To the Kings most Excellent Majesty.

to Your Majesty, and our Adherence to the present Government in Church and State; thereby to continue this Place in the repute of Love and Loyalty to so Gracious a Prince; the slowness of this Address was not occasioned by any backwardness in the present Subscribers, being thoroughly fixed in their Loyalty: and who now and at all times shall cheerfully own and profess Your most Princely Care of us, in securing to us the Religion established, and Governing us by the known Laws of the Land.

We most humbly beseech Your Majesty to accept of our zealous Assurance, that we do, and shall always pray for your Majesties long Life, and happy Reign over us; and that we will assist your Majesty with our Lives and Fortunes against all Disturbers of the Peace, and Opposers of the Legal Succession.
