MY LORD,

*Freyburg, in Brisgau,
December 24, 1813.*

THE Emperor's head-quarters moved from Frankfort on the Maine, to Freyburg in Brisgau, as stated in the margin.*

The Emperor himself passed a week at Carlsruhe, and arrived on the 22d, at Freyburg, where his Imperial Majesty was received by the Emperor of Austria, who had already been some days here.

This being the Emperor of Russia's birth-day, the same was celebrated by divine worship and a dinner at his Imperial Majesty's head-quarters, at which his Imperial and Royal Apostolic Majesty was present.

Prince Schwartzenberg's head-quarters were on the 21st at Lorach, and were to be removed yesterday to Basle.

The Austrian forces have crossed the Rhine at Schaffhausen, Basle, and intermediate places, and are proceeding on their march towards the frontier of France.

The Field-Marshal's head-quarters were expected to be transferred to Bern on the 26th.

The regular Swiss forces have retired in Switzerland, and the militia expects to be disembodied. No hostility or act of violence had taken place, and every thing seems to promise the best understanding.

General Wrede, with the army under his command, is to carry on the siege of Huniuguen with the greatest activity, and is before that place. He will be covered and supported by the Russian forces.

The Prince Royal of Wirtemberg is before Kehl. Marshal Blücher remains near Frankfort, his forces being distributed] above and below Mayence, as circumstances require. A considerable column has marched by Stuttgard and Tubingen upon Schaffhaussen, and it is probable that the Imperial head-quarters will soon be again in motion.

His Majesty the King of Prussia is still at Frankfort, but is expected here immediately. The Chancellor, Baron Hardenberg, arrived this evening.

I have the honour to be, &c.

Letter from] His Excellency General Viscount Cathcart, K. T. dated

Freyburg, in Brisgau, 25th Dec.

MY LORD,

1813.

IN addition to my dispatch, dated yesterday, I have now the honour to acquaint your Lordship, that Count Bubna, with the Austrian advanced guard, has already passed Bern; and that that Canton has entirely resumed its former constitution. The Cantons of Zurich and Soleure are following its example, and have sent deputies to Bern to consult in regard to the proper steps to be taken.

Prince Schwartzenberg has been at Basle, but his head-quarters are still at Lorach, from whence he directs the movements of the columns in motion.

I have the honour to inclose a copy of a Declaration, in the name of the Allied Sovereigns, to Switzerland, contained in a note presented by the Chevalier de Lebzelter and the Count Capodistria, which was prepared at head-quarters, and is therefore not dated.

I have the honour to be, &c.

CATHCART.

Viscount Castlereagh, &c. &c. &c.

Translation of a Note transmitted by the Chevalier de Lebzelter and the Count de Capodistria, to his Excellency the Landammann of Switzerland.

THE undersigned have just received orders from their Courts to make the following Declaration to his Excellency the Landammann of Switzerland:—

Switzerland has for many ages enjoyed an independence fortunate for herself, useful to her neighbours, and necessary to the maintenance of a political equilibrium. Those scourges of the French Revolution, the wars which for twenty years have sapped to the very foundations, the prosperity of all the States of Europe, had not spared Switzerland.

Agitated in her interior, enfeebled by the vain effort to escape from the baneful influence of a destroying torrent, Switzerland saw herself gradually deprived by France, who called herself her friend, of those bulwarks essential to the preservation of her independence. The Emperor Napoleon ended, by establishing upon the ruins of the Swiss Federation, and under a title till then unknown, a direct permanent influence, incompatible with the liberty of the Republic, that ancient liberty so respected by all the Powers of Europe, and which was the guarantee of the ties of friendship which Switzerland had continued to preserve with them, even to the epoch of her subjection, and which is the principal condition of the neutrality of a State.

The principles which animate the Allied Sovereigns in the present war are well known. Every nation which has not lost the remembrance of its independence ought to avow them. These Powers desire that Switzerland should recover, together with all Europe, the enjoyment of this first right of every nation, and with her ancient frontiers the means of sustaining that right. They cannot admit a neutrality, which, in the actual relations of Switzerland, exists only in name.

The armies of the Allied Powers, in presenting themselves upon the frontiers of Switzerland, expect to meet with none but friends. Their Imperial and Royal Majesties solemnly engage themselves not to lay down their arms before they ensure to the Republic those places which France has torn from it. Without any intention to meddle with her interior relations, they will never suffer that Switzerland should be placed under a foreign influence.

They will recognize her neutrality on that day on which she shall be free and independent, and they expect from the patriotism of a brave nation, that, faithful to the principles which have rendered them illustrious in past ages, they will second the noble and generous efforts which should unite for the same cause all the Sovereigns and nations of Europe.

The undersigned, in making this communication, feel it their duty to acquaint his Excellency the Landammann with the Proclamation and Order of the Day, which the Commander in Chief of the Grand Army will publish at the moment of the army entering the Swiss territory. His Excellency will find them conformable to the sentiments which their Imperial and Royal Majesties have towards the Confederation. The Undersigned, &c.

I HAVE the satisfaction of being able to give your Lordship the most favourable account of the state of affairs in Switzerland. General Count Bubna entered Berne the day before yesterday, with a strong corps of cavalry, and the head-quarters of Prince Schwartzberg were to be established there in the course of this day or to-morrow. The troops, which are all Austrian, have observed the strictest discipline in their passage through the country, and have been received with the utmost enthusiasm by the inhabitants.

I am to inform your Lordship, that the day before yesterday a revolution took place in the government of the Canton of Berne. The business was brought forward in the Council by the present Avoyer Fieudeniech, and General Watteville, with others of the most respectable inhabitants, who re-established the ancient government forthwith, to the great joy of the whole population. The small Cantons will follow the example of Berne without hesitation, as well as Fribourg and Soleure.

To-morrow, or the next day, the head-quarters of his Imperial Majesty will be established on the left bank of the Rhine, either at Basle or Rheinfelden.

Admiralty-Office, January 8, 1814.

Extract of a Letter from Captain Farquhar, of his Majesty's ship Desirée, to John Wilson Croker, Esq. dated off Gluckstadt, December 23, 1813.

I HAVE to acquaint their Lordships, that on Sunday, the 19th instant, I was made acquainted by letter from Captain Marshall, of his Majesty's sloop Shamrock, that a detachment of the Swedish army was advancing towards Gluckstadt, I determined to move up next morning with his Majesty's ships Desirée and Blazer, but the weather was so extremely thick that it was impossible to move; the same day I received another communication from Captain Marshall, that Stoar Battery, a little below Gluckstadt, was attacked by the Swedes, when the enemy set fire to the gun carriages, spiked their guns, and retreated into the town. I therefore resolved to proceed up the river that night in a gun-boat, and ordered the frigate and brig to come up as soon as the weather should clear, and they arrived, this morning.

Copy of a Letter from Captain Hoste, of His Majesty's Ship Bacchante, addressed to Rear-Admiral Freemantle, and transmitted by Vice-Admiral Sir Edward Pellew, to John Wilson Croker, Esq.

SIR,

I ARRIVED off Ragusa on the 12th instant, and joined the Saracen and three gun-boats, with a detachment of the garrison of Curzola on board, commanded by Captain Lowen, who had been directed by Colonel Robertson to act on this coast.

From the information I received from Captain Harper, of the Saracen, together with the state of the country about Cattaro, and the insurrection of the Bocchese, I lost no time in proceeding to this place, with the vessels under my orders. On the 13th, in the morning, we forced the passage between Castel Nuova and the fort of Rosa, and after some firing, secured a capital anchorage for the squadron about three miles above Castel Nuova.

In the evening, I detached the boats of this ship, with those of the Saracen, and the two Sicilian gun-boats, under Captain Harper's orders, who very handsomely volunteered his services, to capture the enemy's armed naval force, which I understood were lying between the Isle St. George, and the town of Cattaro. Captain Harper completely succeeded: the enemy had destroyed their boats on his approach, but having succeeded in manning them with the armed Bocchese in the neighbourhood, he most gallantly attacked and carried the Island St. George, the commandant and his garrison surrendering at discretion. I enclose his report of the affair, with the account of the guns, &c. captured. This is a point of the utmost importance to our future operations: it commands and fronts the narrow channel to the narrow branch of the river that leads up to Cattaro itself; and, fortified as it is, it would have been with difficulty, if at all, the ships of war could have passed it. The fort of Perostè was taken by the Bocchese the same night, and I have now the pleasure to acquaint you, that Castel Nuova, and Fort Espagnol, surrendered by capitulation to the British force this morning, a copy of which I enclose. The garrison remain prisoners of war till exchanged; the officers are allowed their parole. There are several Croats amongst the garrison, who are willing to enter the Austrian service, and I intend sending them to Fiume. I shall lose no time in getting up to Cattaro. Fort St. John is the only place the enemy possess in the Bocco. The French General, Gauthier, has retired into the fort, with about six hundred men: it is about fifteen miles up the river, and is a very strong place. I intend proceeding there directly I have arranged our affairs here.

I have left a garrison in Fort Espagnol, and enclose the return of the stores, guns, &c. &c. taken in the three places. The Montenegrins have been of considerable service in closely blockading the country round Espagnol, and the neighbourhood. I cannot mention in too warm terms the conduct of Captain Harper; he is ever ready, and most indefatigable, and the capture of the Isle of St. George does him, the officers and men, the highest credit.

I am much indebted to Captain Lowen for the ready advice and assistance he at all times gives me; and the zeal that animates every one is highly praiseworthy.

I have the honour to be, &c.

(Signed)

W. HOSTE.

Rear-Admiral Freemantle, &c. &c. &c.

SIR,

AGREEABLY to your directions, I send the report of the proceedings of the boats you did me the honour of putting under my command. At ten, P.M. on the 12th instant, I left the Saracen with the two gun-boats, the launch and barge of the Bacchante, and the boats of the sloop under my command, and pulled towards Cattaro. On going through the passage of Cadone, the enemy on the island of St. George opened a heavy fire on us. We fortunately escaped without damage. At midnight, within four miles of Cattaro, I found the enemy's four gun-boats in a state of revolt. I instantly took possession of them. The appearance of the English at this moment had the happiest effect. I landed at the different places; summoned the principal inhabitants, who immediately at my request, armed en masse against the French. As there was not a moment to be lost in carrying into execution your further orders respecting the island of St. George, I hoisted the English and Austrian flags in the four gun-boats taken, and manned them with part English, and the remainder inhabitants, volunteers, and proceeded down to the attack of that place. At day-light, I landed at the town of Persate, and found the inhabitants had taken possession of a small castle of three guns from the French. Seeing these guns might be employed with advantage against the fortifications of St. George, and the inhabitants putting themselves under my orders, I hoisted the English and Austrian colours, and took the command. I ordered Lieutenant Gostling to bring up the gun-boats to the attack, which he did in the most handsome manner. At six, A.M. this morning, a heavy and well-directed fire was opened at the island, and returned from it. In fifteen minutes the enemy was driven from his guns, and made a flag of truce and offered to capitulate. I insisted on their surrendering at discretion, the whole to be prisoners, and allowed them five minutes only before I commenced firing again, to which they submitted, and I took possession of the island, and hoisted the English colours. I am happy to say, this strong place has been reduced without any loss on our side.

It is with the greatest pleasure I have to report the good conduct of every officer and man employed, and if I had been obliged to storm the island, as I intended, I feel confident the result would have been complete success.

Lieutenant Gostling, of the Bacchante, to whom I gave the command of the gun-boats, brought them up to the attack under a heavy fire from the enemy, in the most cool and determined manner. I have landed the marines, and given him the command of the island until your pleasure is known. It is not in my power to describe the joy and enthusiasm of the inhabitants at seeing the English flag flying. In two hours I had the whole population armed under my command, and ready to execute any thing I might order.

The gun-boats I had taken, I have ordered to blockade the town and castle of Cattaro by sea, and the armed inhabitants by land, which they are doing in the strictest manner.

Enclosed I send returns of gun-boats, prisoners, ordnance stores, &c. taken.

I have the honour to be, &c.

Admiralty-Office, January 8, 1814.

VICE-ADMIRAL Sir Edward Pellew has transmitted to John Wilson Croker, Esq. a letter from Captain Dickson, of His Majesty's ship Swiftsure, reporting the capture, off Cape Rousse, in the island of Corsica, on the 26th of November, of the French schooner privateer Charlemagne, of eight guns and ninety-three men, by the boats of the

The schooner had sailed from Genoa twenty-four days before, stored for a six months cruise, and was availing herself of her sweeps to escape from the Swiftsure, when the boats were dispatched in pursuit of her. On their approach the enemy made every preparation for resistance, and reserved their fire till the boats had opened theirs, when they returned it in the most determined manner for some minutes, until the vessel was boarded on the bow and quarter, and instantly carried.

Captain Dickson commends in very high terms, the gallantry of all the officers and men employed in the boats.

Mr. Joseph Douglas, midshipman, and four seamen were killed; and Lieutenants Fuller and Harvey, Lieutenant Thompson, of the marines, Mr. Field, midshipman, and eleven seamen, wounded.

The loss of the enemy was about equal; the first and second Captains of the privateer (both national officers) were severely wounded.

WHEREAS by an Act, passed in the forty-third year of His present Majesty's reign, intituled "An Act for permitting certain Goods imported into Great Britain to be secured in Warehouses without Payment of Duty," it is enacted, that it should be lawful for the importer or importers, proprietor or proprietors, consignee or consignees of any of the goods, wares, or merchandize enumerated or described in the table therunto annexed, marked (B), and which shall be legally imported and brought into the port of London, to lodge and secure the same under the joint locks of the Crown and the London Dock Company, in any warehouse or warehouses, erected or to be erected, situate within the premises of the London Dock Company, without payment at the time of the first entry of such goods, wares, and merchandize, of the duties of Customs or Excise due on the importation thereof; subject nevertheless to the rules, regulations, and restrictions therein contained; provided that no such goods, wares, or merchandize should be so lodged or secured, unless or until such warehouses or other works belonging or to belong thereto, should be so far completed that in the judgment of the Lord High Treasurer, or the Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury for the time being, or any three or more of them, the same shall be fit and proper in every respect for the reception of such goods, wares, and merchandize, and wherein the same might respectively be safely and securely lodged, and remain under the regulations and directions in the said Act contained; and the said Lord High Treasurer, or Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury for the time being, or any three or more of them, were thereby authorized and empowered, in writing under his or their hand or hands, to certify and make known his or their approbation of such warehouses, which certificate should be published three times at least in the London Gazette, and in two or more public morning newspapers usually circulated in London: And whereas the table marked (B) above referred to, is in the words following; viz.

TABLE (B).

“ A list of articles which (not being imported by the United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, or not being imported from the West Indies,) may be secured in the warehouses within the premises belonging to the London Dock Company; without the duties due on the importation thereof being first paid,”

Rice,	Tobacco,	Wine,
Brandy,	Geneva,	and other Spirits.

And whereas certain vaults for wine and spirits, and warehouses for other articles of merchandize, and other parts of the said works have been approved by the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, and are now in use: And whereas the vaults herein-after mentioned, part of the said works, have been since completed;

We, being three of the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, do certify, that in our judgment the fifth and last division of the vaults situated under the new tobacco warehouses at the east end of the dock, are so far completed as to be fit and ready, in every respect, for the reception of wine, brandy, Geneva, and other spirits.
