THE following Addresses have been presented to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent; which Addresses His Royal Highness was pleased to receive very graciously:

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral Church of the Holy and Indivisible Trinity in Gloucester, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness, in order to lay before you the most respectful assurances of our duty, and to declare the interest we feel in every circumstance that either promotes the happiness of your Royal Highness, or that afflicts your heart with deep regret.

We now beg particularly to express the share we take in that unfeigned sentiment of concern and sorrow, which, with so much credit to the character of the nation, has been uniformly felt and testified throughout the kingdom, in consequence of the lamented death of your Royal Highness's beloved daughter, the Consort of His Serene Highness the Prince of Saxe Cobourg, a loss so truly to be deplored, for the sake of the public hopes and prospects so materially involved therein, and so peculiarly afflicting to your Royal Highness, her suffering parent.

We offer up our prayers to the Great Disposer of all events, that He will graciously be pleased to mitigate your Royal Highness's great trial and distress, and preserve your Royal Highness in the enjoyment of health and of prosperity, for your own comfort and for the continuing welfare of your afflicted people.

[Transmitted by the Lord Chancellor, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, and Clergy within the Diocese of Lichfield and Coventry, most humbly beg leave to approach your Royal Highness and to express, with the rest of His Majesty's loyal and affectionate subjects, our deep affliction and heartfelt sorrow on account of the loss, which your Royal Highness and the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland have sustained, by the death of your Royal Highness's most excellent daughter, the late Princess Charlotte Augusta, Consort of that justly esteemed and exemplary Prince, His Serene Highness Prince Leopold of Saxe Cobourg. When the distressing effects and general pressure occasioned by a great temporary abatement of trade had gradually subsided, and the very severe and extensive consequences of a season unusually inclement had ceased to furnish anxiety, and we were rendering our grateful acknowledgments to our Heavenly Father for these unmerited instances of Divine Mercy, a most awful and afflicting dispensation of the Providence of God again humbled us, under His Almighty Hand, and brought upon us the sad cause of the present universal and overwhelming grief.

We most earnestly pray that your Royal Highness may admit such salutary supplies of consolation as may afford support under this trying calamity, and that all His Majesty's subjects may manifest a due sense of this sudden check to their joyful anticipations, by patient resignation to the Divine Will, by the general exercise of true devotion and piety, and by habitual obedience to Christian precept.

I, Lichfield and Coventry.

[Transmitted by the Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Nobility, Gentlemen, Clergy, and Freeholders of the County of Brecon, deeply penetrated with a sense of the poignant anguish that afflicts your Royal Highness by the death of your beloved daughter, Her Royal Highness the Princess Charlotte Augusta of Wales, beg leave to present to your Royal Highness our humble, but truly sympathetic condolence.

This lamentable, unexpected occurrence, so immediately distressing to your Royal Highness, hath plunged the whole nation into the deepest melancholy, into a sorrowful mourning that passeth shew!

We, in common with all His Majesty's loyal and affectionate subjects, had contemplated with inexpressible delight the many amiable virtues of Her Royal Highness; and had looked forward, with pleasing hope, to the continuation, in an unbroken line, of the blessings enjoyed under the Illustrious House of Brunswick.—Illusive hope! The inscrutable decree of Heaven was otherwise, and we must bow with resignation to the Divine Will!

Upon a subject so replete with parental disquietude to your Royal Highness, we shall forbear to enlarge, as it may occasion a recurrence of painful recollections.

We pray the Great Disposer of events to comfort and support your Royal Highness, under this severe and trying dispensation; and we humbly offer our assurances of unalterable affection to your Royal Highness's Person and Government, and of our duty, loyalty and attachment to the Throne and Constitution.

On behalf of the County of Brecon.

C. C. Clifton,

High Sheriff for the County of Brecon.

[Transmitted by the High Sheriff of the County of Brecon, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales,
REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Deputies from the several Congregations of Protestant Dissenters, in and about the Cities of London and Westminster, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness to offer the sincere tribute of our unfeigned sorrow and affectionate condolence on that melancholy event, which has so deeply affected every mind which is open to the impressions of private or of public misfortune.

We cannot but view this heavy affliction as combining in an eminent degree, many of the most poignant aggravations of human calamity. The stroke of death has fallen on a Princess, accomplished and amiable, in the bloom of life, in the possession of heartfelt enjoyments, and with prospects of the highest grandeur and the most extensive usefulness; it has torn asunder the ties of domestic felicity, and has thrown a cloud over those anticipations in which the present age rejoiced to contemplate the happiness of posterity. To you, Sir, and to another illustrious mourner, it more especially appertains to appreciate and to feel your full and painful portion of the general distress; nor would we, even in the expression of our humble sympathy, presume to intrude into the sacred recesses of parental or connubial grief.

But we trust, that while we feel for the sorrows of others, we may be allowed to be sensible of our own: and be permitted to recollect that your Royal Daughter, Sir, was, in an important and interesting sense, the daughter of England;—presumptively our future Sovereign—in our hopes the parent of future Kings—one towards whom every eye turned with respect, every heart glowed with affection:—in whom; from race, from education, from talents and from character, Britons were justified in confiding that, whenever in the course of nature it should please Providence to call her to the Throne, she would tread in the steps of her forefathers, and place her glory in maintaining the laws and the liberties of the land. We cannot but regret, that hopes so fair should have proved delusive, and that it must long remain in futurity and in uncertainty, how the losses which the country deplores, are to be repaired.

But we will no longer dwell on evils of which we can neither diminish the magnitude, nor mitigate the impression. As Englishmen we feel and have expressed our feelings in common with our fellow subjects; as Protestant Dissenters, we claim a peculiar interest in the concerns of that Illustrious House, under whose mild and liberal rule our dearest privileges, our religious liberties, have been secured and extended;—and we earnestly pray that the Almighty Ruler of the universe, by whom this stroke has been inflicted, may be graciously pleased to alleviate its weight;—to grant to your Royal Highness those consolations which He alone can render effectual—and to over-rule, for good, an event which now presents itself to our feeble minds, only with an aspect of the deepest and most oppressive gloom.

Signed, by order of the Meeting,

Wm. Smith, Chairman.

[Transmitted by William Smith, Esq. M. P. and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness George Augustus Frederick,
Prince of Wales, Regent of this United Kingdom.

May it please your Royal Highness,

Impressed with a deep sense of the mournful event which has deprived your Royal Highness of a most affectionate daughter, Her Royal Highness the Princess Charlotte Augusta, and persuaded that your Royal Highness is graciously disposed to find a melancholy consolation in the painful condolences of a loyal people, we, the Inhabitants of the Town and Vicinity of Coleshill, in the County of Warwick, beg leave to assure your Royal Highness, that, in common with His Majesty's dutiful and devoted subjects, we feelingly participate in your great affliction.

Through your Royal Highness's Illustrious House, the blessings of Providence have abundantly flowed upon our favoured land, and in this hour of its awful visitation, we commit, with unaltered confidence, our hopes and fortunes to the same parental government; under the same Divine protection.

Carew Thomas Elers, Curate of Coleshill.

[Transmitted by Dugdale Stratford Dugdale, Esq. M. P. and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness the Prince REGENT.

WE, His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Bishop, Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral Church, Chancellor, Archdeacons, and Clergy of the Diocese of Salisbury, beg leave to tender to your Royal Highness, the homage of our sincere and respectful condolence, on the sudden and lamented decease of Her Royal Highness Princess Charlotte Augusta of Saxe Cobourg, an event not less afflicting to your Royal Highness's parental heart, than to the feelings of the whole British nation.

Our grief, on this mournful occasion, cannot but be augmented by the recollection, that Her Royal Highness was eminently distinguished by those qualities which gave additional dignity to her exalted rank, and held out to us the fairest promise of a long continuance of those blessings which this country has uniformly enjoyed under the mild and constitutional rule of your Royal Highness's illustrious House.

Taught by the religion, of which we are Ministers, to bow with resignation to the inscrutable decrees of a mysterious but merciful Providence, and not forgetting that, under its gracious superintendence, this kingdom has experienced many and most signal deliverances, we know that our sorrow, however poignant, ought not to assume the character of despair. Impressed with this conviction we anxiously hope and earnestly pray that your Royal Highness's sufferings may be assuaged, and your fortitude sustained, by the consolation and support which a due sense of humble dependence on the will and power of Heaven can alone supply; that the Supreme Disposer of all events, may vouchsafe his protection to your Royal Highness's person and Government; that your life may be long preserved to us, and that when your Royal Highness shall be called to fulfill your higher destinies, your Crown may derive its brightest lustre and main security from the attachment and fidelity of an enlightened and united people.

[Transmitted by the Bishop of Salisbury, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness George, Prince Regent of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, &c. &c. &c.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council of the Royal Burgh of Wick, in Common Council assembled, beg leave most humbly to approach your Royal Highness, to express our unfeigned and heartfelt sorrow for the death of her Royal Highness the Princess Charlotte, the beloved daughter and only child of your Royal Highness, and consort of his Serene Highness Prince Leopold of Saxe Cobourg.

Experiencing the blessings of your Royal Highness's Government, we rejoiced in the great talents and exemplary virtues of your illustrious daughter, and fondly hoped she was destined to ascend and adorn the throne of her ancestors, to perpetuate the blessings of their government, and, under Providence, to maintain and extend the glory and prosperity of the British Empire.

It has pleased the Sovereign Disposer of all events to blast these our hopes, so fondly and ardently cherished; to wound deeply the feeling and affectionate heart of your Royal Highness, and to involve the whole Empire, from its highest to its lowest members, in one scene of lamentation and woe.

We desire to bow with profound reverence and submission to the will of Him who wounds and who heals; who killeth and who maketh alive: and though late, owing to our remote situation, in expressing our condolence with your Royal Highness, we beg leave to say, that we yield to none of his Majesty's subjects, in sympathy and sorrow, on the present affecting and lamentable occasion.

That your Royal Highness, and his Serene Highness the Prince Leopold, may receive that consolation which God alone can impart, that your Royal Highness may be long preserved to maintain and defend the liberties of a free, a loyal, and a happy people, and that there may never fail a Prince of the illustrious House of Brunswick, to sit on the throne of Great Britain and Ireland, are the earnest prayers of,

May it please your Royal Highness, the Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council, of the Royal Burgh of Wick.

Signed in our presence and by our appointment at Wick, this 20th day of December 1817, by

William Mac Leay, Provost.

[Transmitted by George Sinclair, Esq. and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

THE following Addresses have been presented to His Serene Highness the Prince Leopold of Saxe Cobourg; which Addresses His Serene Highness was pleased to receive very graciously:

To His Serene Highness Prince Leopold of Saxe Cobourg.

WE, the Mayor, Masters, and Counsellors, Burgesses, and Inhabitants of the Borough of Totnes, beg leave to address your Serene Highness with the language of sincere condolence on the recent affliction which has fallen on your Highness and on the nation.

We fully appreciate the agonizing feelings which must rend the heart of your Serene Highness on so severe a dispensation of Divine Providence. Yet your Highness mourns not alone; the whole people of the United Kingdom participate in your sufferings; and having built our fondest hopes on the numerous virtues your late lamented and illustrious consort so constantly exhibited, the more acutely do we feel our disappointment; yet it is our duty to submit, without repining, to the inscrutable decrees of the Almighty.

As an amiable man, as an affectionate husband, and as manifesting a constant regard for the purity of our invaluable Constitution, your Highness has commanded our respect, and ensured our esteem. That time may mitigate the poignancy of your regrets, and that a long series of health and happiness may yet be in store for your Serene Highness, is our earnest hope, and will be our constant prayer.

[Transmitted by the Mayor, and presented by Sir Robert Gardiner]

To His Serene Highness Prince Leopold of Saxe Cobourg.

WE, the Incorporation of Guild, or Merchants of the ancient Burgh of Dundee, beg leave to approach your Serene Highness, to condole with you upon that afflicting dispensation of Providence, which has deprived the nation of an amiable Princess, and your Serene Highness of a most affectionate and exemplary wife.

When the bitterness of your grief has in some degree subsided, it will be a consolation to your Serene Highness to know that a whole nation feels for your irretrievable loss, and regrets that it has not pleased the Almighty to prolong a union which was hailed with pleasure by a generous people, who admired the virtues of their Princess, and held in high estimation the person of your Serene Highness as the object of her preference.

We hope that the wounds of affection will be alleviated by time; that your Serene Highness, as an adopted British subject, will long live among us to enjoy the happiness which worth confers; and that the remembrance of her who is gone will attach you still more strongly to the destinies of that nation of whose Crown she was the Presumptive Heir.

By order and on behalf of the Guildry Incorporation,

Dundee, November 27, 1817.

[Transmitted by the Dean of Guild, and presented by Sir Robert Gardiner.]

To His Serene Highness the Prince Leopold of Saxe Cobourg.

May it please your Serene Highness,

WE, his Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Noblemen, Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the County of Argyll, request that your Serene Highness will permit us to offer our respectful condolence on the melancholy event of the death of the Princess Charlotte Augusta, which has deprived your Serene Highness of your beloved consort, and crushed the fondest hopes of the country. We will not presume to intrude longer on your sorrow, but conclude by expressing our hope that time may afford some alleviation to the grief which now overwhelms your Serene Highness,

Signed in our name and by our appointment, by his Grace the Duke of Argyll, at Inveraray, the 23d day of December 1817.

[Transmitted by the Duke of Argyll, and presented by Sir Robert Gardiner.]

Unto his Serene Highness the Prince Leopold of Saxe Cobourg.

May it please your Serene Highness,

WE, the Magistrates and Council of the Porough of New-Galloway, beg leave to approach your Serene Highness with sentiments of the most sincere attachment and respect, and to mingle our tears with yours, on the late mournful calamity that has befallen your Serene Highness and the British Empire.

Ever since your Serene Highness arrived in Great Britain, we have had the satisfaction to admire the amiable and virtuous developement of your character, and to anticipate the most happy results from your alliance with the presumptive Heir to the Crown of these Kingdoms.

But it has pleased God to disappoint all our hopes and expectations; and it now remains for us to cherish the memory of the illustrious deceased, and to endeavour to imitate her worth, and trace her steps.

And we devoutly pray that it may please the Almighty Disposer of all events, to soothe the affliction of your Serene Highness, to pour balm into your bleeding heart, and to render the remainder of your days fortunate and happy.

Signed in our name and by our appointment, in our presence in Council assembled, at New-Galloway, the 8th day of December 1817.

Thomas Grierson, Provost.

[Transmitted by the Provost, and presented by Sir Robert Gardiner.]

To His Serene Highness the Prince Leopold of Saxe Cobourg.

The respectful and affectionate Address of the Town Council of Saint Andrews.

WE, the Lord Provost, Dean of Guild, Magistrates, and Council of the ancient City of Saint Andrews, in Common Council assembled, anxious to condole with your Serene Highness on your and our late irreparable loss, hasten to assure your Highness, that we most deeply partake in your sacred grief. Having in common with the whole body of His Majesty's loyal subjects, participated in the happy prospect afforded us by your marriage with our amiable and beloved Princess, we felt with more acuteness the deprivation of all our sanguine hopes: we bow, however, with humble reverence to this immutable decree of the Almighty, and we pray that he may enable you to do so also.

We offer to your Serene Highness the sincere assurance of our lasting attachment and regard, which we consider due to you, not only from having been the esteemed husband of our beloved and much lamented Princess, but as a just tribute to your own exalted merits.

Signed in our name and presence, this 6th day of December 1817 years, by,

Robt. Meldrum, Provost.

[Transmitted by the Provost, and presented by Sir Robert Gardiner.]

To His Serene Highness Leopold George Frederick Prince of Saxe Cobourg of Saalfeld.

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Inhabitants of the ancient City of Peterborough, presume to intrude upon the sacred retirement of sorrow, to tender to your Serene Highness our unfeigned condolence on an occasion of such exquisite affliction, as that which has at once bereaved your Serene Highness of an amiable consort, endeared by conjugal perfection, and the nation of so bright and illustrious an example of feminine excellence, in whom virtue was exhibited in all its dignity, and royalty in all its condescension.

Incompetent as we find ourselves to embody our feelings in language adequately expressive, we yet confidently hope, that the present imperfect offering will be graciously received by your Serene Highness, as a testimony, however feeble, of the high sense we entertain of those estimable qualities, which have not failed to secure to your Serene Highness the unfading esteem and regard of a sympathizing nation.

Whilst with sincere regret we contemplate those sorrows which, with such overwhelming pressure, assail the breast of your Serene Highness, we cannot but encourage the cheering hope, that the animating recollection of conscious rectitude, and these spontaneous suffrages of a free people, may conjointly contribute to administer some portion of alleviation.

To the tender mercy of that Almighty Being, whom in the hour of prosperity your Serene Highness has so faithfully served, we fervently commit your cause, earnestly beseeching Him to soothe, comfort, and support your Serene Highness in this moment of adversity; and we repose on the comfortable assurance, that from the strict and laudable attention to religious duties, for which your Serene Highness is so eminently distinguished, there will plenteously flow those heavenly consolations, which the blessings of this world cannot secure, and which, we trust, its sorrows have not been able to disturb.

Signed at the request, and on the behalf of the meeting, Wm. Strong, Chairman, D.D.

[Transmitted by the Rev. William Strong, and presented by Sir R. Gardiner.]

To His Serene Highness Leopold George Frederick, Prince of Saxe Cobourg, &c. &c. &c.

The humble and respectful Address of the Corporation and principal Inhabitants of Harwich.

SIR,

WE, the Mayor, Aldermen, Capital Burgesses, and principal Inhabitants of the ancient and loyal Borough of Harwich, impressed with the keenest feelings of regret at the late awful visitation which has befallen your Serene Highness, most humbly beg to assure you how unfeignedly we sympathize in that distress, which the loss of such an aimable and affectionate consort must occasion.

In common with the people of His Majesty's realms, we fondly hailed in our beloved and much-lamented Princess, our future Sovereign; and hoped that her happy union with your Serene Highness would have been long and prosperous; and that the virtues of the parents, descending through an illustrious offspring, would long have blessed this once happy kingdom; but Heaven decrees it otherwise, and Prince and people must submit.

May your Serene Highness find consolation in this reflection, as well as in the tears and earnest prayers of an affectionate country, endeared to you by the sweetest remembrances of connubial bliss.

Henry Deane, Mayor.

To Field Marshal His Serene Highness Prince Leopold of Saxe Cobourg, K.G. and G.C.B.

The humble Address of the States of His Majesty's Island of Alderney.

WE, the Governor, the Court, the King's Officers, and Dozeniers of His Majesty's Island of Alderney, in the States assembled, beg leave, in common with the rest of our countrymen, to offer to your Serene Highness our unfeigned condolence on your late melancholy and irreparable loss.

Though a mournful silence would better have suited with feelings, the acuteness of which may be conceived but cannot be expressed, yet we humbly hope it may be some small consolation to your Serene Highness to know that this sudden and severe affliction is not felt by yourself alone—a whole nation deplores it. All indeed who have heard of the Princess Charlotte must lament her loss, and participate in your grief; but in the too faithful recollection of the exalted virtues which adorned her mind, and which beamed with benevolence in every action of her life, the regret is deeply augmented, and conveys to our sorrowing bosoms, the heart-rending sufferings of your own.

In woe like this, there can be no relief in words; there is but one Power who can soothe, who can administer the balm of consolation to your aching heart; and most earnestly do we implore that Almighty Power to watch over, to comfort, and support your Serene Highness under the load of affliction with which, in His unerring wisdom, it hath pleased Him to visit you; and that your Serene Highness may, in due time, be permitted to enjoy a full portion of the blessings of this life, is the hope, as ardent as it is sincere, of your Serene Highness's very faithful and most humble servants, the Governor, the Court, the King's Officers, and Dozeniers of His Majesty's Island of Alderney.

John Le Mesurier, Governor, commanding the Forces.

Alderney, the 16th of December 1817.

[Transmitted by the Governor, and presented by Sir Robert Gardiner.]

To His Serene Highness Prince Leopold of Saxe Cobourg.

The respectful and affectionate Address of the Presbytery of Annan.

May it please your Serene Highness,

WE, the Ministers and Elders of the Presbytery of Annan, embrace the earliest opportunity of our meeting together, to assure your Serene Highness that we are impressed with the deepest feelings of sympathy for the recent and irreparable loss which you have sustained, and in which the whole empire participates.

As the event which connected your fortunes with those of the British Nation, gratified the wishes, and excited the hopes of every friend of religion and virtue within the United Kingdom, so the mysterious and overwhelming dispensation of Divine Providence, which has so unexpectedly frustrated the design of that connection, has converted the whole community into one great family of mourners.

But whilst we unite with your Serene Highness in deploring the death of a Princess, whose admirable qualities, both of the heart and understanding, promised, under the guidance and by the influence of your maturer excellence, to be the glory and happiness of her future subjects, we also unite in those sentiments of pious resignation to the Will of the Supreme Disposer of events, and of humble confidence in His wisdom and goodness, of which you have set so eminent an example.

Our heart's desire and prayer to Almighty God is, that He may heal the wound which His hand has inflicted; that your soul may be opened more and more to the consolations and the hopes of Christianity, and that although deprived of every thing which to your mind can now be interesting and attractive in the enjoyments and the honours of this mortal state, you may find an ample compensation for all your earthly trials in the well-founded prospect of a Crown of glory and felicity, which fadeth not away.

Signed, in name and by appointment of the Presbytery of Annan, this 11th day of December 1817.

Will. H. Moncrieff, Moderator.

To His Serene Highness Prince Leopold of Saxe Cobourg, &c.

May it please your Serene Highness,

WE, the Ministers and Elders of the Presbytery of Kirkcudbright, at Kirkcudbright assembled, beg leave to approach your Serene Highness with sentiments of the deepest condolence, on that most afflicting dispensation, which has dissolved the tenderest tie which connected your Serene Highness with the British Nation, by depriving you of a Princess—the most affectionate of wives, the most dutiful of daughters,—the pride and glory of our land, whom we had hailed as the mother of a long line of illustrious Kings, and, under whose sway, we had fondly anticipated the happiness of a grateful and loyal people. The many amiable endowments and accomplishments which adorned the character of Her Royal Highness, and shed so bright a lustre on her exalted rank, will long live in British hearts, and the universal sorrow, for her sudden and untimely fate, will be recorded, in the annals of future times, as the dearest tribute to her worth, and the noblest testimony of her virtues!—That your Serene Highness may find your firmest support, under so overwhelming an affliction, in those consolations of our Holy Religion, which lead us to bless Him who giveth, even when it shall please Him to take away, and to anticipate that better world, where the ties of affection shall never be dissolved, but where kindred spirits shall meet to part no more,—is the prayer of, may it please your Serene Highness, the Ministers and Elders of the Presbytery of Kirkcudbright.

The humble and unanimous Address of the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, and Freeholders of the County of Waterford.

ALLOW us, the Inhabitants of the County of Waterford, to approach your Serene Highness, and with sentiments of the most profound respect, to express our deep feeling of sorrow, on the late most disastrous event, which has deprived your Serene Highness of your illustrious Consort, and the nation of a Princess, so justly beloved.—For us to attempt to assuage your poignant grief, would be deemed presumptuous, but to participate in your sufferings, and offer our condolence, we venture to hope, may not be considered intrusive; and if the heartfelt sorrow and sympathy of the United Kingdoms might offer one soothing reflection to the mind of your Serene Highness, we presume to say, that such is the universal feeling; but we trust, that the aid of Divine Providence and the lenient hand of time will afford that consolation, which it is our prayer and hope you may experience.

J. H. Alcock,

High Sheriff of the County of Waterford.

To His Serene Highness Prince Leopold of Saxe Cobourg.

May it please your Serene Highness,

WE, the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, and Freeholders of the County of Down, assembled, beg leave to convey to your Serene Highness the humble but heartfelt expression of our sincere condolence upon the late most calamitous event, with which it has pleased Divine Providence to afflict your Serene Highness and these realms.

For the irreparable loss which your Serene Highness has sustained, we grieve with undissembled sorrow: and the sympathies of the nation accompany you in that retreat, which has so suddenly been changed into a house of mourning.

In the too transient days of your happiness your late illustrious Consort, the ever-to-be-lamented Princess Charlotte Augusta, and your Serene Highness, exhibited to the country a bright example of virtue, which was observed and appreciated by the people, over whose hearts she had already learned to reign; and now, in the days of your affliction, the prayers of that people are offered up to the Great Disposer of events, that you may be enabled to bear the mighty calamity, with which your Serene Highness and the nation has been afflicted, with the fortitude of a man and the resignation of a Christian.

The condoling Address of the Freeholders, Commissioners of Supply, other Heritors, and Justices of the Peace of the County of Inverness, in a General Meeting assembled at Inverness, upon the 19th day of December, in the year 1817.

May it please your Serene Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Freeholders, Commissioners of Supply, other Heritors, and Justices of the Peace of the County of Inverness, humbly beg leave to offer to your Serene Highness our most sincere sympathy, in that unutterable affliction with which it has pleased Almighty God to visit your Serene Highness and the people of these realms.

The same deplored event which, to your Serene Highness, has turned the brightest anticipations of happiness into the certainty of overwhelming woe, and carried desolation into a heart glowing with the best and tenderest feelings of our nature, has aroused in the breasts of a British public an interest more deep and poignant than any national calamity has ever before called forth. If the sympathy of a kind and generous nation can soften one pang in the bosom of your Serene Highness, that sympathy was never more sincerely given: nor is there, in all this mighty empire, one who has not mourned over the grave of your illustrious Consort and her Infant, as if their own dearest ties were broken, and each had lost the fondest object of his individual love.

That it may please Almighty God to support your Serene Highness by those consolations which his mercy extends to all whom he afflicts; and that you may long live among a people to whom your virtues no less than your sorrows have endeared you, is the sincere prayer of

His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Freeholders, Commissioners of Supply, other Heritors, and Justices of the Peace of the County of Inverness.

The condoling Address of the Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council of the Ancient Royal Burgh of Inverness.

May it please your Serene Highness,

WE, His Majesty's faithful and loyal subjects, the Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council of the Ancient Royal Burgh of Inverness, approach your Serene Highness under impressions of deep sorrow, at the sad and afflicting dispensation with which Providence in his divine wisdom hath visited your Serene Highness and this nation.

To soothe the widowed husband's anguish, and the childless parent's disappointed hope, under circumstances so unforeseen and unhappy, is the attribute of God, not of Man; but to sympathize in your sorrow and to offer our mournful tribute of respect on the lamented death of your illustrious Consort, the Princess Charlotte Augusta, is our duty as faithful and loyal subjects, attached to His Majesty, his family, and his Government.

We therefore present our heartfelt sympathy, and our earnest prayer, that your Serene Highness may be supported under your sore affliction by that Being, of whom the sorrowing never seek consolation in vain.

Unto His Serene Highness Prince Leopold of Saxe-Cobourg.

WE, the Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, Commissioners of Supply, and Heritors of the County of Kinross, assembled together in this season of public sorrow and distress, beg leave most respectfully to assure your Serene Highness, that in common with every class of the British nation, we most deeply and sincerely sympathize with you in that heart-rending affliction with which Divine Providence has seen fit to visit your Serene Highness, by the irreparable loss of your late illustrious Consort the Princess Charlotte Augusta.

So unexpected and so severe has been the shock which your Serene Highness has received in this ever-to-be-lamented event, and the peculiarly affecting circumstances attending it—so much was our lamented Princess fitted by her splendid endowments and distinguished virtues to be the admiration and delight of the husband of her choice, and to prove an ornament and a blessing to the Kingdom over which, in the course of Providence, she seemed destined to preside, that we fear adding to the bitterness of your grief, even while we convey to you this our expression of most affectionate condolence.

It only remains for us to add, that in the midst of all our blasted hopes and sorrowing recollections, we bow in submission to the will of the Almighty, and we fervently pray, that He would extend to your Serene Highness his merciful and all powerful consolation.

Unto His Serene Highness the Prince Leopold of Saxe Cobourg, &c. &c. &c.

The humble Address of the Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the County of Caithness.

WITH hearts deeply affected by a feeling of that great calamity which your Serene Highness has been called to suffer, we, the Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the County of Caithness, are desirous to present ourselves before you at this time, as fellow sufferers under that calamity, and sincere partakers in your grief.

But alas! what have we to offer? Only the vain tribute of a tear, to swell that flood of sorrow which has bedewed the tomb of our beloved Princess.

Great and multiplied as are the causes of our sorrow on this mournful occasion, we fear to intrude upon the sacredness of that grief, which to all our afflictions adds that of a widowed heart.

To a mind alive, as is that of your Serene Highness, to the impressions of religion, every suitable motive will present itself to produce resignation under this heavy calamity.

The prayers of an affectionate and loyal people have been sent up to Heaven (and, we trust, not sent in vain), that your Serene Highness may enjoy every consolation which religion is calculated to afford in the season of adversity, and especially that first of all consolations, which flows from a firm trust in the Divine goodness, and a full assurance of that unfading happiness, which is the sure portion of the good and virtuous, in a world to come.

Signed in our presence and by our appointment, at Thurso, this 18th day of December 1817, by

To His Serene Highness the Prince Leopold, of Cobourg of Saalfeld.

WE, the Mayor and Inhabitants of the Town of Bedford, beg leave, in the most respectful manner, to express to your Serene Highness our heartfelt condolence on the death of your illustrious Consort, the late Princess Charlotte of Wales, and the extinction of her Royal Offspring; and we beseech the God of all comfort to support your Serene Highness under a shock as severe and keen, as it has been sudden and unexpected.

But deeply as we feel the extent of the loss which every class and description of His Majesty's subjects have sustained by the premature death of her, who was the hope and pride of Britain, yet we should have abstained from thus intruding on the sacredness of your Serene Highness's sorrows, and reviving the bitterness of your anguish, if we had not feared, that after other Addresses had reached you, it might have been suspected that there were a town in the British empire, which did not acutely feel this great national calamity, and sincerely sympathize in your Serene Highness's grief.

Permit us, at the same time, to testify the high sense we entertain of your Serene Highness's amiable qualities, which engaged and secured the affections of so excellent a Princess; and while we hope that your grief may be somewhat alleviated in witnessing the universal, unexampled, and spontaneous expression of condolence, shewn by a whole people at this heart-rending affliction, it is a source of consolation to us to recollect, that while she was occupied in rendering herself worthy of the throne which she did not live to ascend, she at least enjoyed the satisfaction of being able to say, with her expiring breath, that she had been "the happiest of wives."

To his Serene Highness Leopold George Frederick, Prince of Saxe-Cobourg.

May it please your Serene Highness,

WE, The Mayor, Bayliffs, and Commonalty of the City of Coventry, humbly beg leave to offer to your Serene Highness our sincere condolence on the late most melancholy and irreparable loss which your Serene Highness, through the dispensation of the Almighty, has sustained, in the death of your illustrious Consort, the Princess Charlotte Augusta of Wales.

When our minds are turned to the contemplation of the exalted virtues, the personal accomplishments, and the amiable qualities of her Royal Highness, and the promise held out to the nation, in her person, as our future Sovereign, it is impossible not to feel the deepest sorrow and disappointment: nor can we deny ourselves to commiserate your Serene Highness, who, as the husband of that exalted character, has sustained a loss which it is out of the reach of human events to redeem; and devoutly to pray to that Almighty Being, who alone governs all things divine and human, to afford due consolation and comfort to your Serene Highness on this most afflicting dispensation.

In testimony whereof, we have hereunto affixed our common seal, this 2d day of December 1817.

To His Serene Highness Leopold Prince of Saxe Cobourg.

MAY it please your Serene Highness to permit the Royal College of Physicians at Edinburgh to express the sympathy which they most sincerely feel with your Serene Highness, under a stroke which has produced heartfelt and universal mourning throughout the British empire.

Gratified in a very high degree by the alliance of your illustrious and lamented Consort to the husband of her choice, and rejoicing in your mutual and individual happiness, they contemplated in the character of your Serene Highness, and in the prospects which your union with the Princess Charlotte Augusta afforded, events of greatest promise to the interests and well-being of this empire.

Altho' they may not be able to conceive the full measure of the sorrows of your Serene Highness, widowed by Divine Providence in so affecting a manner, they deeply feel the sudden and the bitter reverse, which the hopes of the nation have experienced.

They will not intrude on the griefs of your Serene Highness farther than to say, that your behaviour on this occasion has confirmed the respect and esteem felt towards your Serene Highness by all ranks, and that they unite with every individual of these kingdoms in most ardent wishes for your consolation and your future welfare.

WE, the Bailiffs and Burgesses of the Borough of Bridport, in the County of Dorset, in Common Council assembled, deeply sympathizing in the severe and bitter affliction in which your Serene Highness has been plunged, by the unexpected death of your Serene Highness's illustrious and universally beloved and lamented Consort, the late Princess Charlotte Augusta, respectfully beg leave to offer to your Serene Highness our sincere and heartfelt condolence on so mournful and affecting an event; and we entreat permission to express to your Serene Highness our ardent prayers and hopes that you may be sustained and comforted under this most distressing privation, and that the same over-ruling Providence which has inflicted the wound, may restore to your Serene Highness that tranquillity and peace which may enable you long to enjoy the respect, attachment, and esteem of an approving nation.

Given under our common seal, this 22d day of December 1817.

To His Serene Highness Leopold George Frederick, Prince of Cobourg, &c. &c. &c.

May it please your Serene Highness,

WE, the Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council of Edinburgh, beg leave to present to your Serene Highness the respectful assurance of our deep and heartfelt condolence, on the recent most afflictive loss which you have so prematurely and distressfully sustained, by the lamented death of your august Consort.

With the most poignant sympathy and sorrow, we deplore your irreparable bereavement of the accomplishments, the worth, and the affection which had so tenderly endeared her society to you, and sweetened all your enjoyments and hopes.

Permit us, Sir, to add, that we are conscious, even while we offer this humble and mournful tribute of our respect, that no expression of condolence and sympathy from any quarter, can fully avail to console your Serene Highness, at this season of justly founded and unutterable grief. But we request you to forgive us for this intrusion of our feelings, in a case which has affected us so sincerely and so strongly, and which affords us the opportunity we now presume most zealously to embrace, of conveying to your Serene Highness, our unqualified conviction, that, from your manners, principles and taste, having gained the perfect esteem and regard of that illustrious and amiable Princess, and having contributed so highly to her happiness, your Serene Highness has attracted and secured, in the utmost degree, the united admiration and gratitude of the whole British Empire.

Signed, in our name, and by our appointment, and the seal of the City affixed hereto, at Edinburgh, the 10th day of December 1817.

The humble Address of the Noblemen, Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the County of Linlithgow, in public meeting assembled.

May it please your Serene Highness,

We are sensible, Sir, that no expressions of ours can convey to your Serene Highness, on the present occasion, that consolation which we earnestly desire to see you enjoy. But assembled as we are, for the purpose of laying before his Royal Highness the Prince Regent, our sentiments of condolence and sympathy on the late melancholy events, we cannot refrain from testifying to your Serene Highness, the admiration which we feel for your character and virtues, and the warm interest we take in your future welfare.

A stranger to this nation, your Serene Highness, has, nevertheless, obtained the unqualified respect and affection of all ranks among us, and in the most trying hour of domestic sorrow, we have seen fresh cause of esteem, and additional motives for lamenting the dissolution of those ties which had united the fortunes of your Serene Highness with the welfare of this empire.

Whatever may be the future course of your life, our respect and esteem will not fail to follow your Serene Highness, and, in the affectionate attachment of the British people, we are assured that your Serene Highness will not only find relief under present affliction, but the brightest reward of your virtues, and the most certain support under all the events of life.

TO His Serene Highness Leopold George Frederick, Duke of Saxe, Margrave of Meissen, Landgrave of Thuringuen, Prince of Cobourg Saalfeld, &c. &c. &c.

WE, the Mayor, Aldermen, Common Council-

Men, Burgesses and Inhabitants of the Town and Borough of Pembroke, beg leave to offer unto your Serene Highness, our sincere sentiments of condolence, on the lamented death of your Royal Consort. We would not thus intrude on the sacredness of sorrow, did we not conceive it a duty we owe to the memory of the amiable virtues and the exalted character of our departed Princess, as well as to the respect we bear for that eminently exemplary conduct on all occasions, displayed by you towards Her Royal Highness; whilst therefore we express our feelings of sorrow, for an event which has afflicted the whole British Empire, and our admiration for those virtues which are the highest ornament of domestic life, we at the same time assure you of our best wishes for the welfare of your Serene Highness, and that you may long enjoy that happiness which the subjects of the King of Great Britain must in gratitude ever hope will be your reward.

To His most Serene Highness Leopold Duke of Saxony, Margrave of Misnia, Landgrave of Thuringia, Prince of Cobourg and of Saalfeld.

WE, his Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Mayor, Corporation, and Undersigned Inhabitants of the Ancient City or Borough of Wells and its Vicinity, beg leave most respectfully to express our unfeigned sorrow, for the severe and afflicting loss which your most Serene Highness and this nation have sustained, in the death of your late excellent and gracious Consort: the anxiety which manifested itself in every quarter whilst the event was in suspense—the unexampled consternation which so universally spread itself, when the fatal catastrophe became known—the profound grief which has seized and sunk deep into the heart of every individual of every class of His Majesty's loyal subjects—furnish the purest and most unerring testimony of the high sense which this nation entertained of the eminent virtues and splendid accomplishments of this illustrious Princess, and of the magnitude of the loss which it has suffered. Long, Sir, will her virtues live in the remembrance of the British people.

We most respectfully beg leave to offer to your most Serene Highness, our best wishes for your health and welfare, and we fervently hope, Sir, that the sympathetick and profound feeling of sorrow, which has so generally and so spontaneously shewn itself on this mournful occasion, may afford some consolation to the mind of your most Serene Highness under this severe trial.
