Valuable Estate and Negroes, late belonging to Lieutenant-Colonel Thomas Brown, in the Island of St. Vincent.

THO be peremptorily sold by auction, in the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England, in London, at One o'Clock, on Thursday the 1st of April next, (postponed from the 1st of October 1812, at the request of Lieutenant-Colonel Thomas Brown.)

All that truly valuable estate called Grand Sable, consisting of about 1600 acres of the best Charib land in the island of St. Vincent; which land, with about 600 negroes, the buildings and sugar works, and live and dead stock thereon, forms one of the most desirable estates in the West Indies.
