From Saturday, June 13, to Tuesday, June 16, 1812.

THE following Addresses have been presented to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent; which Addresses His Royal Highness was pleased to receive very graciously:

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Mayor, Recorder, Aldermen, and Commonalty of the City of Durham and Framwelgate, assembled in Guildhall, most humbly offer to your Royal Highness our sincere condolence on the late most atrocious murder of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval, in the act of discharging his public duty—a man who, by his private virtues, obtained very general admiration and esteem.

In the midst of our deep-felt regret, it is a peculiar comfort to reflect, that this deplored deed was the work of one malignant mind, and that it has excited general grief and abhorrence.

Whilst thus approaching your Royal Highness in the mingled language of sorrow and consolation, suffer us also to present our most faithful assurances of sincere attachment to your Royal Highness; of our steadfast loyalty to our revered Sovereign; and fervent zeal for the tranquillity, welfare, and honour of our beloved country.

In testimony whereof, we have caused the corporate seal of the said City to be hereunto affixed, this 27th day of May in the year of our Lord 1812.

Thos. Chipchase, jun. Mayor.

[Presented by Mr. R. Lambton, and Mr. Wharton.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Mayor, Recorder, Aldermen, and Capital Citizens of the City of Carlisle, in Council assembled, beg leave to offer to your Royal Highness our condolence, and to express our detestation and horror at the late unexampled act of atrocity, which has stained the very threshold of the Commons' House of Parliament with the blood of your Royal Highness's late Minister, the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval, and thereby deprived your Royal Highness and the country of the services of one of the most virtuous and enlightened statesmen that has ever appeared in these or any other times—a man on whom the country had justly founded her dearest hopes, as the person best qualified to secure the happiness of the people in these agitated and turbulent times, and to ensure a glorious termination to the arduous struggle in which we are engaged, for the preservation of our just rights and the maintenance of the liberties of Europe. And also to express our entire confidence in the wisdom and patriotism of your Royal Highness, in making choice of such Ministers as will virtuously and vigorously determine to maintain the honour and dignity of the crown, with the safety and happiness of the people.

Given under the common seal of the said City, the 29th May 1812.

George Blamire, Mayor.

[Presented by Mr. Spencer Stanhope.]

To His Royal Highness GEORGE, PRINCE REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

WE, the Mayor, Bailiffs, and Commonalty of the City of Oxford, in Common Council assembled, humbly beg leave to express to your Royal Highness our heartfelt abhorrence of the foul assassination of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval.

Deeply impressed as we are with a sense of Mr. Perceval's public services and private virtues, it is not without the strongest feelings of concern and regret that we condole with your Royal Highness upon the loss of so faithful a servant of the crown, so able and upright a Minister to the country, and so distinguished an ornament to society.

Amidst the affliction, however, of the melancholy catastrophe, we have felt great relief and satisfaction from the alacrity displayed by Parliament to provide suitably for Mr. Perceval's family; a measure, indeed, of indispensable justice, as arising out of the manner and circumstances of his death, yet rendered doubly acceptable by the universal tribute, with which it was accompanied, to the merits of that lamented statesman.

To this alleviation of private sufferings, as a source of consolation, permit us to add our confidence in your Royal Highness's wisdom for repair ing, so far as is possible, the public loss of Mr. Perceval; a confidence justly founded upon the course of your government hitherto, and inspiring us with a firm reliance that your Royal Highness will supply this awful chasm in the public service in such a manner as shall be best calculated to uphold the honour of the crown, and the interests of the empire.

Given under our common seal the 2d day of June in the year of our Lord 1812.

[Presented by Edward Hutchins, Esq. Mayor, and J. H. Lockhart, Esq. one of the Representatives in Parliament for that City.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

WE, the Inhabitants of His Majesty's most ancient and loyal City of Chester, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness, humbly to offer our deep and fervent condolence on the melancholy event of the murder of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval, His Majesty's late First Minister and Chancellor of the Exchequer, at the entrance of the Commons House of Parliament. A murder the more atrocious and abhorrent, from its having been committed upon a man, who, as universally allowed, united to very splendid talents, the most benevolent heart. We, however, derive in this moment of sorrow, a degree of consolation from the gratifying consideration, that the perpetrator of the dreadful crime, as acknowledged by his confession, had neither abettor or associate in producing this ever-to-be-regretted catastrophe. Relying with high confidence upon the firm and patriotic conduct of your Royal Highness, in your government of the United Kingdom at this arduous and truly awful period, we are, with great deference, your Royal Highness's most dutiful and most loyal subjects.

Signed, on behalf of the inhabitants,
2d June 1812. Robt. Bowers, Mayor.

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

The humble Address of the Inhabitants of the City of Aberdeen.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Inhabitants of the City of Aberdeen, beg leave in the most respectful manner, to approach your Royal Highness, to express our sincere condolence, on the great loss which your Royal Highness and the country have sustained, in the atrocious murder of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval, First Lord Commissioner of His Majesty's Treasury, and Chancellor of the Exchequer.

A deed so wicked and barbarous, and perpetrated almost in the presence of the British Senate, on the person of an able, upright, and highly esteemed Minister, has excited in this populous commercial city, the utmost detestation and horror.

We are sensible of the blessings, which all His Majesty's subjects enjoy, under the wise and auspicious administration of your Royal Highness; and we deeply lament that desperately foolish depravity, which has of late disturbed and afflicted some parts of the kingdom, by alarming and destructive riots.

It affords us peculiar satisfaction to be able to assure your Royal Highness, of the continued loyalty, good order, and peaceable dispositions of the numerous inhabitants of this city and neighbourhood, which in our several stations, it shall be our constant endeavour to encourage and promote.

Engaged by all the ties of duty, and of interest, we will ever persevere with unalterable zeal and affection, in our reverence for the constitution and laws of the realm, and attachment to your royal person and illustrious house.

[Presented by the Marquis of Huntley.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

PERMIT us, the Mayor, Aldermen, Chief Citizens, and principal Inhabitants, of the City of Hereford, to approach the throne of these realms, with sentiments of dutiful allegiance to your Royal Highness, and unfeigned attachment to the principles of the constitution.

We deeply deplore the atrocious and horrid murder of the late Right Honourable Spencer Perceval, in the important discharge of his great and public duties; and while we offer our sincere condolence on that lamentable transaction, and join in the general expression of indignation against it, we earnestly pray, that, under Divine Providence, no future events may tend to disappoint our anxious wishes for the happiness of your Royal Highness, and the prosperity of your government.

Hereford, May 22, 1812.

[Presented by Mr. Scudamore, M. P. for Hereford, accompanied by His Grace the Duke of Norfolk.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral Church of St. Peter, in Exeter, humbly beg leave to approach your royal presence with sentiments of the sincerest grief at the atrocious murder of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval, by the hand of a desperate assassin. A Minister whose eminent services, exalted virtues, and transcendent talents, had justly recommended him to your Royal Highness to conduct the affairs of this nation; has thus been suddenly removed from us in the discharge of his duty to the crown and country, to the disappointment of those hopes which the public had formed that, through his abilities and unblemished integrity, under the auspices and protection of your Royal Highness, the difficulties of the country might have been in time removed, and peace and tranquillity restored to an united and happy people.

Whilst we thus lament and express our abhorrence of this atrocious act, we rejoice at the justice which has been done to his memory by the unanimous expressions of the national regret, and the universal admission of those numerous virtues which entitle him to the gratitude of his country, and have recommended his afflicted family to the munificent protection of your Royal Highness and a generous people.

We beg to lay before your Royal Highness, assurances of our unalterable attachment to your royal person and government; our sincere respect and affection for your illustrious house; and full conviction that the happiness and welfare of the people committed to your care will, upon all occasions, be the ruling motives that will actuate every measure of your Royal Highness's government.

Given under our common seal the 2d day of June, in the year of our Lord 1812.

[Presented by John Gurnett, Dean of Exeter, and the Bishop of Exeter and Chancellor Pevey, Canons.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

The humble Address of the greater Part of the Heads of Colleges, of the Doctors, Professors and Masters of Arts, resident in the University of Cambridge.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, whose names are underwritten, being the greater part of the Heads of Colleges, of the Doctors, Professors and Masters of Arts, resident Members of the Senate of the University of Cambridge, humbly beg leave to express to your Royal Highness our grief and horror at the late melancholy and afflicting event which, by the most desperate and atrocious act of assassination, within the walls of the House of Parliament, has deprived your Royal Highness and the country of the services of the late Right Honourable Spencer Perceval.

In this expression of our feelings, we are aware how much they are in unison with those of the empire at large: but to us, as members of an University, to whom the promise of so many public and private virtues was given, and whose expectations therein have been so fully gratified, we trust that a more than ordinary concern may be allowed on this awful and melancholy occasion; and that those virtues which, while he lived, were peculiarly the objects of our exultation, may, now that he is no more, be those also of our more affectionate remembrance.

But, independently of all immediate connection with the subject of our regret, we still humbly hope, that in thus expressing our attachment to the memory of an eminently virtuous man, we shall not be considered by your Royal Highness as acting otherwise than in the best conformity to the duties of our situation, connected as it is with the great and important purposes of education, and founded upon the principles of religion and virtue.

Dated Trinity College Lodge, in the University of Cambridge, May 21, 1812.

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble Address of the Inhabitants of the Town of Dudley.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, the Inhabitants of the Town of Dudley, consider ourselves called upon humbly to offer to your Royal Highness our heartfelt condolence on an event so lamentable as the assassination of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval, whilst in the conscientious discharge of his public duties as Prime Minister of these realms.

We contemplate with feelings of indignation and grief, an act so singularly atrocious and unprovoked.

We beg to add the assurance of our zealous and ardent attachment to your Royal Highness's person, and to our constitution in church and state; and our sincere participation in your Royal Highness's regret for the loss of an individual, distinguished alike by his integrity, by his firmness of mind, by his commanding eloquence, and by the bright display of every private virtue.

Signed, by order of the meeting,

Thos. Hawkes, Chairman.

[Transmitted by Thos. Hawkes, Esq. and presented by Lord Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Noblemen, Gentlemen, Clergy, and Freeholders of the County of Glamorgan, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness, to express our horror and indignation at the atrocious assassination of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval; the purity and integrity of whose character is acknowledged, not only by his private friends, but by his political opponents.

We have observed with much satisfaction, the ardour with which both Houses of Parliament have unanimously given testimony to his virtues; and we join with them in the strongest detestation of the atrocious act of the assassin, who (by a crime held in abhorrence by Britons) has plunged into deep distress a numerous and amiable family. Whilst we humbly address to the throne our sorrow on this occasion, we at the same time beg to express our confidence, that the assassin (on whom the just vengeance of the law has fallen) stood unconnected in his crime, and that no views of a political nature raised his arm against the innocent victim of his unjust revenge.

We beg to assure your Royal Highness, that we are truly sensible of the benefits and blessings we have enjoyed under our beloved Monarch, your august father, of our attachment to your illustrious house, and that we are firmly resolved to exert our strenuous endeavours to preserve inviolate our excellent constitution.

Signed, at the request, and in behalf of the meeting,

Morgan Popkin Traherne, Sheriff.

[Transmitted by Mr. Wyndham, and presented by Lord Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

The humble and dutiful Address and Condolence of the Noblemen, Gentlemen, Clergy, Freeholders, and Inhabitants, of the County of Leicester.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the undersigned Noblemen, Gentlemen, Clergy, Freeholders, and Inhabitants, of the County of Leicester, beg leave humbly to lay before your Royal Highness, our sincere condolence upon the recent atrocious act of murder committed upon the person of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval, First Lord of the Treasury, and Chancellor of the Exchequer, within the walls of Parliament, and to assure your Royal Highness of our unfeigned participation in those sentiments of grief so feelingly expressed by your Royal Highness, in the public communications to Parliament upon that lamentable occasion.

In reflecting upon this horrid and detestable transaction, we are convinced that it must be viewed by all ranks of His Majesty's subjects with those sentiments of disgust and execration, which it so justly merits, and that our name as a nation will be rescued from the foul stain of any participation in the odious and disgraceful crime of assassination, so foreign to the open and generous feelings of Britons; and we have the melancholy consolation of belief, that this base deed was the act of a desperate but single individual, under the furious and unfounded impulse of resentment for supposed private wrongs. Against such a charge, even were the facts less public, it would be sufficient to record the amiable and unoffending character, the many private virtues, and the unquestioned public integrity, of your Royal Highness's late faithful servant; but moreover we know that the assassin himself lamented the direction of his wicked and misguided vengeance, which has thus snatched from his family a man endowed with every moral virtue, and from his country a statesman, who by a truly disinterested exercise of eminent talents, and a most conciliatory spirit, has not left to himself one personal enemy, even amongst his political opponents, and whose loss has produced the rare but genuine tribute of unanimous and universal grief.

We beg leave at the same time to assure your Royal Highness, that we most deeply deplore the excesses late committed in violation of the public peace, in various districts; but trust that the established authorities of the realm, aided by the good sense of the people, will cause these disgraceful scenes to cease from amongst us, and humbly implore the blessings of Providence on your Royal Highness's endeavours to promote the public welfare, and further beg permission to express our humble but firm determination to use our most strenuous exertions, whenever necessary, in support of the due execution of the laws, and in the maintenance of public tranquillity.—June 5, 1812.

Signed, in our name, in our presence, and at our appointment, by Richard Cheslyn, Sheriff.

[Presented by Richard Cheslyn, Esq. High Sheriff.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

WE, His Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, the Inhabitants of the County of Denbigh, beg leave to express to your Royal Highness the unfeigned horror, detestation, and grief, we feel in contemplating the cruel assassination of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval; by which diabolical act, your Royal Highness and the country have been deprived of the services of an upright, faithful, and able Minister, society of one of its most amiable ornaments, religion of one of its most zealous supporters, and his family have sustained a loss that no human means can adequately repair. While we declare our abhorrence of such an atrocious act, and condole with your Royal Highness on the melancholy occasion, we feel some consolation, that it doth not appear from the trial of the assassin, that this execrable act formed a part of any sanguinary system planned by numbers, to overturn the constitution of this country, under which we enjoy so many and great blessings, and which we feel it to be our bounden duty to support to the utmost of our power.

We most cordially approve of, and humbly thank your Royal Highness for, your recommendation to Parliament, to make such a provision for the afflicted family of the deceased, as justice and the honour of the country imperiously require.

Signed by the request of the meeting, held at Ruthin the 26th day of May 1812,

M. Edwards, Sheriff.

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble Address of the Gentlemen, Clergy, and Inhabitants, Freeholders of the County of Radnor.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Freeholders of the County of Radnor, penetrated with sentiments of dutiful and loyal attachment, beg leave humbly to approach your Royal Highness, for the purpose of respectfully tendering to you our condolence on the loss your Royal Highness has recently suffered by the murder of the late Right Honourable Spencer Perceval, at the door of the Commons House of Parliament, into which he was about to enter in the execution of his duty, as the first public servant of your Royal Highness and of his country.

An act so atrocious in its nature, as the assassination of Mr. Perceval, so sanguinary and diabolical in its performance, and so unprovoked on the part of the unfortunate victim, has seldom stained the annals of our history. In the present instance, however, it is a consolation to reflect, that there is strong reason to believe the crime was the crime of an individual, and consequently that its perpetration does not involve the character of the nation.

We presume that your Royal Highness, under the pressure of so sudden and severe a misfortune, found some relief from seeing the eagerness which persons, who differed from him in political opinions, manifested to express an honourable testimony of the public and private virtues of your late Minister: and we beg leave humbly to express our gratitude to your Royal Highness for the care and protection you so early and graciously extended to his afflicted and numerous family—in an act so consonant to your Royal Highness's natural benevolence and humanity, we are persuaded the sentiments and wishes of the nation kept pace with those of your Royal Highness.

We are happy in this opportunity of renewing our professions of veneration and attachment to our venerable and beloved monarch and his family ; and we beg to assure your Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, that no portion of the inhabitants of the Principality are more loyally attached to your person, or more ready and zealous to perform their duty to their King and their country, than the freeholders of the County of Radnor.

We implore the Almighty to grant your Royal Highness all prosperity.

On behalf of the County Meeting,
Thos. Grove, jun. Sheriff.

To His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble and dutiful Address of the Inhabitants of the Town and County of the Town of Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Inhabitants of the Town and County of the Town of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, deeply lamenting the death of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval, inflicted by the hand of a desperate assassin, within the walls of the House of Commons, humbly beg permission to condole with your Royal Highness on this calamitous event.

Highly revering the memory of the deceased Minister, we cannot but take a lively interest in the future welfare of his numerous family ; and we look forward with much consolation to the provision which, we trust, they will soon receive from the liberality of Parliament, under the auspices of your Royal Highness's gracious recommendation.

We have observed, with very painful sensations, the spirit of insubordination that prevails in many parts of the kingdom, and which, in some districts, has ended in acts of the most criminal violence ; but, above all, we regard with horror and detestation the atrocious attempts of those execrable traitors who have dared to threaten the life of your Royal Highness, by anonymous letters of the most malignant tendency : and we are anxious to approach your Royal Highness with our sincerest professions of dutiful attachment and loyalty, and to assure your Royal Highness, that no exertions shall be wanting on our part which may contribute to the defence and safety of your royal person, and the constitutional support of the laws and government of our country.

[Presented by Sir Matthew White Ridley and Mr. Brandling]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

WE, the Nobility, Gentlemen, Clergy, and Freeholders, of the County of Montgomery, humbly beg leave to tender to your Royal Highness those feelings of horror and detestation which we feel, in common with the rest of His Majesty's loyal subjects, on the late assassination of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval.

Deploring, as we ever must, the loss of so upright a statesman, and so valuable a member of society, we have no language to convey to your Royal Highness those feelings of abhorrence, which have been excited by the manner in which that loss has been occasioned. We take, however, to ourselves the only consolation which is left us, that the national character has in no degree been implicated in the perpetration of the crime ; but that it has been committed from a horrid motive of revenge for fancied injuries, in no ways originating in the British Government.

We beg leave on this occasion, further to assure your Royal Highness of our firm attachment to our Sovereign, our Prince, and our Constitution ; and to express our confidence, that in the maintenance of the laws and the constitution, the County of Montgomery will ever be forward to extend its support.

Signed, on behalf of the Nobility, Gentlemen, Clergy, and Freeholders, of the County of Montgomery, Geo. Meares, High Sheriff.

[Presented by C. W. W. Wynn, Esq. M. P. for the County, accompanied by Sir W. W. Wynn, Bart. M. P. and Sir Edward Lloyd, M. P.]

To His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble Address and Condolence of the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, and Freeholders of the County of Northampton, at a Meeting called by the High Sheriff, on Tuesday the 26th day of May 1812.

WE, the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, and Freeholders of the County of Northampton, humbly beg leave to offer our condolence to your Royal Highness, and to express our horror and detestation of the atrocious murder of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval.

Odious as the act of assassination must be, in every conceivable case, to the brave and generous feelings of Britons—the high station, the amiable and unoffending character of the person, the very place where he fell in the discharge of his important public duties, beyond measure aggravate and increase our indignation at an offence which, by its unexampled atrocity, has cast a stain on the national character. The only consolation we have arises from the reflection, that this horrible deed was the single act of an unconnected individual ; and the conviction that it must be viewed, by all ranks of His Majesty's subjects, with sentiments of disgust and execration, calculated to prevent the recurrence of so foul an act.

In this county, where he was personally known and universally beloved, we feel ourselves best qualified and peculiarly called upon to bear an early testimony to the numberless private and public virtues, and the unquestioned talents, integrity, and patriotism of this eminent statesman, whose conciliating spirit has left him no personal enemy, even among his political opponents ; and whose loss as an able and an upright man, untimely snatched from his family, his friends, and his country, all parties concur in deploring.

We desire to express our satisfaction that a provision has been made for the family of your Highness's late Prime Minister, becoming the dignity of this great empire towards a person in that station, who has lost his life in its immediate service.

We beg permission further to assure your Royal Highness of our steady attachment to your royal house and person, and our fixed determination to afford protection, as far as in us lies, to the public servants of the state, in the conscientious discharge of the trusts committed to them.

Signed, by order and on behalf of the meeting,
Peter Denys, Sheriff.

[Presented by the High Sheriff, the Members for the County; accompanied by Lords Spencer, Pomfret, and Lilford; Sir Charles Knightley; and Messrs. Carter, Isted, Sawbridge, Thursly, and others.]

To His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble, dutiful, and loyal Address of the Mayor, Bailiffs, Burgesses, and other the Inhabitants of the Town of Northampton.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Mayor, Bailiffs, Burgesses, and other the Inhabitants of the Town of Northampton, assembled in the Guildhall of the said town on Thursday the 28th of May 1812, pursuant to public notice, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with sentiments of the deepest sorrow and regret, in order to express our utmost horror and detestation of one of the foulest and most atrocious acts of murder on the person of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval that ever stained the annals of the country, as being committed within the walls of the House of Commons, on his way to discharge the high and important duties of his office as Prime Minister of these realms.

By this dire calamity your Royal Highness has been deprived of a most faithful and confidential servant; the country of one of its brightest ornaments as a statesman, a man, and a Christian; and ourselves of a Representative in Parliament, of whose valuable services for upwards of sixteen years we shall ever cherish the most grateful recollection.

While similar sentiments of sorrow and regret are daily tendered to your Royal Highness on this most melancholy event, we feel ourselves more particularly called upon to express to your Royal Highness our most heartfelt condolence for the loss of so great and so good a man.

If any thing, however, could alleviate the painful impression which is so generally felt on this mournful occasion, it is the consoling assurance we derive from the measures which Parliament have already adopted, in consequence of your Royal Highness's most gracious recommendation, that the family of this great and lamented statesman, thus cruelly bereft of a husband, a father, and a protector, will not be left destitute of a provision, at once suited to their rank in society, to the meritorious services of their departed relative, and to the character and dignity of the nation.

For this mark of your Royal Highness's gracious and humane sympathy in the feelings of an afflicted family, we, who have been so long and so intimately connected with Mr. Perceval, and whose loss we now so sincerely deplore, particularly entreat permission most strongly to express our lively sense of gratitude.

We finally beg your Royal Highness will accept the most solemn assurances of our unalterable loyalty and attachment to His Majesty's person and family, and to the government of the country now entrusted to the care of your Royal Highness.

Signed, by order of the meeting,
John Chambers, Mayor.

[Presented by Lord Compton, accompanied by Mr. Hanbury.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, the Gentlemen, Clergy, Freeholders, and other Inhabitants of the County of Flint, consider ourselves called upon humbly to offer to your Royal Highness our heartfelt condolence on an event so lamentable as the assassination of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval, whilst in the conscientious discharge of his public duties as Prime Minister of these realms. We contemplate with feelings of indignation and grief, an act so singularly atrocious and unprovoked, and whilst our minds recoil from the idea that there have been some few wretches wicked and base enough to shew symptoms of applause at the commission of so foul and black a deed, and that the page of English history will be sullied by recording it, yet we derive consolation from the recollection and knowledge that those wretches were so few in number, and so locally situated, that they are only like a black spot (from which the brightest luminary is not exempt) in the body of the nation, and that that history will exhibit to the world a Prince of Wales dignified less by the splendour of his situation than by his conduct as a man on so melancholy an occasion, and a nation (we may almost say) unanimous in its abhorrence of the crime, and anxious to pay a just tribute to departed worth by providing for the widow and orphans, who have lost the protection and mourn the untimely fate of that great and good man.

It is satisfactory to us to find, that the guilt of this foul crime was confined solely to the perpetrator of it, and that he was speedily doomed to suffer an ignominious fate, the only atonement to the justice of his insulted country. With these our sentiments, we beg to add the assurance of our zealous and ardent attachment to your Royal Highness's person, to our constitution in church and state, and our sincere participation in your Royal Highness's regret for the loss of an individual, distinguished alike by his integrity, by the firmness of his mind, by his commanding eloquence, and by the bright display of every private virtue.

We deeply deplore that at this awful crisis your Royal Highness's exertions to fix upon a successor should be impeded or embarrassed, but we ardently pray that every obstacle will be surmounted by the vigour and courage your Royal Highness has displayed, and that the safety, honour, and welfare of our Sovereign and his dominions will be secured throughout all generations.

Signed, on behalf of the meeting, this 2d day of June 1812, Hugh Humphreys, Sheriff.

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble and dutiful Address of the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, and Freeholders of the County of Oxford.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, and Freeholders of the county of Oxford, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with the deepest and most heartfelt expressions of sorrow and condolence on a late most atrocious and calamitous event; an event that appears to have been perpetrated upon a pretence as false and mischievous in its principle, as it was in its manner most infamous and base.

That a person, whose whole life had been a series of universal benevolence, should become the object of the malice of an assassin, was sufficient to excite strong feelings of regret in every good and generous breast: but when we reflect that the person whom we now deplore, stood in a situation of importance to the happiness of millions; that his conduct in that situation was distinguished by the most faithful and unshaken loyalty to his Sovereign, by the most ardent zeal for the honour and interests of his country, and by the most anxious care for the preservation of those establishments, which constitute the foundation of our prosperity and happiness, we cannot but consider the present instance as the most atrocious enormity that ever proceeded from the depravity of the human heart.

We acknowledge with humility and respect your Royal Highness's prompt and benevolent recommendation of the bereaved family of this most excellent person, which we now consider as the family of the nation, to the justice and munificence of Parliament; and we beg leave to add, that the most ample satisfaction of your royal recommendation will, in our judgments, best gratify the expectation of the country, and the national character for liberality and justice.

We cannot retire from your royal presence without expressing our most heartfelt concern for the many instances of relaxation of morals, insubordination, and violence that have lately disgraced many parts of this kingdom, and which have been attended with enormities hitherto unknown to the character of the British nation.

We pledge ourselves, in our respective stations, to make every exertion for the prevention or correction of these destructive evils; and we hope and trust that, by the firmness and vigour of your Royal Highness's councils, the national character and honour will be vindicated by a prompt and effectual suppression of those enormities, and by the just and exemplary punishment of the daring and atrocious authors of them. And we also trust that the people in general will deeply reflect upon the magnitude and importance of the object that is now at issue; and that by comparing their own happiness and comforts with the miseries and sufferings of the surrounding nations, they will be firmly convinced of the imperious duty of shewing that respect for the laws, which can alone secure the happiness of the people, and the welfare of the country.

Signed by order of a meeting of the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, and Freeholders of the county of Oxford.

T. S. Lloyd Wheate, High Sheriff.

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT:

WE, His Majesty's loyal subjects, the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, Freeholders, and other Inhabitants of the county palatine of Chester, humbly beg leave to lay at the foot of the throne the sentiments of abhorrence with which we are impressed of the system of outrage and tumult which has but too unhappily disgraced certain districts in this county.

Enjoying, as we do, true genuine liberty, we behold with grief and indignation the rash intemperance of the misguided and licentious, which would endanger, by unjustifiable excesses, the inestimable blessings we derive from our excellent constitution.

We most deeply lament that the history of the present times should be stained by the foul and base assassination of one of His Majesty's Ministers, within the walls of the House of Commons; a crime as odious in itself, as repugnant to the manly generosity of the British character.

Permit us to offer to your Royal Highness our unfeigned assurances of unalterable attachment and loyalty, accompanied with the liveliest and most grateful acknowledgments to your Royal Highness, for the sollicitude you have been pleased to manifest for the peace and tranquillity of this county, by the prompt administration of justice; a measure calculated to produce subordination and obedience to the laws in the tumultuous and ill-disposed, and to reclaim the deluded from the path of error.

Signed by order of a general meeting of the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, Freeholders, and other Inhabitants of the county palatine of Chester, held at Northwich, in the said county, on Tuesday, the 2d day of June 1812.

Edmund Yates, Sheriff of the county of Chester.

Unto His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble Address of the Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the county of Perth.

WE, the Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the county of Perth, assembled by special advertisement, feel it to be our duty humbly to address your Royal Highness, for the purpose of expressing our horror and detesta-tion of the atrocious crime which has lately stained the walls of Parliament with blood, and, to the heartfelt grief of every respectable character in the British empire, has deprived our country of one of its brightest ornaments.

By the death of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval your Royal Highness has been bereft of a faithful, upright, and attached servant; and the country of an able, firm, conscientious Minister; a pure and enlightened patriot, and a benevolent and truly virtuous man.

We beg leave humbly to offer to your Royal Highness the tribute of our sincere condolence; and to assure your Royal Highness of our full participation in those feelings of poignant sorrow which this impressive and afflicting event has universally occasioned.

It is unquestionably matter of consolation to be assured from high authority, that the hand of the assassin was directed solely by the instigation of his own perverted and vengeful disposition; but we cannot avoid noticing, that, in the tumults which have disgraced some parts of the country, a sanguinary spirit has appeared, till now unheard of among Britons. Whilst we confidently hope that the authors of such deeds shall receive immediate and exemplary punishment, we trust that our annals shall never again be stained by crimes so foreign to our national character.

We have observed with great satisfaction that Parliament, in consequence of a communication from your Royal Highness, has proceeded to make a provision for the family of Mr. Perceval; and we are confident that the nation in general unites with us in feeling the highest gratification from this mark of respect from your Royal Highness to the memory of him who, to his sense of duty to his King and country, sacrificed every view of private emolument.

Fully aware of the arduous situation in which your Royal Highness is placed at this awful crisis, we trust we may be permitted to repeat our cordial approbation of those views of general and domestic policy which have hitherto directed the government of your Royal Highness, and to assure your Royal Highness, that, totally uninfluenced by party attachments, we feel no other interest, with respect to the persons whom your Royal Highness may call to your councils, than that they shall continue to follow out that system which, we humbly conceive, to be indispensable to the national honour, tranquillity, and welfare. To a departure from that system, we confidently trust your Royal Highness will never lend the sanction of your authority.

Signed by our Preses in our name, and by our appointment, at Perth, this 2d day of June, 1812 years. Moray, Preses.

Unto His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

The Address of the Justices of the Peace, Frecholders, Commissioners of Supply, and Heritors, of the County of Clackmanan.

WE humbly beg to approach your Royal Highness with most loyal and cordial sentiments of sympathy on the afflicted situation of our most august Sovereign.

We feel sentiments of the deepest horror at the late atrocious act of assassination committed upon the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval—an act almost unexampled in the annals of English history, and so totally repugnant to the generous feelings of Britons.

We deeply lament and reprobate the instances of riot and insubordination, which have occurred in some of the manufacturing inland districts of our sister kingdom, and most anxiously trust that the delusion, under which those misguided people act, will speedily cease to exist.

At the same time we trust that we may be pardoned in offering our testimony of praise to His Majesty's subjects in this part of the kingdom, although suffering very considerable hardships from the present high prices of the necessaries of life, owing to the late deficient crop, and other circumstances attendant upon the state of warfare, in which the insatiable ambition of our enemy has compelled us to persevere.

While the revolutionary convulsion has overturned so many of the ancient thrones in Europe, we feel grateful to Providence that our own monarchy still exists, and we trust that the constitutional energies of the country, supported by all loyal subjects, will enable us to support the arduous struggle, under all our privations, until the period may arrive when an honourable and permanent peace may be concluded.

Signed, in our presence, and by our appointment, at Alloa, the 5th day of June 1812 years, by Robert Abercromby, Preses.

To His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble Address of the Noblemen, Gentlemen, Clergy, Freeholders, and other inhabitants of the county of Anglesey, assembled in the Shire Hall at Beaumaris, on Wednesday, the 27th day of May 1812.

WE, the Noblemen, Gentlemen, Clergy, Freeholders, and other Inhabitants of the county of Anglesey, beg leave most respectfully to approach your Royal Highness with sentiments of the deepest sorrow for the lamentable event which has recently deprived your Royal Highness of a faithful servant, and the nation of a most active and upright Minister.

Equally admiring his virtues as a man, and respecting his talents as a statesman, we cannot sufficiently deplore an act, which, in such arduous times as the present, has imposed any additional care and burden on your royal mind.

That desperate and depraved individuals, capable of any acts of outrageous and sanguinary violence, have existed in all ages, and in every country, the page of history has declared to us; but it is with the utmost horror and detestation we perceive, that, in the nineteenth century, some degenerate Englishmen are to be found, sufficiently base and unprincipled, to delight in blood, and exult in assassination.

Nor do our afflictions end here; for it appears that there are wretches within the bosom of our once happy country, who, presuming on the too successful murder of the Minister, now dare, with audacity unexampled, and with atrociousness unparalleled, to threaten the sacred and royal person of our prince. Against all such attempts it is only the power of Almighty Wisdom that can protect us. Such protection we now most humbly and fervently implore, declaring, at the same time, our deep abhorrence of such crimes, and our determination to resist them with the courage and patriotism of Britons.

We cannot conclude this our most loyal and dutiful address, without assuring your Royal Highness of our belief, that such unconstitutional and unchristianlike sentiments, as we have been most painfully called upon to allude to, are confined to the breasts of a few (we trust a very few) of the desperate and deluded inhabitants of this kingdom; and that the very great majority of the subjects of this realm concur with us in a just sense of our public duties, and in the most devoted attachment to your royal house and person.

Signed at the request and on the behalf of the County meeting,

Hugh Bulkeley Owen, Sheriff.

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble Address of the Frecholders, Commissioners of Supply, and Justices of the Peace, of the County of Ross, assembled in a General Meeting of their Number.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Freeholders, Commissioners of Supply, and Justices of the Peace, of the County of Ross, here assembled in consequence of special advertisements made by our Sheriff Depute and Convener, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with the strongest feelings of attachment to your person, and of respect for your government.

We humbly offer our condolence to your Royal Highness, on the long and protracted indisposition of our beloved and venerable Sovereign, who has, through the whole course of his long reign, proved himself to be the father of his people, and, by the uniform steadiness of his administration, has overcome the deep-laid machinations of our inveterate foe, although supported by the endeavours of the discontented and ill-disposed amongst his subjects, for our ruin and subjection to a foreign yoke, and raised the empire to an unexampled pitch of greatness and prosperity.

It is with hearts filled with gratitude to Heaven, that we perceive the same traits of firmness and energy of character, that so much distinguished your Royal Father, shine forth in your Royal Highness's conduct since you have assumed the reins of government. From them we with pride prognosticate an adherence to these measures of government, which have hitherto saved the empire from being involved in the general wreck which has taken place amongst the greater part of the nations of the European Continent, and by being persevered in, may, by the blessing of God, prove the means of crushing the general enemy of the repose of the world, and restoring peace and order amongst these nations.

We beg leave to congratulate your Royal Highness on the glorious and splendid events which have been achieved by the prowess of His Majesty's arms, in various quarters of the globe, since your Royal Highness has conducted the government. By them, the enemy has been beaten out of every colony he, or the nations dependent on him, had in the world; the kingdom of Portugal has been liberated completely from his dominion, and our noble and brave allies in Spain have received essential aid and protection; whilst the glory of His Majesty's Generals and armies have been raised to that unrivalled pitch, that fills the world with admiration, and is likely to kindle a spirit of emulation and enthusiasm in the other nations, that may lead them to shake off the insufferable thralldom of the general enemy.

We have participated with our fellow subjects throughout the empire, in sentiments of abhorrence and detestation of the atrocious act of assassination which has so recently been committed on the person of the late Right Honourable Chancellor of the Exchequer, a man highly distinguished, not only by your Royal Highness's favour, but by his eminent virtues, both public and private; whose untimely fate must be long deplored. We beg leave, at a crisis so interesting, to express to your Royal Highness how deeply we have been affected by this barbarous and cruel act.

A general retrospect of your Royal Highness's administration of the government, and of the success with which the measures pursued have been uniformly crowned, fill us with a confident hope, that the empire is destined to enjoy happiness and prosperity under your government, which will continue to be handed down to our posterity.

Signed in our name, and by our appointment, at Dingwall, the 4th day of June 1812; by Donald M'Leod, Esq. of Geanies, our Preses, Donald M'Leod, Preses.

To His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, Commissioners of Supply, and Heritors, of the county of Linnithgow, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with assurances of our unshaken loyalty and attachment to His Majesty's person, family, and government. We sincerely condole with your Royal Highness and your august family on the continuance of His Majesty's indisposition;—an indisposition which, from its nature, would, under any circumstances, have been deeply interesting, but which falls still more heavily upon us, as depriving us of the government of a Sovereign who has reigned over us for above half a century with the kindness of a parent. We join most earnestly with your Royal Highness in your wishes and prayers for His Majesty's recovery, if it were for no other reason, than that his sufferings may be repaid by the knowledge of your Royal Highness's dutiful behaviour, and of the wisdom and vigour with which your Royal Highness has conducted the government during his indisposition.

We beg leave to return your Royal Highness our best thanks for the readiness with which you undertook the government, under the temporary restrictions which Parliament judged necessary, on grounds not connected with your Royal Highness's character, and from the success which attended your Royal Highness's measures, under the disadvantage of those restrictions, we form the most favourable hopes of your future government.

In your Royal Highness's anxiety to avail yourself of the services of the friends of your youth, we have a proof of the sincerity and warmth of your affections as a man; in your gracious declaration, that, as Regent of these realms, you have no predilections to indulge, no resentments to gratify, no objects to obtain, but such as are common to the whole empire;—we have a proof that your Royal Highness is deeply impressed with the true principles of the British constitution, and with the motives which ought to direct the Sovereign of these realms in the choice of his Ministers.

Convinced that your Royal Highness, whether as Regent, or, in due time, as our future Sovereign, will steadily adhere to such generous and constitutional sentiments, we cannot doubt that your Royal Highness will continue to receive the most cordial and loyal support from all ranks of His Majesty's subjects.

We beg leave most cordially to congratulate your Royal Highness on the brilliant success which has lately so conspicuously distinguished His Majesty's fleets and armies. We reflect with feelings of pride and exultation on the splendid achievements accomplished by His Majesty's arms in Spain and Portugal. We look forward with the most lively interest to the great struggle which is there maintained against the common enemy of independence and social order: we rely upon the protection of Divine Providence in so just a cause, and feel confident that, by a continued display of the same skill and irresistible bravery on the part of His Majesty's arms, and by a perseverance in the same wisdom and vigour in the councils of your Royal Highness, you will ultimately be enabled to bring the arduous contest in which we are now engaged to a successful and honourable issue, not less favourable to the interests of Europe, than from its commencement it has been glorious to the British name.

We cannot separate without also condoling with your Royal Highness on the loss you have lately sustained by the atrocious assassination of an able and upright Minister; and we sincerely sympathize in the distress and embarrassment which that detestable event must have occasioned to your Royal Highness. But we put our trust in Almighty God, that his goodness will enable your Royal Highness, with such Ministers as you may appoint, to continue to conduct the administration of our affairs with equal comfort to yourself, and advantage to the country.

We also take this opportunity of expressing to your Royal Highness our concern for the tumultuous proceedings in some of the midland counties, which appear to us to mark a sanguinary and revolutionary spirit, which we trust that your Royal Highness will take the most prompt and vigorous measures to put down; and we assure your Royal Highness of our determination, at the utmost hazard of our lives and fortunes, to stand by your Royal Highness in the support of our glorious constitution, of which we consider the royal prerogative to be a most essential part.

Signed in our name, and by our appointment, by Alexander Marjoribanks, Esq. of Marjoribanks, Preses of the Meeting, at Linlithgow, the 25th. day of May, 1812 years.

Alexander Marjoribanks, Preses.

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

The humble Address of the Inhabitants of the Borough of Tewkesbury, in the County of Gloucester.

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the inhabitants of the Borough of Tewkesbury, humbly presume to approach the throne to express to your Royal Highness our unqualified abhorrence and detestation of the atrocious assassination and murder of your Royal Highness's late Prime Minister, the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval, within the walls of Parliament.

While we sincerely lament, with the rest of His Majesty's subjects, the untimely fall of a man so eminently endowed with every public and private virtue, our grief is increased by the reflection, that it was effected by a crime so revolting to the first feelings of human nature; and though our indignation be justly raised against the perpetrator, instigated, as he was, by no other motive than the most malignant and deliberate revenge, we cannot but acknowledge a degree of consolation, that the atrocious deed was wholly unconnected with any political measure, and originated with, and was confined to himself.

Deploring, as we feelingly do, the loss which your Royal Highness and the country have sustained by the lamented fate of that eminent statesman, we deeply participate with all ranks of His Majesty's subjects in the general grief and indignation, and will earnestly unite to maintain and preserve those just and equal laws, and that happy form of government, which are the stability of the throne, and the best security to the persons and property of the people.

At the request of the meeting,

W. G. Maxwell, Chairman.

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

WE, the Guild, or Brotherhood of Masters, and Pilots' Seamen, of the Trinity-House, of Kingston-upon-Hull, most humbly approach your Royal Highness with the sincerest sentiments of condolence on the late atrocious assassination of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval. But whilst we deeply deplore the melancholy circumstance, yet we derive some small consolation in finding that the wretched perpetrator of the foul deed has had no associates in his guilt. And we take this opportunity to assure your Royal Highness of our most zealous and dutiful attachment to your person and the royal family, and of our hearty and steady support in every measure calculated to promote and maintain the dignity and honour of the crown, and interest, tranquillity, welfare, and happiness of the nation in general.

Given under our common seal, this 8th day of June in the 52d year of His Majesty's reign, John Thackeray, Thos. Locke, Wardens.

To His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales,
REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

WE, the Bailiff, Burgesses, and Commonalty of the Town and Liberties of Wenlock, in the County of Salop, in Common Hall assembled, beg permission to approach your Royal Highness with sentiments of unfeigned condolence on the horrid assassination of the Right Honourable Spencer Perceval, late First Lord of His Majesty's Treasury and Chancellor of the Exchequer—a event which has filled every humane and loyal bosom with the deepest grief and indignation.

We rely with the greatest confidence on the wisdom and energy of your Royal Highness's government for the suppression of those tumults, which, originating in a misguided populace, have in some instances unhappily terminated in acts of violence, abhorrent to the national character.

With assurances of an inviolable attachment to your Royal Highness's family and person, we pledge our best endeavours in support of the laws and maintenance of the established religion of our country.
George Goodwin, Bailiff.

A CHAPTER of the Most Noble Order of the Garter having been summoned for this day, the Knights Companions, in their mantles and collars, with the Officers of the Order, in their mantles and wearing their chains and badges, at about four o'clock attended His Royal Highness the Prince Regent in his private apartment; and, being there called over by Garter King of Arms, a procession was made to the Chapter Room in the following order:

Duke of Montrose.
Marquess Wellesley.
Marquess of Hertford. Marquess of Stafford.
Earl of Winchilsea,

Earl of Pembroke.

Duke of Beaufort. Earl of Hardwicke.

Duke of Rutland. Earl Camden.

His Royal Highness the Duke of York.

Garter.

The Register.

The Chancellor.

The Prelate.

His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

The Prince Regent and the Knights Companions being seated, Garter acquainted His Royal Highness that Sir Thomas Tyrwhitt attended at the door, and humbly prayed admittance to take the oath of office as Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod of this most noble Order; who, being in his mantle, was conducted to His Royal Highness by Garter carrying the ensigns of Black Rod's office; and, kneeling down, the oath was administered to him by the Register. Garter, then, presenting the chain with the badge to His Royal Highness, and afterwards the rod, His Royal Highness was pleased to put the chain about Black Rod's neck, and to deliver to him the rod; and, having kissed His Royal Highness's hand, he withdrew to his place.

The Chancellor signified to the Chapter His Royal Highness's pleasure, in the name and on the behalf of the Sovereign, that one of the stalls vacant in the Royal Chapel of St. George at Windsor, be filled: and as, by the statutes, none but a Knight can be elected, Francis Earl of Moira was introduced and knighted by His Royal Highness with the sword of state.

The Knights Companions then proceeded to the election; and the suffrages being collected by the Chancellor and presented to the Prince Regent, Francis Earl of Moira was, by the command of His Royal Highness, in the name and on the behalf of the Sovereign, declared duly elected.

His Lordship was thereupon received at the door of the Chapter Room by the two Junior Knights Companions, and conducted between them to the Prince Regent, preceded by Garter (bearing the ensigns of the Order on a crimson velvet cushion) and Black Rod.

Garter presenting the garter to the Prince Regent, His Royal Highness, assisted by the two Senior Knights Companions, buckled it on his Lordship's left leg; the Chancellor pronouncing the admonition.

Garter then presented the ribband with the George to the Prince Regent; and the Earl of Moira kneeling, His Royal Highness, with the assistance of the said two Senior Knights Companions, put the same over his Lordship's shoulder; the Chancellor, in the mean time, pronouncing the admonition: and his Lordship having kissed His Royal Highness's hand, and saluted severally the Knights present, withdrew.

The Chapter ended, Garter called over the Knights; and a procession was made back to His Royal Highness's apartment, in the order as before.

At the Court at Carlton-House, June 13, 1812.

His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, Sovereign of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, has been pleased, by letters patent under the sign manual of His Royal Highness and the great seal of the Order, to dispense with all the statutes and regulations usually observed in regard to Installation; and to give and grant unto Francis Earl of Moira, Knight Elect of the said Most Noble Order, full power and authority to exercise all rights and privileges belonging to a Knight Companion of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, as if he had been formally installed; any decree, rule, or usage to the contrary notwithstanding.

Carlton-House, June 12, 1812.

CEREMONIAL of the Knighthood and Investiture of Lieutenant-General the Honourable Sir Edward Paget, Knight of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath.

The Knights and Officers of the Order, attending in their mantles, collars, &c. proceeded into the presence of His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, making the usual reverences, in the following order:

The Gentleman Usher of the Order, in his mantle, chain, and badge, bearing the red rod.

The Deputy Register and Secretary of the Order, in the mantle, chains, and badges of those offices.

Deputy Bath King of Arms, in the mantle, chain, and badge, with the sceptre of Bath, bearing the ribband and badge of the Order upon a crimson velvet cushion.

The Genealogist, in his mantle, chain, and badge.

His Royal Highness the Duke of York and Albany,
First and Principal Companion.

Then, by His Royal Highness's command, Lieutenant-General the Honourable Edward Paget was introduced into the presence between Sir Philip Francis and Sir Brent Spencer, the two Junior Knights Companions present, preceded by the Gentleman Usher of the Order, with reverences as before.

The sword of state was thereupon delivered to His Royal Highness by Lord Whitworth, the second Knight in seniority present; and Lieutenant-General Paget, kneeling, was knighted therewith. Then His Royal Highness the Duke of York, the Senior Knight, presented the ribband and badge to His Royal Highness, who put them over the new Knight's right shoulder; and, being thus invested, and having had the honour to kiss the Prince Regent's hand, he withdrew.
