War-Office, January 2, 1813.
To Widows of Officers of the Land and Marine Forces.

HIS Royal Highness the Prince Regent, in the name and on behalf of His Majesty, having been graciously pleased to abolish the former practice of transferring the payment of the pensions of the widows of officers of the land forces, from Great Britain to Ireland, and vice versa, upon the removal of regiments from one establishment to the other; and to direct, that in future every widow shall, from the 25th day of December last, inclusive, receive payment of her pension in the country in which she resides; the following rules are to be observed in this respect, videlicet:

Every widow, whether on the British or Irish establishment, should immediately notify her place of residence, and the name of her agent, to the War-Office of that country in which she at present receives her pension.

Any widow residing in Great Britain, whose pension is now issued in Ireland, should also notify her place of residence to the War-Office in Dublin, in order that official directions may be given for the payment of her pension in Great Britain from the date abovementioned.

In like manner, any widow residing in Ireland, whose pension is now issued in Great Britain, should make a similar report to the War-Office in London, when instructions will be given for the payment of her pension in Ireland from the date abovementioned.

If a widow should afterwards be desirous of changing her place of residence, she is to give two months previous notice of her intended removal, to the War-Office of the country in which she is then resident.

IN pursuance of an Order of the Honourable House of Commons, of the 27th day of December 1812, notice is hereby given, that application is now making to Parliament for a bill for enlarging the market-place at Smithfield, in the City of London; for improving the avenues into and about the same; and for the better regulation of the said market.
