THE following Addresses have been presented to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent; which Addresses His Royal Highness was pleased to receive very graciously:

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

The humble and dutiful Address of the Inhabitants of Brighthelmston.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, your Royal Highness's most dutiful and loyal servants, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness, with the expression of our heartfelt condolence on the late afflicting dispensation, with which it has pleased Divine Providence to visit your Royal House, and at once to disappoint the long cherished hopes of the whole country.

We deeply feel that calamities like those which we deplore require more than human consolation, yet we trust that your Royal Highness may derive some alleviation from the spontaneous and universal sympathy of a great nation. While a striking testimony has thus been borne to the eminent virtues of the illustrious Princess, whose premature loss is so sincerely lamented, it cannot be ungrateful to your Royal Highness to perceive, in such an unexampled tribute of national feeling, the loyal and affectionate attachment of the British people to the august family of your Royal Highness. That your Royal Highness may be supported under this painful dispensation by that Almighty power which ordained it, is the fervent prayer of your Royal Highness's most dutiful and devoted servants.

Signed, by order of the Meeting,

Robert James Carr, Chairman.

Thos. Attree, Town Clerk.

Brightelmston, December 9, 1817.

[Transmitted by Thomas Attree, Esq. and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

WE, His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Lieutenant-Governor, Council, and Keys of the Isle of Man, in Tynwald assembled, approach your Royal Highness, with feelings of the deepest sorrow, to offer to your Royal Highness our condolence, and to express our acute and heartfelt grief on the late melancholy and calamitous event, which, under circumstances peculiarly affecting, has bereaved your Royal Highness of a beloved and illustrious daughter, and the British nation of a future Sovereign, whose piety and early virtues had won universal love and admiration, and gave the promise of a Queen, who would have been the pride and glory of a loyal and affectionate people.

The only consolation we can offer to your Royal Highness, the only alleviation to our own sorrows, under the loss we have sustained, arises from the assurance that the dispensations of Almighty God, both towards nations and individuals, are for great and wise purposes, although inscrutable to human reason. With grief, but with submission, we bow to His chastening hand, and earnestly pray that His good Providence will pour the balm of consolation on your Royal Highness's afflictions.

May the same Power that "Gave and hath taken away," yet raise up a branch in your Royal House, which, nurtured by your princely care, may, in the fulness of time, ascend the Throne of these kingdoms, to inherit the love we bear to our revered King, to your Royal Highness, and to your illustrious Family.

Corns. Smelt, Lieut.-Governor.

[Transmitted by the Lieutenant-Governor, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

WE, the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, Freeholders, and other Inhabitants of the County of Southampton, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with the strongest expression of our sincere grief and condolence upon the heavy blow which has fallen upon your Royal Highness, and upon the nation, by the sudden and unlooked-for death of your august Daughter the Princess Charlotte Augusta.

The premature and afflicting loss of a Princess, endowed with so many rare and shining qualities,
