

changed, could not be communicated to you, but which I expected to be enabled to lay before you when I next meet you in Parliament.

I cannot release you from your attendance without assuring you, that it is in a great degree to the support which you have afforded Me, that I ascribe the success of My earnest endeavours for the public welfare; and on no occasion has that support been more important than in the course of the present session.

In the further prosecution of such measures as may be necessary to bring the great contest in which We are engaged to an honourable and satisfactory conclusion, I shall rely with confidence on the experienced zeal and steady loyalty of all classes of His Majesty's subjects; and they may depend on My efforts to improve Our present advantages in such manner as may best provide for the general tranquillity of Europe, and maintain the high character which this country enjoys amongst the nations of the world.

Then the Lord Chancellor, by the Prince Regent's command, said;

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

It is the will and pleasure of His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, acting in the name and on behalf of His Majesty, that this Parliament be prorogued to Tuesday the 22d day of August next, to be then here holden; and this Parliament is accordingly prorogued to Tuesday the 22d day of August next.
