humbly to approach your Royal Highness, with our heartfelt condolence on the melancholy and afflicting loss which your Royal Highness and the country have sustained in the death of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval.

Whilst in common with every British subject, we contemplate with feelings of unmixed indignation one of the most atrocious acts which has ever disgraced the annals of our history, our regret is the more poignant from the consideration that the assassin was an inhabitant of this ancient and truly loyal town, yet we have some alleviation in the reflection that this town is free from the disgrace of having given him birth, and that his residence has been so transient that his name is scarcely known amongst us.

Struck with the deepest horror, we cannot but express our astonishment that such an event could have happened in England, and we hasten to vindicate, as far as it is in our power, the insulted character of our country, by expressing in the strongest manner our abhorrence and detestation of an act which is a disgrace to civilized society, and which loudly calls for the marked reprobation of every friend to humanity.

Impressed with these feelings, we cannot refrain from making them known to your Royal Highness, and from assuring your Royal Highness of our zealous and ardent attachment to your Royal Highness's person and family, and of our sincere participation in your Royal Highness's regret for the loss of one, whom, however some of us may have differed from with respect to his political opinions, yet we have all of us never ceased to admire for the lofty elevation of his mind, the firm integrity of his principles, and the bright display of all those milder virtues which adorned his private life.

[Presented by John Bolton, Arthur Heywood, and J. B. Aspinall, Esqrs.; General Tarleton and Lieutenant-General Gascoyne, accompanied the above Gentlemen.]

To His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The Humble and unanimous Address of the Mayor, Recorder, Aldermen, Commonalty, and Inhabitants of the Borough of Hertford.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Mayor, Recorder, Aldermen, Commonalty, and Inhabitants of the ancient and loyal Borough of Hertford, most humbly beg leave to approach your Royal Highness, to offer our sincere condolence, and to express our horror and indignation at the lamented and atrocious assassination of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval, First Lord of His Majesty's Treasury and Chancellor of the Exchequer, the purity and integrity of whose character have been acknowledged, not only by his private friends, but by his political opponents.

We have observed with heartfelt satisfaction the ardour with which both Houses of Parliament have unanimously given testimony of his transcendent virtues, and we join with them in the strongest detestation of the atrocious act of the assassin; who (by a crime which has been always held in abhorrence by Englishmen) has plunged into deep distress a numerous and amiable family, and a generous and feeling people.

Whilst we thus humbly address to the throne our sorrow for this public and private loss, we at the same time beg leave to express our confidence that the assassin (on whom the just vengeance of the law has fallen) stood unconnected in his crime, and that no views of a political nature raised his arm against the innocent victim of his unjust revenge.

We are indeed persuaded, that the country at large are sensible of the peculiar blessings of our invaluable constitution; and we beg leave to assure your Royal Highness of our unchangeable and devoted attachment to your royal house and person, and of our firm resolution to exert our strenuous endeavours to preserve inviolate the crown and dignity of these dominions.

By order of the meeting,

Cherry, Town Clerk.

[Presented by Mr. Couper and Mr. Cabvert.]

To His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble Address of the Bailiffs, Portmen, Common Councilmen, Free Burgesses, and Inhabitants of the Town and Borough of Ipswich, in the County of Suffolk.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Bailiffs, Portmen, Common Councilmen, Free Burgesses, and Inhabitants of the Town and Borough of Ipswich, presume to approach the throne, to express to your Royal Highness the sentiments of abhorrence and detestation excited in our minds by the wicked and atrocious act of assassination committed on the person of the late Right Honourable Spencer Perceval, First Commissioner of the Treasury and Chancellor of the Exchequer, within the walls of the Honourable House of Commons.

The crime of assassination is such as the feelings of Britons have ever indignantly revolted at, and which cannot fail of casting a stigma upon the national character, unless instantly effaced by a general expression of public abhorrence; and we fervently hope and trust that it will never again disgrace the British name.

Permit us to assure your Royal Highness of our firm attachment to your royal house and government, and our determination to support the crown and dignity of the united kingdom.

[Presented by Mr. Crickitt.]

To His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble and dutiful Address and Condolence of the Mayor, Aldermen, Burgesses, and other Inhabitants of the Borough of Reading, in the County of Berks.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Mayor, Aldermen, Burgesses, and other Inhabitants of the Borough of Reading, humbly beg leave to offer to your Royal Highness the assurance of our loyalty and attachment to your person and government, and of our firm and devoted reverence and affection to the laws and constitution of our country.

We feel most sensibly the outrage which has been committed against these laws, in the recent assassination of the Right Honourable Spencer Percéval, First Lord Commissioner of the Treasury, and Chancellor of the Exchequer. We lament the foul stain which has been thrown on the national character of England by this atrocious act, and cannot sufficiently express our detestation and abhorrence of this horrid and almost unprecedented crime, and of the person who committed it. More particularly we deplore and regret the great and heavy loss which your Royal Highness's council and the nation have sustained at this critical period, in the death of a most able, virtuous, and uncorrupt Minister, whose probity and integrity, whose many public and private virtues are acknowledged even by those who differed from his political opinions, and whose name and character will be transmitted in the fairest colours to succeeding ages.

We earnestly implore the protection of that gracious Providence, which has hitherto delivered us from the common ruin, which has so rapidly overwhelmed the nations of the Continent; and we indulge the pleasing hope, that, under the auspicious council and direction of your Royal Highness, the united kingdom may still be preserved free and inviolate, and may, under the Divine Favour, ultimately prove the means of restoring the oppressed nations of Europe to liberty and peace.

[Presented by the High Steward, Members, and Recorder.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

The humble address of the Noblemen, Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the County of Ayr, assembled here this day by public Advertisement.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Noblemen, Freeholders, Justices of Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the County of Ayr, assembled on special notice, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with the assurance of our most sincere and dutiful attachment. While we unite with the rest of His Majesty's faithful subjects in deeply lamenting His Majesty's continued indisposition, we feel grateful to Providence that the government of these realms has devolved upon a Prince, who has demonstrated by the whole of his conduct, both during the period of his restricted regency and since its expiration, that his highest ambition is to walk in the footsteps of his illustrious father, and to adhere to that line of policy which has so effectually contributed to uphold, amidst the wreck of nations, the honour, independence, and security of the British islands.

We beg leave to offer to your Royal Highness our most cordial congratulations on the numerous and brilliant successes which have every where crowned the efforts of the British arms, during the period of your Royal Highness's administration of the government of the state. We have received with the highest satisfaction and gratitude the assurances which your Royal Highness has afforded, of your determination to adhere with unshaken constancy to the cause of our allies in the Peninsula, and to maintain against every aggression those maritime rights, on which the stability and welfare of His Majesty's dominions so essentially depend.

Convinced as we are by our past experience, that your Royal Highness has no other objects in view but such as are directed to the prosperity and happiness of the people at large, we look forward with the utmost confidence to the future, and rely upon your Royal Highness continuing, in the discharge of your sacred trust, to act upon those principles which are best calculated to ensure the safety and preserve the honour of the British nation.

Signed by our Preses, in our presence, and by our appointment, at Ayr, this 5th day of April 1812. Glasgow, Preses.

[Presented by Sir Hew Dalrymple Hamilton.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

WE, His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply, of the county of Fife, beg leave at this juncture to approach your Royal Highness with sentiments of sincere attachment to your person and government. While we unite with our fellow subjects in deploring the heavy calamity which deprives us of the paternal care of our revered Sovereign, we feel consolation in the reflection that the government has devolved on your Royal Highness, and that you are at full liberty to follow such measures as are best calculated to promote the public welfare. We are fully sensible of the arduous nature of the task which has devolved on your Royal Highness, and hope the period is not distant when every description of His Majesty's subjects will exert their best energies to aid you in the discharge of them.

We beg leave to congratulate your Royal Highness on the brilliant commencement of your government, and the late splendid success of the British arms, and we hope and trust that, under your Royal Highness's auspices, the safety, glory, and prosperity of the united empire will long continue unimpaired.

We feel for the privations and burdens to which the lower classes are at present subjected; and will in our respective spheres do all in our power to alleviate them, but these the nature of the contest in which we are engaged renders unavoidable. We hope however that a vigorous and united exertion will render them merely temporary, and that the thinking part of the community will reflect on the magnitude of the stake we have at issue, (involving our existence as a nation, and every thing that is dear in social life), and will contrast their own situation and the comforts they enjoy, with the horror and miseries to which surrounding nations are exposed.

We take the liberty of tendering your Royal Highness assurances of our most cordial and zealous support, and of our firm determination to risk every thing at our disposal for the preservation of that constitution under which we and our ancestors have enjoyed prosperity and happiness, and we confidently hope that by the aid of Divine Providence, the blessings we enjoy, both civil and religious, will under your Royal Highness's illustrious family be handed down unimpaired to the latest posterity.

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council of the Royal Burgh of Dunfermline, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with the warmest sentiments of attachment to your person, and respect for your government; and to express the strong feeling of admiration and gratitude which have been impressed upon us by the firm, dignified, and patriotic conduct of your Royal Highness, on your assuming the unrestricted government of the empire.

In common with every description of His Majesty's subjects, we sincerely lament the continued indisposition of our venerable and beloved Sovereign, who, through so long a series of years, and in times the most eventful and disastrous to the nations of Europe, has happily governed these kingdoms, ever proving himself the father and best friend of his people; but we feel this calamity the less, while we see the administration of the government placed in the hands of a Prince, who, with his father's firmness of character, unites his father's anxiety and zeal for his people's welfare; and whose patriotic principles and liberal views of impartial usefulness, we confidently trust, neither the clamours of faction, nor the studied misrepresentations of party, will ever shake.

We beg leave to offer our humble congratulations on the splendid events by which your Royal Highness's government has been distinguished, especially in Spain and Portugal; and while we rejoice to revere in your Royal Highness, a determined supporter of a cause so noble and so congenial with the British spirit, as that maintained in those kingdoms against the gross usurpations of the common enemy of mankind, we confidently trust, that, through the blessing of Providence, this glorious struggle will in its issue prove equally favourable to the interests of Europe and of the world, as from its commencement it has been glorious to the British name.

The auspicious commencement of your Royal Highness's government gives us the firmest confidence, that, under your administration, the prosperity, the happiness, and the glory of this great empire will not only continue unimpaired, but descend to posterity with increased and increasing splendour.

Signed in our name, by our appointment, and in our presence, and the seal of the said burgh hereto affixed, this 24th day of April 1812,

D. Wilson, Provost.

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Magistrates and Council of the ancient Borough of Inverkeithing, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with sentiments of the warmest attachment to your person and government.

We lament, in common with His Majesty's subjects, the continued indisposition of our beloved Sovereign, who, through so many happy years, has proved himself the father and the friend of his people; but we feel this national calamity the less, while the government of the empire is entrusted to a Prince who has his father's firmness and zeal for the public welfare, in maintaining those civil and religious privileges which these happy kingdoms have enjoyed since the Revolution.

We beg leave to offer our humble congratulations on the splendid events which have hitherto distinguished your Royal Highness's government; and we rejoice particularly in those brilliant successes attending His Majesty's troops in the East Indies, Spain, and Portugal; against the common enemy; and trusting to your Royal Highness's support in so noble a cause, we hope it will prove in its issue not less favourable to the interests of Europe than it has been glorious to Britain.

Under your Royal Highness's government we hope the glory, the prosperity, and happiness of these kingdoms will not only continue their splendid course, but will descend to our posterity with increased lustre.

Signed in our name, and by our appointment, and the seal of the said borough is hereto affixed, this 29th day of April 1812.
