Notice is hereby given, that, in obedience to a writ of ad quod damnum issuing out of the High Court of Chancery, in pursuance of the fiat of His Majesty's Attorney General directed to the Sheriff of Buckinghamshire, an inquisition was duly taken before the said Sheriff, at the house of John Broome, commonly called or known by the name of the George, in West Wycombe, in the said County, on Wednesday, the 11th day of November 1812, upon the oath of the jurors therein named, who being sworn and charged upon their oaths said, that it will not be to the damage or prejudice of our Sovereign Lord the King, or of any other, if our said Lord the King should grant to Peregrine Dealtry,

of Bradenham-House, in the said County, Esq. in the said writ named, a licence to inclose a certain way or road, beginning at a way, lane or road, called Stanmore-Lane, in the Parish of West Wycombe, in the said County, near a wood, there called Cockshoots Wood, and running from thence in a north-westerly direction through or between certain fields and closes of the said Peregrine Dealtry, to, and towards, and ending at a gate, near a pond, on the south-east corner of Radnage Common, in the Parish of Radnage, in the County aforesaid, the same way or road extending in length four furlongs seventeen poles, or thereabouts, and in breadth twelve feet, or thereabouts; and also, if he, the said Peregrine Dealtry, do hold the same way, so inclosed, to him and his heirs and assigns for ever (there being already another public and common highway leading from West Wycombe, by Chawley, to Radnage Common aforesaid, nearer and more commodious for all the King's subjects to pass and repass at their free will and pleasure than the same way or road so to be inclosed as aforesaid).
—Dated this 26th day of December 1812.

John Crafts, Solicitor for the said Peregrine Dealtry, Esq.
