HIS Royal Highness the Prince Regent has caused it to be notified by Viscount Castlereagh, His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, to the Ministers of Friendly Powers residing at this Court, that in consequence of the re-establishment of the ancient relations of peace and amity between His Majesty and the United Provinces of the Netherlands, His Royal Highness has been pleased, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, to direct, that the blockade of all the ports and places of the said United Provinces, (except such ports or places as may be still in the possession, or under the controul of France,) shall be forthwith raised; and that all ships and vessels belonging to the said United Provinces shall have free admission into the ports of His Majesty's dominions; and shall be treated in the same manner as the ships of States in amity with His Majesty, and be suffered to carry on any trade now lawfully carried on in neutral ships.

HIS Royal Highness the Prince Regent has also caused it to be notified by Viscount Castlereagh, His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, to the Ministers of Friendly Powers residing at this Court, that as it appears by the latest advices from the coast of the Adriatic, that the coast between Trieste and the southern extremity of Dalmatia inclusively, is, for the most part, no longer under the dominion of France; His Royal Highness has been pleased, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, to direct, that the Blockade of that extent of coast comprehended within the above description, (which was instituted in virtue of His Majesty's Order in Council of the 26th of April 1809,) should be discontinued, with the exception of such ports and places as may still be occupied by the troops of the enemy.

WAR DEPARTMENT.

Downing-Street, December 7, 1813.

A DISPATCH, of which the following is a copy, was this day received by Earl Bathurst, from General Count Nugent, commanding an army of His Imperial Majesty, in Italy.

My Lord, Trieste, November 1, 1813.

AS the troops under my command have been augmented by a body of British troops, which joined me, under the orders of Colonel Robertson, I think it right to inform your Lordship of their further operations.

By my former letter, your Lordship has been informed of my proceedings, as far as the taking of Fiume, and the first operations in that neighbourhood. Eugene Beauharnois had his principal force at Laybach, and my position annoying his rear and communication, he sent a force, six times superior to mine, composed of sixteen battalions with twenty guns, to attack me. After a very well-fought action, on the 14th of September, and many movements which had been preconcerted with Admiral Freemantle, the enemy's object entirely failed, and we got possession of the whole of Istria, guarding the ridge of mountains which run from Trieste to Fiume. On the 21st I met Admiral Freemantle, with part of the British squadron, at Capo d'Istria which post we strongly fortified. Our position stretching still more in the enemy's flank than before, forced him to keep a large force against me; General Radavojavich made very able use of this circumstance, and pushed the enemy on all sides towards Laybach. On the 23d a general movement took place: I marched to Bassavizza, near Trieste, and covering my left against that place, I moved towards Prevald and Adelsberg.

The enemy was now forced to a precipitate retreat, and Eugene Beauharnois, after losing in different actions about ten thousand men, mostly prisoners, arrived the 2d of October with about twenty thousand men at Prevald, taking up a line between that place and Optshina, in communication with Trieste. At midnight, between the 3d and 4th of October, I attacked his right at Optshina, and forced it to retreat towards Garice. On the 5th the brigades of Stahremberg and Csirick, forced the enemy's position at Santo Croce, at the same time that I took the bridge of Merna, near Gorizia. In the night the enemy passed the Isonzo, and we took possession of Gorizia. The Isonzo offering us now a strong position, I marched back upon Trieste with part of my troops. Admiral Freemantle had already landed marines, and made preparations for the siege. The rapidity of our movements had prevented the transport of a battering train: there were, consequently, no other guns but those of the fleet, which Admiral Freemantle landed with great activity, at the same time the batteries were begun. On the 12th, the town of Trieste was taken by Baron D'Aspre, and we pushed our posts, on that side, close to the ramparts. Colonel Robertson landed from Lissa, with detachments of the 35th, De Roll's, the Corsicans, Calabrese, and the Italian Levy, with six pieces of field artillery and two mortars.

The 16th our fire commenced, and in the evening the windmill, a strong round tower, was occupied. Our works were approached on different points, and the posts the enemy occupied in advance were taken, except the Schanza. A company of Croats got possession of a wood, three hundred yards from the ramparts, from whence, during the rest of the siege, they very much annoyed the enemy at his guns. On the 23d the Schanza was taken, greatly owing to the courage and exertions of Captain Rowley. Three batteries, for eighteen and thirty-two pounders, were immediately begun, and Captain Berenstil opened a trench, which formed a first parallel, at the distance of four hundred yards. A mortar battery was built near the Schanza, and one for howitzers, in the prolongation of the attack in front. Captain Rains occupied, with two mortars, a battery in the rear, which threw with great effect. As soon as these batteries were ready, the enemy capitulated.

The labour of all these works was incredible, owing to the soft ground, occasioned by the continual rains, and the fire of the enemy; and nothing but the extraordinary exertions of the men, and the perfect harmony which prevailed, could have overcome the difficulties. The officers, seamen, and marines, of the British squadron, particularly exerted themselves, and were animated by the presence of the Admiral, who himself superintended the works and directed the batteries.

Of the British land troops, the Calabrese had the most opportunity to distinguish themselves. Captain Ronca, a brave officer, was wounded; after which the command devolved upon Lieutenant Butler, who shewed bravery and activity. Colonel Robertson was destined for the right of the attack, if it had been continued. Lieutenant Rains, of the Royal Artillery, directed the fire of the mortars, with great effect and intelligence. Captain Angelo, of the 21st regiment, who was with me during the operations that preceded the siege, has rendered very essential service.

Captain Berenstil, of the Italian Levy, acted as engineer, and deserves to be most particularly recommended; he was continually in the trenches without being relieved. The fall of the castle of Trieste closes one most important part of our operations, and gives us the possession of the coast from Dalmatia to the top of the Adriatic, with all the roads that lead from thence.

The whole of these operations prove how, by the mutual assistance of the army and navy, a very superior force will be at length overcome. I always found Admiral Freemantle in readiness to support me; and, by the confidence which that gave me, I was enabled to undertake operations, which otherwise would have been destructive. It was this that allowed me to act in rear of the enemy, and give up frequently my land communication, convinced that it would soon be opened again.

As to the siege of the castle of Trieste, your Lordship will perceive, by the above, that the greatest part of the credit must be given to Admiral Freemantle and the navy, and it is my duty to acknowledge it.

The result of this first part of the campaign, is, that besides the killed and wounded in the different actions, the enemy has sustained a loss in prisoners, which is greater than the number of troops I command.

I have the honour to be, &c.

(Signed) NUGENT, Major-General.

Admiralty-Office, December 11, 1813.

Copy of a Letter from Rear-Admiral Freemantle, to John Wilson Croker, Esq. dated on board the Milford, off Trieste, October 31, 1813.

SIR,

I HAVE the honour to acquaint you, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that I left Pola on the 19th ultimo, and arrived at Capo D'Istria on the 21st, when General Count Nugent met me on the same day. Much credit is due to Captain Gower, of the Elizabeth, for having opened a communication with the army, and for assisting materially in putting the place in a good state of defence.

On the 27th September, the army under General Nugent, moved; the Elizabeth was ordered off Mugia, whilst the Bacchante, with a company of Austrian troops, proceeded to Divino.

I remained at Capo D'Istria in constant correspondence with General Nugent, who was harassing the army of the Viceroy on his retreat, until the morning of the 5th instant, when I sailed for Trieste, and advanced the Elizabeth to Dwino. General Nugent, who continued to follow the enemy, left some troops near Trieste, and the port was completely blockaded by sea. About noon, on the 10th, the enemy surprized us by opening a masked battery, with a field piece and a howitzer, upon the Milford, whose stern was towards the shore, and began firing. Captain Markland in a few minutes got a spring upon the cable, and opened a steady well-directed fire upon the battery; in a quarter of an hour both guns were completely disabled, two men killed and seven wounded, whilst not a person was touched on board the ship, although one shell exploded on the poop deck. On the 10th I landed the marines and two field pieces under Captain Markland: on the 11th the General returned from Gorizia, having obliged the Viceroy to pass the Isonzo. It was then determined to lay siege to the castle. By the 16th, in the morning, we had twelve guns in two batteries, which opened their fire and continued nearly the whole day; towards the evening the enemy was driven from the Windmill, which was taken possession of by the Austrian troops, and two howitzers advanced there. The firing was continued occasionally until noon on the 23d, by which time Captain Rowley had got a thirty-two-pounder within two hundred yards of the Shanza, where there was a strong building with one gun and loop holes in it, standing upon a hill, with a wall round it nearly fourteen feet high, an officer and sixty men.

We had had some communication with the castle in the morning, and the truce was broke off at a very short notice by the enemy, who opened on all sides. The thirty-two-pounder was fired upon the Shanza. The first shot the gun recoiled, and the ground giving way, it fell backward off the platform, which was six feet above the level. It was fine to see Captain Rowley and his people immediately get a triangle above the work, and the thirty-two-pounder with its carriage, run up to its place again, under a shower of grape and musketry, which occasioned a severe loss. Towards evening, the enemy in the Shanza held out the white flag, and surrendered to Captain Rowley. Having now possession of the Shanza, which commanded the castle and the Windmill hill, we set to work upon some advanced batteries within four hundred yards of the castle, but the weather was so wet, and the labour so great, that it was not until the morning of the 29th that they were complete, when the enemy acceded to our altered propositions for surrendering the castle. We were prepared to have opened with eleven thirty-two-pounders, twelve eighteen-pounders, four mortars, and four howitzers.

Every captain, officer, and person in the squadron, has done his duty. Captain Rowley has been, as usual, most prominent on every occasion. I admired the example he shewed at the attack of the Shanza, with the courage and activity of Lieutenants Hotham and Moore, and Mr. Hibbert, Midshipman of the Eagle. Captain Angelo, of the 21st regiment, was foremost in shewing where to place fascines to protect the men, whilst the gun was getting up.

I beg to recommend to the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, Captain Moresby, of His Majesty's sloop Wizard. He commanded one of the batteries from the 16th until the 24th, when he was ordered to form a battery with four thirty-two-pounders, within breaching distance; in the course of fifty-six hours, under all the disadvantages of weather, &c. he, with fifty men from the Milford, and twenty from the Wizard, completed the whole without any assistance whatever. And I must also mention the good conduct of Mr. William Watts, Acting Master of the said sloop, who was severely wounded; Captain Dunn, of the Mermaid, was also very assiduous on every occasion. Captain Markland commanded the marines, and I have to thank him for exerting himself in every way; particularly in the arrangements of stores and provisions. We have at times had one thousand two hundred men on shore, at work and in the batteries, and the general good conduct of the officers, seamen, and marines, with the harmony that has invariably subsisted between the Austrian troops and our people, is quite gratifying to me.

When we opened against the citadel it contained eight hundred Frenchmen, forty-five large guns, four mortars, and four howitzers.

The consequences of the taking this place will be felt throughout this country, and General Nugent has deservedly all the merit of having liberated these provinces in the space of two months with so small a force.

I have the honour of forwarding the terms of the capitulation; about fifty sail of vessels were taken in this port.

Our loss has not been so great as might have been expected under all the circumstances.

I have the honour to be, &c.

THE following Addresses have been presented to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent; which Addresses His Royal Highness was pleased to receive very graciously:

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and affectionate subjects, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Assistants of the Borough of Leeds, in Common-Hall assembled, beg leave to offer to your Royal Highness our congratulations upon the splendid, solid, and eventful victories with which it has pleased Providence to bless the arms of His Majesty and His Allies, and the signal success which has accompanied your Royal Highness's efforts for the welfare of Great Britain and the deliverance of Europe.

Whilst, as Britons, we exult in the national glory, and rejoice in the downfall of tyranny, whilst our hearts glow with gratitude to the Dispenser of all Good for the plenty which he hath poured upon us, we acknowledge that, to the firmness of your Royal Highness, and the wisdom of your Royal Highness's councils, we owe much of those great results which claim our admiration.

In the midst of our regrets, for the continued indisposition of our revered Sovereign, we have observed, with peculiar satisfaction, the great qualities which have distinguished Your Royal Highness's government, the firmness which sustained our country, against a powerful combination of foreign foes; the promptitude to assist the nations of the Continent, in their struggles for the recovery of their liberties, which has bound them to us in firm alliance, and exalted the national character to an unequalled pitch of greatness; that moderation, which, in the moment of victory, looked only to the legitimate end of war; a secure peace; above all, that strict adherence to those Protestant principles which placed Your Royal Highness's Illustrious Family on the Throne, which still preserve to us, unimpaired, our glorious Constitution.

Accept, Sir, our assurance of attachment to Your Royal Highness's person and august Family, and of support to those great measures, to which we look for the maintenance of our maritime rights; the security and prosperity of Great Britain, the repose and happiness of Europe.

Given under the Common Seal of the said Borough, the eighth day of December, in the forty-fourth Year of His Majesty's reign.

[Presented by Lord Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

May it please Your Royal Highness,

WE His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Mayor, Recorder, Aldermen, Bailiffs, and Common Council, of the Borough of Liverpool, in Common Council assembled, beg leave humbly to approach Your Royal Highness, with our most cordial congratulations, on the brilliant and repeated successes which have recently crowned the exertions of His Majesty and His Allies; and which hold out the glorious prospect of effecting the deliverance of Europe. In contemplating the events which have taken place, during the long and arduous contests in which we have been engaged, it is with feelings of no common exultation, that we reflect upon the firm and determined resistance opposed by Great Britain, to a tyranny which has so long oppressed the nations, which has paralyzed commerce and industry, and which has every where marked its course, by a wide and wasting desolation. The noble example has not been deprived of its reward. Europe has burst her chains, and, roused by a sense of her injuries and her wrongs, has hurled from its threatening pre-eminence, that gigantic ambition, which aimed at universal dominion. We have seen the kingdoms of the Peninsula rescued from the grasp of the oppressor, by the determined valour and perseverance of the armies of Great Britain, animated and directed by the transcendent genius of a chieftain, whose fame has filled the world, and whose glorious achievements shall long live in the recollections of a grateful posterity. Under his guidance, the standards of Great Britain and her Allies, now wave triumphant on the soil of France, whose haughty ruler has been forced to feel the humiliating infliction upon his own territories, of that invasion, with which he had so often and so arrogantly threatened these happy islands. The liberal and disinterested application of the powerful resources of this favoured country, have contributed, in no small degree, to the emancipation of the nations of Europe, and have laid the foundation of that brilliant series of triumphs, which have been gained by His Majesty's Allies, over the common enemy. Germany is now free, and we cannot refrain from offering our sincere congratulations to Your Royal Highness, on the restoration to its lawful Sovereign, of the ancient inheritance of his illustrious ancestors. Long may it experience the difference between the paternal dominion of its native Princes, and the galling despotic yoke of foreign rulers, under which it has so lately groaned. Impressed with the conviction, that to the wisdom and magnanimity of Your Royal Highness's Councils, under the favour of Providence, Britain is indebted for the elevated station which she now holds, in the admiration and respect of the world, we firmly rely on Your Royal Highness's continued exertions, to bring to a glorious termination the contest in which we are engaged, and to give to the weary nations, an honourable and lasting peace.

For the accomplishment of this great object, we shall cheerfully submit to any privations which circumstances may require, reposing full confidence in Your Royal Highness's paternal regard for His Majesty's subjects, and well assured that it is Your Royal Highness's highest ambition to rule over a free, loyal, and happy people.

Given under our Common Seal, at Liverpool, this 1st day of December, 1813.

[Presented by the Right Honourable George Canning, and Lieutenant-General Gascoyne.]

Whitehall, December 4, 1813.

His Royal Highness the Prince Regent has been pleased, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, to give and grant unto John Ross, Esq. Commander in the royal navy, and Captain of His Majesty's sloop Briscis, His Majesty's royal licence and permission, that he may accept and wear the insignia of a Knight of the Fourth Class of the Royal Swedish Military Order of the Sword, which His Majesty the King of Sweden has been pleased to confer upon him, as a testimony of the high sense entertained by the said King, of the great courage and intrepidity displayed by the said Captain John Ross on divers occasions; provided, nevertheless, that this, His Majesty's licence and permission doth not authorize, nor shall be deemed or construed to authorize, the assumption of any style, appellation, rank, precedence or privilege, appertaining unto a Knight Bachelor of these realms.

And also to order, that the said royal concession and especial mark of the royal favour, together with the relative documents, be registered in His Majesty's College of Arms.

Whitehall, December 4, 1813.

His Royal Highness the Prince Regent has been pleased to give and grant unto John Salusbury Piozzi Salusbury, Esquire, second son of Giambattista Piozzi, of Brescia, in Lombardy, merchant, and nephew of Gabriel Piozzi, late of Brynbell, in the County of Flint, Esquire, deceased, who married Hester Lynch Salusbury, only child and heir of John Salusbury, late of Bacheagraig, also in the said County of Flint, Esquire, deceased, and relict of Henry Thrale, late of Streatham, in the County of Surrey, Esquire, also deceased, His Majesty's royal licence and authority, that he and his issue may continue to use the surname of Salusbury, in addition to that of Piozzi; and that he and his issue may also bear the arms of Salusbury only, out of grateful and affectionate respect towards the aforesaid Hester Lynch Piozzi, the widow of his said late paternal uncle Gabriel Piozzi, deceased; such arms being first duly exemplified according to the laws of arms, and recorded in the Herald's Office, otherwise His Majesty's said licence and permission to be void and of none effect.

And also to order, that this His Majesty's concession and declaration be registered in His College of Arms.

Whitehall, November 27, 1813.

Whereas it hath been humbly represented unto His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, that John Farrow, of the borough of Macclesfield, whitemith, was on the morning of Friday the 29th day of October last, found dead at the bottom of the stairs of his own dwelling-house, having a deep wound on the left side of his head, and that there are very strong suspicions that the said John Farrow was murdered;

His Royal Highness, for the better apprehending and bringing to justice the persons concerned in the said murder, is hereby pleased, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, to promise His Majesty's most gracious pardon to any one of them (except the person who actually committed the same), who shall discover his or their accomplice or accomplices therein, so that he, she, or they may be apprehended and convicted thereof.

SIDMOUTH.

And, as a further encouragement, a reward of FIFTY POUNDS is hereby offered to any person or persons who shall give such information as may lead to the discovery of the perpetrators of the murder, to be paid by the magistrates of the borough of Macclesfield.

And it being intended that all pensions from the said Charity shall in future be paid quarterly, up to the following days, viz.

To the 31st March, instead of to the 28th February,
30th June	31st May,

This is to give notice thereof; and that the affidavits, required by the Rules of the Charity, are, in future, to be sent or brought to this Office,

Between the 17th and 31st of March,
