Whitehall, November 27, 1813.

WHereas it hath been humbly represented unto His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, that John Farrow, of the borough of Macclesfield, whitesmith, was on the morning of Friday the 29th day of October last, found dead at the bottom of the stairs of his own dwelling-house, having a deep wound on the left side of his head, and that there are very strong suspicions that the said John Farrow was murdered;

His Royal Highness, for the better apprehending and bringing to justice the persons concerned in the said murder, is hereby pleased, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, to promise His Majesty's most gracious pardon to any one of them (except the person who actually committed the same), who shall discover his or their accomplice or accomplices therein, so that he, she, or they may be apprehended and convicted thereof.

SIDMOUTH.

And, as a further encouragement, a reward of FIFTY POUNDS is hereby offered to any person or persons who shall give such information as may lead to the discovery of the perpetrators of the murder, to be paid by the magistrates of the borough of Macclesfield.

Whitehall, November 16, 1813.

WHereas it has been humbly represented to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, that, on Thursday the 7th of October last, between the hours of one and two o'clock in the morning, a violent assault and robbery was committed upon James Hale, woodward to the Right Honourable Earl Cowper, in the highway leading from Wellwyn to Hertford, both in the county of Hertford, at a place called the Wash, near Kingsbridge, in the said county, by three men, who knocked the said James Hale off his horse, beat him after he had fallen, with such violence as to force out some of his teeth, and when he was senseless, robbed him of his pocket-book, containing notes to the amount of £130;

His Royal Highness, for the better apprehending and bringing to justice the persons concerned in the said felony, is hereby pleased, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, to promise His Majesty's most gracious pardon to any one of them (except the person who actually committed the same) who shall discover his or their accomplice or accomplices therein, so that he, she, or they may be apprehended and convicted thereof.

SIDMOUTH.

And, as a further encouragement, a reward of ONE HUNDRED POUNDS is hereby offered to whosoever (not being an accomplice) shall apprehend any of the said offenders, or give such information as shall be the means of causing any of them to be apprehended, to be paid upon conviction, by Mr. Thomas Nicholson, Solicitor, at Hertford.
