Extract of a Letter from Vice-Admiral Sir Alexander Cochrane, G. C. B. &c. to John Wilson Croker, Esq. dated on board His Majesty's Ship Tonnant, off Mobile Bay, the 14th February 1815.

IT being the intention of Major-General Lambert and myself to have attacked Mobile, and finding the entrance into the bay so guarded by Fort Boyer, as to render it unsafe to attempt forcing a passage with the smaller ships of war, the Major-General and myself thought it advisable to attack the fort by land; and on the 7th a detachment of ships, under the command of Captain Ricketts, of the Vengeur, effected a landing of the troops intended for this service about three miles to the eastward of the fort, which was immediately invested, and our trenches, in the course of forty-
