SATURDAY, JULY 16, 1814.

A T the Court at Carlton-House, the 30th of May 1814,

PRESENT,

His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT in Council.

This this day ordered by His Royal Highness the Prince Regent in Council, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, that the prohibition, under the Order in Council of the twenty-first of January last, against the exportation of sheet copper, be, and the said prohibition is, hereby taken off. And the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, the Commissioners for executing the Office of Lord High Admiral of Great Britain, and the Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, are to give the necessary directions herein as to them may respectively appertain.

Jas. Buller.

THE following Addresses have been presented to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent; which Addresses His Royal Highness was pleased to receive very graciously:

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble Address of the Provost, Fellows, and Scholars of the College of the Holy and Undivided Trinity of Queen Elizabeth, near Dublin.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Provost, Fellows, and Scholars of the College of the Holy and Undivided Trinity of Queen Elizabeth, near Dublin, humbly solicit permission to offer to your Royal Highness our warmest congratulatious upon the glorious termination of that arduous and long protracted contest in which this empire has been engaged, and to express our grateful sense of the inestimable advantages which have been obtained by the wisdom, the energy, and the firmness of your Royal Highness's government; and guided by your Royal Highness's councils, this united kingdom has proved to the admiring world, that in the course of justice and freedom, firmness is safety, and perseverance is victory. Instructed by the glorious example, the Sovereigns and the people of Europe at length were roused to unite against the despot that oppressed them, and whilst they ascribe the success with which their exertions have been crowned to the blessing of that Almighty Power which ruleth in the kingdoms of men, they will recognise in the British empire the chosen instruments of his providence, and record in their histories the gratitude they owe to your Royal Highness as the chief assertor of the liberties of Europe. Encouraged by the presence of your victorious armies, the people of France avowed their allegiance to their lawful Sovereign, and that exiled Monarch, who found in England the asylum which England only could afford, owes to your Royal Highness his restoration to the throne of his ancestors.

Portugal, the ancient and faithful Ally of England; Spain, the victim of unsuspecting credulity; Holland, which the memory of the illustrious hero whose life was so often hazarded in defence of our liberties justly renders dear to these kingdoms; all are rescued from slavery-all acknowledge that to England their deliverance is due. Thus in a contest, on which depended not the fortunes of a single nation, but the fate of the whole civilized world, England has done her duty, and now she is about to receive her reward. Prudence and moderation and disinterestedness have dictated the terms of that peace which so many victories had won, and posterity to latest ages will bless the wise and merciful forbearance which restored tranquillity to a harassed world, and sought security for its continuance, in the equity of the conditions on which it was established. Acknowledged by Europe as her benefactor, triumphant in war, and successful in the attainment of the first object of a wise Sovereign's ambition, a firm and honourable peace, your Royal Highness has secured that confidence in your government which is essential to the safety and happiness of this united kingdom, and fixed indelibly in the hearts of a grateful people the remembrance of this splendid era, of the glory obtained in war, and the blessings secured by peace!

To His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble, dutiful, and loyal Address of the Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, Commissioners of Supply, and other Heritors of the County of Cromarty.

May it please your Roydl Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most faithful and loyal subjects, the Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, Commissioners of Supply, and other Heritors of the County of Cromarty, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness to express our most foyful and heartfelt congratulations on a definitive treaty of peace being now concluded between His Majesty and the King of France.

After the severe struggle we had to combat, and the privations which many of His Majesty's loyal subjects had patiently to endure, we trust that the peace now so cordially and so unanimously established, which, under Providence, we owe to the firmness and perseverance of the government over which your Royal Highness presides, will amply repay us, and that the blessings thereof will be enjoyed for many years to come.

From the spirit of moderation and concord which so conspicuously manifested itself in the conduct of our illustrious Allies during the negotiations for peace, we cannot doubt but the subjects of His Most Christian Majesty will see the wisdom of participating in the comforts resulting therefrom, thereby ensuring to us the prospect of a long and lasting peace, and that we shall henceforth live as good neighbours and friends.

Unto His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most loval and dutiful subjects, the Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council of the Royal Burgh of Haddington, beg leave to offer our sincere and hearty congratulations to your Royal Highness upon the termination of those various and extensive evils which have so long desolated the Continent of Europe, by the restoration of peace on terms alike honourable to this country, and the nations in alliance with it.

. That in approaching your Royal Highness at this auspicious moment, we cannot refrain from expressing the satisfaction with which we reflect upon the uniform perseverance manifested by your Royal Highness and our beloved Sovereign, and by all classes of His Majesty's subjects, during the late arduous and protracted struggle against the greatest military despotism which ever assailled the civilized world. It will ever be a proud recollection to this country, that when other nations were subdued by a tyrannical despot, or leagued in alliance with him, she alone upheld the cause of Europe in times of unexampled difficulty, and that it is to her exertions, under Providence, to which we are now to ascribe the happy termination of the late protracted

That, while we thus express our sentiments of sincere gratitude for the blessings of peace, restored by your Royal Highness to the subjects of these happy realms, we would offer you our humble thanks for the gracious pledge you have given, that you will use your unremitting exertions to effect an abolition of the slave trade. May we be allowed to state, that our views on this subject coincide with those of your Royal Highness, and the whole British people, and to add our voice to theirs in entreating your Royal Highness to use your utmost influence at the approaching congress, to obtain a total abolition of a traffic so repugnant to every principle of religion and humanity.

Signed, in our name, and by our appointment, in Common Council assembled, by John Martine, Provost.

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Council of the City of Edinburgh, request permission to lay before your Royal Highness our humble and dutiful congratulation upon the general peace, which, by the blessing of Almighty God, has crowned a series of public successes, surpassing not only all probable expectation, but even the anticipations of the most sanguine hope.

The restoration of peace, a word comprehending in itself so many blessings, is, in the present instance, enhanced at once by all that can render pacification honourable, advantageous, and lasting, and by circumstances, which, whether considered in their own natue, or contrasted with the prospects of no distant period, are wholly unparalleled in the history of Britain and of Europe.

Scarcely two years have clapsed since we contended with an enemy, whose gigantic power was only equalled by his inveterate comity. If we now look round for that power, its very ruins have vanished; its memory has become like the remembrance of a disturbed and frightful dream; and a name, for whose terrors the world seemed too narrow, has sunk into something lower than utter oblivion. Within almost a similar space, Britain stood alone in the contest. - She has now beheld the Monarch of France part from the side of your Royal Highness in affectionate and grateful friendship, and sail, under the protection of the British flag, to assume the crown so long usurped by the tyrant of that country, and the enemy of all others.

Nor is it with less pride and pleasure, that we hail the arrival of those illustrions strangers, whose valour and perseverance, not content with repulsing the common foe of Europe from their boundaries, pursued him to his last retreat; and whose clemency and magnanimity, in the proudest hour of victory, converted terror into admiration, and enemies into In the interchange of mutual esteem and amity between your Royal Highness and those distinguished Sovereigns, we acknowledge a signal pledge of the long continuance of the friendly relations so happily established, upon the security of which depend the peace and happiness of the civil-

To the honour and advantage of the pacification concluded by your Royal Highness must be added those of secured commerce, of extended dominion, and, higher and dearer than them both, of increased national honour, and established national faith. Yet perhaps even these higher benefits are surpassed in value by the moral lesson which the events of this age have held forth alike to the governors and the governed. May we hope, that without again provoking the practical results of fatal experience, Europe may long remember what she has so dearly acquired; that the domestic happiness of individuals rests on the preservation of social order; that the blessings of liberty are inconsistent with popular licence; and that the evils of tyranny cannot be averted or softened by tame and unmanly submission; and that over-grasping ambition, if for a time successful, must at length fall under the weight of its own unwieldy enterprises; and that generous and patriotic exertions for national independence must ultimately prove the assured and only means of securing and regaining that inestimable blessing.

To your Royal Highness, who, following the wise and magnanimous policy of your royal father, yielded neither to timidity, when the contest appeared most unequal, nor to the temptation of securing separate and selfish advantage, by dividing with the oppressor the spoils of the oppressed; to those Ministers, whose councils have maintained the national character of Britain, to those distinguished Commanders, and victorious fleets and armies whose repeated success and ascertained superiority have so widely extended her military glory, and to the manly patience with which the body of the people have sustained the pressure of unusual and unavoidable burthens, we ascribe, under God, the glorious termination of this arduous struggle. It is our devout prayer, that your Royal Highness may long enjoy the best reward of your firmness and wisdom, in the affection and gratitude of a free and happy nation.

Signed in our name, by our appointment, and in our presence, and the seal of the said City is hereto affixed, at Edinburgh, the 14th day of June 1814 years.

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT, for and on Behalf of His Majesty.

WE, His Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, the Governor in Chief, the Council, Dccmsters, and Keys of the Isle of Man, in Tynwald assembled, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with the warmest sentiments of loyalty and attachment to your Royal Person and Government.

With hearts overflowing with gratitude, we offer up to the Divine Dispenser of all Blessings our most humble thanks for having endued your Royal Highness with that wisdom, fortitude, and moderation which has so eminently contributed to the reestablishment of peace on an honourable and a last-

With the same ardour which animates His Majesty's loyal subjects in other parts of His Majesty's dominions, we beg leave to offer to your Royal Highness our most sincere congratulations on this great and happy event, obtained under the glorious auspices of your Royal Highness, and founded on circumstances that give the fairest momise of its permanency.

It concludes a warfare which has afforded Great Britain an opportunity of establishing a reputation with the great nations her Allies, for generosity, for humanity, and for every other honourable sentiment, that can never be effaced.

It concludes a warfare in which Great Britain has accomplished what she never before achieved, she has conquered the prejudices of her enemies, who formed no just conception of the magnanimity of the British character.

The Sovereigns, His Majesty's great and warlike-Allies, have witnessed the consummate skill and valour of His Majesty's troops abroad; they have witnessed the loyalty of His Majesty's subjects at home; they have witnessed your Royal Highness's condescensions to the people, and they have witnessed the enthusiastic devotion of the British nation to your Royal Highness. They have seen with their own eyes the rich inheritance you possess in the hearts of His Majesty's subjects—an inheritance which must confirm their confidence in Great Britain, and will ever secure inviolate the Constitution in Church and State, which it is our glory and happiness to enjoy.

Accept, Royal Sir, our humble but sincere wishes that your Royal Highness may long continue to enjoy the prosperity and happiness which, under Divine Providence, your Royal Highness has conferred upon these realms.

Atholl, Governor in Chief.

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and

May it please your Royal Highness, WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Presbyterian Ministers and Elders of the General Synod of Ulster, assembled at our annualmeeting, request permission to offer to your Royal Highness our humble congratulations on the reestablishment of peace among the States of Europe, and to express our anxious hope for a speedy and honourable issue of the contest in which your Highness is still engaged.

During the late war with France and her dependencies, now so happily terminated, we ceased not to offer up our prayers to Him who ruleth over the nations, to guide and prosper the counsels of your royal father our beloved King, in his endeavours to maintain the rights and liberties of his people, and to restore order to a distracted world.

We beheld with gratitude and satisfaction the measures pursued by your Royal Highness in furtherance of the same great and salutary objects, and we have now to join in thanksgivings to Almighty God who hath so signally manifested his protection of this realm during a long and arduous

Under the direction of his unerring Providence, the efforts of your Royal Highness, and those of your august Allies, have been crowned with the desired success; the arrogant pretensions of lawless ambition have been humbled; the sword has been wrested from the hands of the oppressor, and suffering Europe enjoys the prospect of a long repose.

We return your Royal Highness our sincere thanks for the exertions which you have made to procure the entire abolition of the slave trade. We regret the failure of those exertions for the present, but we entertain the fullest confidence that your Royal Highness will embrace every opportunity which may offer for putting an end to that inhuman traffic.

We beg leave to assure your Royal Highness, that we are duly sensible, in our humble sphere, of the blessings we enjoy under a free Constitution, and a mild and beneficient government, and that we shall continue to inculcate on all those of our communion the principles of peace, exemplified by an obedience to the laws, and good will and affection to our fellow-subjects.

To His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's loyal subjects, the Lord Mayor, Recorder, Aldermen, Sheriffs (twenty-four) and Commonalty of the City of York, in Common Hall assembled, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with our sincere and fervent congratulations, upon that happy course of events, which, after a war unparalleled in magnitude and extent, has, at length, restored to Europe the blessings of peace and order.

Whilst we hail the return of peace, as itself the greatest of blessings, we cannot but express our strongest approbation of the basis upon which it has been founded.

Where victory is made to answer the purposes of ambition; where those whom the chances of war have rendered weak and depressed become the objects of plunder or of insult; where nominal independence is purchased by implicit and forced subinission, although peace may bear externally the appearance of cordiality and consent, yet dissatisfaction, rancour, and revenge will silently work and ferment within.

Peace, formed on the principles of conquest, may please and gratify the pride of the victor, but must involve in itself the seeds of future war: where security from aggression is alone sought for, and where justice and moderation dictate the terms of peace, as there is no cause left for murmuring and discontent, so its stability and duration may reasonably be expected.

On this occasion, France, though subdued, not degraded; though at the mercy of those to whom her late Ruler had offered every possible insult, yet being restored by them to her legitimate monarchy, and her accustomed bounds, must ever gratefully remember the generosity, honour, and integrity of those with whom she was so long forced to contend.

In a state of things thus happily arranged, we may confidently hope, under the auspices of Divine Providence, that a peace so truly honourable to all, will by all be long cherished and preserved.

To His Royal Highness George, PRINCE REGENT of the United Kingdom.

WE, the Bailiffs, Aldermen, Burgesses, and Inhabitants of your ancient and loyal Borough of Bridgnorth, beg leave most cordially to approach your Royal Highness with heartfelt congratulations upon the restoration of peace, and the successful termination of the unparalleled and eventful contest in which we have been so long engaged. We further congratulate your Royal Highness, that during the arduous struggle Great Britain has proudly and nobly proved to surrounding nations, that, blessed in her excellent Constitution, and happy under the mild sway of the illustrious House of Brunswick, Whilst lamenting, she wished not for any change. as we sincerely do, the sad affliction of our good old King, your royal and august father, we cannot but appland and feel grateful for the wise and discriminating choice made by your Royal Highness, at the commencement of your rule, of those able Ministers and Counsellors whose steady perseverance and vigorous measures, aided by the hero of heroes, the victorious Wellington, have, under Providence, mainly led to the present prosperous issue. We admire and duly appreciate the magnanimous conduct of the Allies, and heartily thank your Royal Highness for that unwearied courtesy, by which, with a suavity of manners so peculiarly your own, you have evinced to those royal and noble visitors who lately honoured this happy country with their presence, that courage and provess in the field, are not more the characteristics of a Briton, than politeness and urbanity in time of peace. With exultation of honest and honourable pride, Sir, do we boast of the enrollment of your illustrious name among the Burgesses of this your ever faithful borough; such a distinguished connection peculiarly endears your Royal Highness to us; may your Royal Highness enjoy the uninterrupted blessing of peace; and may your life be long and trauquil. The Ris Reviet Rightles George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Chancellor, Masters, and Scholars of the University of Cambridge, beg leave humbly to offer to your Royal Highness our grateful thanks-for the blessings of peace, which your wise and benevolent counsels have secured to us.

Within the period of the last twenty wars every country in Europe has felt the scourge of war, and almost every capital, except your own, he seen the condicts of hostile armies, and suffered the destructive ravages of the successful invader. We could not hope entirely to escape the evils of war nations endured miseries which cannot be described, and witnessed he role which the mind shudders to contemplate, we have fived the scenre enjoyment of our liberties and our homes. These inestimable blessings, under the guidance of a mexciful Providence, we owe to the wisdom of your Royal Highmess's counsels, and the mergy of your royal righness's counsels, and the mergy of your government.

When we consider your has been the object of our touties, when we remay on the conduct of the meany will whole the law been contenting, when the time who has been threatened and what has been defended, who a we perceive that, in a warfare which menaced with destruction all the establishments of circlized society, peace and tranquillity have been preserved at home, and the arms of Great Britain rendered victorious in every part of the globe, we cannot sufficiently admire that mencement of our struggle by His Missey's en-lightened Minister, who, to the sounder in Igement, thited the strictest integrity and pures matriotism. In times of unexampled difficulty, and amid the doubts of Statesmen, and the apprehensions of all, doubts of Statesmen, and the apprehensions of all, we have seen with admiration the same system of policy maintained and pursued with unshaken firmness by your house Highness's Ministers, a system which, by the attack heed that inspired, has effected the safety of this country and the deliverance of Europe, and crowned your Royal Highness's wishes by a peace, founded on the solid hit has fequity and moderation.

Your Royal Highness will now contemplate with satisfaction the happiness which His Majesty's subjects will delive from the cultivation of the arts of peace, the your faithful and loyal University of Cambridge will look up with confidence to your Royal Highness for support and protection, whilst they exert their best endeavours to instill into the minus of the fourths, whose education is entrusted to them, the principles of sound religion, and inviolable attachment to the Constitution in Church and State.

violable attachment to the Gonstitution in Church and Stage.

Given their our common seal, this 8th day of June 1911.

To which Advess His Royal Highness was most gracio tely pleased to rether the following Answer:

The security which we have experienced at home, during a long and arduous war; the victories which have attended the arms of Great Britain abroad; the powerful influence of her example on the Contract! and the termination of the contest, by an honourable and advantageous peace, are, under the favour of, a gracious Providence, to be under the favour of a gracious Providence, to be chiefly ascribed to that system of policy which was peculiarly calculated to call forth the strenuous and unremitting exertions of a free, enlightened, and loyal people.

"It is my ardent prayer, that this country may permanently feel the beneficial effects of her unexampled fortitude and perseverance; and, I am confident, that, in the discharge of your several duties, you will constantly cherish and encourage that steady attachment to the Constitution, in Church and State, which must ever be regarded as the best security for a continuance of the blessings we enjoy.

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Chancellor, Masters, and Scholars of the University of Oxford, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness for the purpose of expressing our grateful and lasting sense of the consideration which your Royal. Highness has given us in the eyest of foreign nations, as well as of the British empire, by your recent visit to the University.

The interest which your Royal Highness has thus manifested in our prosperity and honour, and the very gracious and condescending manner in which your Royal Highness has been pleased to accept our humble endeavours to testify to your Royal Highness our devoted attachment, cannot fail to animate us to such a discharge of our respective duties as shall be most conducive to the public good; woll assured, that we can in no other way so effectually recommend ourselves to the continuance of your Royal Higness's favour and protection.

Given at our House of Convocation, under our common seal, this 1st day of July, in the year of our Lord 1814.

His Royal Highness was pleased to return the following most gracious Answer to the above

"The reception which I experienced on my late visit to the University of Oxford, was, in every respect, most gratifying to me.

"I had great satisfaction in presenting to the notice of the illustrious personages, who accompanied me, the venerable establishments for which you are distinguished. They were not insensible to the effects of your liberal institutions, in the orderly, yet animated, expression of public feeling, called forth on that memorable occasion.

"To me they were peculiarly interesting, as I deeply feel how much the best interests of the country are involved in the success of your exertions, to provide for the Church and State, their future ornaments and support."

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Chancellor, Masters, and Scholars of the University of Exford, heg leave most humbly to offer to your Royal Highness our warmest congratulations on the re-establishment of general tranquillity in Europe. It is with the highest satisfac-tion that we look back upon the unstaken constancy with which this long and ardnous contest has been maintained by the British crown, and that we behold the glory which its final issue has reflected on the British character: distant ages will contemplate with additation the virtues which our country has displayed throughout the trying season. the wisdom and energy, the good faith and modera-tion of our national councils; the unconquerable skill and valour of His Majesty's fleets and armies a and those exalted talents which have led them. victory.

Nor will less honour be ascribed to the undaunted firmness and perseverance of a free people, supporting every sacrifice, and braving every danger in defence of their religion and government. By the blessing of Providence on His Majesty's exertions, and on those of your Royal Highness, in so just a cause, an insurmountable barrier has, we trust, been opposed both to the desolating progress of anarchy, and to the victorious career of military despotism,

While we thus recognise with devont and humble gratitude, the gracious intemposition of that Admighty Power, which had grounded these noble efforts with final and complete success, we derive from this consideration fresh motives for the zealous discharge of our own peculiar duties; labouring with unremitted care to promote the inseparable interests of religion and learning; and to train up our youth in such principles and rules of conduct as are best calculated to obtain for them, and through them for our country, the continuance of the same Divine protection, and the permanence of the same blessings.

Given at our House of Convocation, under our common seal, this 1st day of July, in the year of our Lord 1814.

Ilis Royal Highness was pleased to return the following, most gracious Answer to the about Address:
