The Ladies to wear black silk or velvet, coloured ribbons, fans and tippets, or plain white, or white and gold, or white and silver stuffs, with black ribbons.

The Gentlemen to wear black coats, and black or plain white, or white and gold, or white and silver stuff waistcoats, full trimmed, coloured swords and buckles.

And on Sunday the 1st of February next, the Court to go out of mourning.

THE following Addresses have been presented to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent; which Addresses His Royal Highness was pleased to receive very graciously:

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Bishop, Dean, Chancellor, Archdeacon, Prebendaries and Clergy of the Cathedral Church and Diocese of Peterborough, whose names are hereunto subscribed, humbly presume to approach the Throne with this expression of our condolence on an event which has deprived your Royal Highness of a beloved daughter, and your august House of one of its brightest ornaments, whilst it has disappointed the dearest hope, and fondest expectations of the whole British Empire.

But deeply as we sympathize with the parental sorrows of your Royal Highness, we find comfort in the reflection that you are surrounded by Illustrious Members of your family, who partake of your private afflictions and your public cares; we are persuaded also, that your Royal Highness has amply experienced those high and holy consolations, which the religion of Christ alone holds out in every season of distress; and we earnestly pray, that you may still be enabled to manifest the same pious submission to the Will of that Gracious Being, whose dispensations, however mysterious, and, however afflicting, are always founded in wisdom, and tempered with mercy.

J. Peterborough.

[Transmitted by the Bishop of Peterborough, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble Address of Condolence of the Portreeve, Freeholders and Inhabitants of the Borough of Tavistock and its Vicinity.

WE, your Royal Highness's loyal and faithful servants, the Portreeve, Freeholders and Inhabitants of the Borough of Tavistock, most respectfully beg leave to offer our sincere condolence on an event which has overwhelmed, not only your Royal Highness, but the whole nation, with grief and mourning. It must, however, be a consoling reflection to your Royal Highness, that the virtues of your late lamented daughter, have procured from the whole nation that respect which rank and power alone can never claim; and we most devoutly hope, that the Sovereign Disposer of all things, tempering judgment with mercy, will still raise up others of the illustrious House of Hanover, to per-
