Notice to the Creditors of Alexander Wilson and Company, Haberdashers, Edinburgh.

Edinburgh, May 2, 1818.

FROM so few affidavits having been lodged with him, the Trustee, Mr. F. Gibb, of Messrs Gibb and Ogilvie, Infirmary-Street, Edinburgh, has postponed the payment of a final dividend until the 10th day of June next. On that day, for certain, the whole funds will be divided among those who shall have lodged affidavits and vouchers of debt on or before the 3d of June next; and along with the other Creditors, the Trustee will rank the Creditors of A. and W. Wilson for the balances respectively due of the composition agreed to be received by them. The books of the Company having been kept in such a manner as to afford little or no help in the making up of a state of affairs, the Trustee must rely almost entirely on the affidavits and vouchers lodged with him; and, therefore, Creditors who do not attend to this in time will have themselves only to blame.
