THE following Addresses have been presented to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent; which Addresses His Royal Highness was pleased to receive very graciously:

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral Church of the Holy and Indivisible Trinity in Gloucester, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness, in order to lay before you the most respectful assurances of our duty, and to declare the interest we feel in every circumstance that either promotes the happiness of your Royal Highness, or that afflicts your heart with deep regret.

We now beg particularly to express the share we take in that unfeigned sentiment of concern and sorrow, which, with so much credit to the character of the nation, has been uniformly felt and testified throughout the kingdom, in consequence of the lamented death of your Royal Highness's beloved daughter, the Consort of His Serene Highness the Prince of Saxe Cobourg, a loss so truly to be deplored, for the sake of the public hopes and prospects so materially involved therein, and so peculiarly afflicting to your Royal Highness, her suffering parent.

We offer up our prayers to the Great Disposer of all events, that He will graciously be pleased to mitigate your Royal Highness's great trial and distress, and preserve your Royal Highness in the enjoyment of health and of prosperity, for your own comfort and for the continuing welfare of your afflicted people.

[Transmitted by the Lord Chancellor, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, and Clergy within the Diocese of Lichfield and Coventry, most humbly beg leave to approach your Royal Highness and to express, with the rest of His Majesty's loyal and affectionate subjects, our deep affliction and heartfelt sorrow on account of the loss, which your Royal Highness and the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland have sustained, by the death of your Royal Highness's most excellent daughter, the late Princess Charlotte Augusta, Consort of that justly esteemed and exemplary Prince, His Serene Highness Prince Leopold of Saxe Cobourg. When the distressing effects and general pressure occasioned by a great temporary abatement of trade had gradually subsided, and the very severe and extensive consequences of a season unusually inclement had ceased to furnish anxiety, and we were rendering our grateful acknowledgments to our Heavenly Father for these unmerited instances of Divine Mercy, a most awful and afflicting dispensation of the Providence of God again humbled us, under His Almighty Hand, and brought upon us the sad cause of the present universal and overwhelming grief.

We most earnestly pray that your Royal Highness may admit such salutary supplies of consolation as may afford support under this trying calamity, and that all His Majesty's subjects may manifest a due sense of this sudden check to their joyful anticipations, by patient resignation to the Divine Will, by the general exercise of true devotion and piety, and by habitual obedience to Christian precept.

I, Lichfield and Coventry.

[Transmitted by the Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Nobility, Gentlemen, Clergy, and Freeholders of the County of Brecon, deeply penetrated with a sense of the poignant anguish that afflicts your Royal Highness by the death of your beloved daughter, Her Royal Highness the Princess Charlotte Augusta of Wales, beg leave to pre-
