Published by Authority.

From Thursday July 6. to Monday July 10. 1682.

Lisbonne, June 8.

THE first Instant our Fleet, consisting of eight Men of War (which are fitted out with great splendor) put to Sea, with the other Ships that attend them. The Admiral's Ship carries 800 Men, and the others 5 and 600 each; and many persons of the first Quality are on board them, to attend the Duke of Savoy in his passage hither, while in the mean time all possible preparations are making for his reception here; and among other things several Triumphant Arches are building.

Turin, June 28. Yesterday we had an account by an Express, That the Portuguese Fleet arrived the 24th Instant at Villa-Franca. That the Duke of Cadaval was come ashore, and that we might expect him here in few days: Whereupon the Duke of Savoy sent a Gentleman to Compliment him, with his Coaches to bring him hither. In the mean time all things are putting into a readiness for his Highnesses departure from hence, but the time is not yet set, because his Highness is not perfectly recovered of his late illness. The 24th Instant arrived here the Marquis de la Trousse, Lieutenant General of the French Kings Armies, and the same day had Audience of the Duke and Dutchess.

Venice, June 27. We have Letters from Constantinople of the sixth past, which say, That the Captain Bassa was at Sea with 36 Gallies, to gather the Tribute of the Isles in the Archipelago; That the differences between the Grand Vizier and the French Ambassador still continued, and that it was believed the French would at last be obliged to pay the moneys demanded by the Grand Vizier for the action at Selo. The Duke of Mantua, who has passed some time here, parted from hence on Thursday last.

Dantzick, July 5. We have Letters from Moscow, which give us a very sad account of the state of things there, the Soldiers having, upon the death of the late Czar, entred into a combination against his Brother and Successor, (who is not above 14 years old) and having gone so far, as not only to set up another to be Czar, but to kill several Boyars and others of the chiefest Quality, whom they thought they should receive the greatest opposition from, as well as many of their own Officers that would not joyn with them; so that when these Letters came away, things were in the greatest confusion imaginable at Moscow, and this Insurrection had lasted three days, viz. on the 15th, 16th and 17th of the last Month, with the slaughter of many eminent Persons. We have advice from Riga. That the great City of Plesko is quite destroyed by fire, there being not above 70 houses remaining.

Vienna, June 28. The Imperial Troops are marching towards Hungary, the Emperor thinking it necessary to encrease his Forces on that side, that they may be able to make head against the Turks, in case they should attempt any thing in favour of the Hungarians. It is most certain that they have a considerable Body together near Offen, but what their design is, we cannot yet discover, and we are willing to believe that they have no intention to do any thing to the prejudice of the Peace. Our advices from Turkey speak very differently of the success of Count Caprara's Negotiation at Constantinople, some Letters assuring us that he finds the Ministers there altogether disposed to renew the Peace, and others speaking quite the contrary. While things in Hungary are in this posture, we are not like to write much from hence with relation to the affairs of the Empire, it being the general opinion that the Emperor will not engage himself on that side, till he have some assurance that the Peace will be continued between him and the Turks.

Ratisbonne, July 2. The first Instant arrived here Count Waldeck General of the Forces of the Empire, from Vienna, and the next day he parted again for Wurtsburg, to confer with the Bishop of that place concerning the present affairs, and to view the Troops he has on foot for the service of the Empire.

Cologne, July 7. The Letters we receive from Vienna continue to speak of the apprehensions they have there of the Turks, who they say are drawing together near Sonluck, between the great Waradin and the River Theis; the Prince of Transylvania and Count Teckley had received orders to joyn them, between whom there are great jealousies, by reason of the latter's aiming at the Principality of Transylvania: The Letters add, That the Vizier of Offen had given Count Teckley 1000 Famizaries to serve him, as was pretended, for a Guard to his Person, but that in reality their business was to have an eye upon him, and to secure him in the Interests of the Port.

Hamburg, July 10. Our Letters from Stockholm give us an account, That on the 27th past, the Queen of Sweden was brought to Bed of a Son, to the great joy of that Court, who was Christned by the name of Charles. The King of Denmark arrived the third of this Month at Copenbagen, and according to what was reported there, his Majesty intends to return in a short time into these parts.

Hague, July 14. This place affords not at present any considerable News. The Prince and Princess of Orange will part, in a day or two, for Dieren, where they will pass some time. The Prince Regent of Portugal has, by a Letter to the States General, given them notice of the intended Marriage between the Infanta and the Duke of Savoy.

Brussels, July 10. The Marquis de Grana has, as we are informed, resolved to comply with the States of this Province, upon the offer they have made of 800 thousand Florins; his Excellency being satisfied that they are not well able at present to grant any greater Sum. The account we have of Monsieur de Larvoy's returning for Paris, has caused us of the apprehensions prehensions his arrival in these parts, and the diligence he used in his Journey, had given us; and we hope, That notwithstanding all the discourages that have of late been so common, as if a War was going to break out, the Peace will be continued, and the differences that are now depending, happily composed. Our Advices from Germany do not at present say any thing of the March of the Imperial Troops towards the Rhine; and it's believed that while the affairs of Hungary are in that uncertainty which they are at present, the Emperor will not send any considerable Body of Men into the Empire. The disorders at Siege encrease daily, and are now come to a very great height, the Burghers having been in Arms for several days, and have displaced two of their Burgermasters, (who are, thereupon, to avoid the insolence of the Rabble, retir'd to Maeſtricht) and put all things into confusion.

Paris, July 11. Orders have been sent to Monsieur du Queſne, of whose arrival at Toulon we have already given you an account, to put immediately to Sea again with the Ships designed against Argiers, the King being resolved to prosecute the War against that Government with all the vigor imaginable. Since the dissolving of the Assembly of the Clergy, it has been discoursed as if a way would be found to compose the differences between this Court and that of Rome; though at the same time we do not see but the King is resolved to maintain his Edict upon the late Declaration of the Clergy.

Whitehal, July 6. The following Address from Great Bedwyn was presented to His Majesty by the Right Honourable the Lord Bruce, and was very graciously received by his Majesty, as was likewise that from Temkesbury.

To the Kings most Excellent Majesty.

WHE Your Majesties most Dutiful and Loyal Subjects, the Bailiffs, Portreeve, and Burgeses of Your Majesties most ancient Corporation and Burough of Great Bedwyn, in the County of Wilt, in manifestation of our constant Loyalties, do not only from our hearts Detest and Abhor, but hereby under our hands Renounce, Disclaim, and Disown that most damnable Conspiracy and Register of Rebellion, contained in, and contrived by that Assassinating ASSOCIATION, late found in the Earl of Shaftsbury's Closet: And do hereby fully assure Your most Sacred Majesty, That we shall, and will, with our Lives and Fortunes, adhere unto, fully and faithfully assist and defend Your Majesties most Sacred Person and Government, in the most Legal and Lineal Descent thereof; whereunto we hold ourselves obliged by Vows and Sacred Bonds. And whenever Your Majesty shall be pleased to call a Parliament, we will do our endeavours to send thither such Representatives for us, as shall and will there consent unto such good and wholesome Laws as may fully and firmly fix Your Majesties Regal Power, Prerogative, and Government both in Church and State, against all Fanatical Factions and Rebellious Practices and Principles whatsoever.

May it please Your most Sacred Majesty,

WHEN the Bayliffs, Burgeses, and Commonalty of Your Majesties Antient Burough of Temkesbury in Your County of Glocester, humbly prostrate our selves at Your Royal Feet, with as deep and Loyal sense, as true and faithful Subjects can profess, of the great Happiness we enjoy under Your Majesties most Auspicious Government, imploring Your Majesties Gracious Acceptance of this our most unfeigned Abhorrence and Detestation of all manner of Leagues and Associations which by the cursed Designs of any false Archbishops, have been or may be set on foot in this Nation, without Your Majesties Authority. More especially, we do with the greatest horror, from the bottom of our Hearts, detest that Seditious and Traiterous Paper of Association lately discovered, which, had it taken effect, would have totally subverted the best of Governments both in Church and State, and miserably involved us in another unnatural Civil War: In all humble and obedient Loyalty, we therefore presume to declare it our firm and hearty Resolution (as in Duty and Allegiance we are bound) on all occasions with the utmost of our Lives and Fortunes ready to defend and maintain Your Majesties Sacred Person and Your just Rights and Prerogatives against all Invaders and Opposers whatsoever, the Succession of the Crown in its due and legal Course of Lineal Descent, and the true Protestant Religion, as now Established by Law, (which never taught or practised any kind of Rebellion) against the Hellish Contrivances of all its Popish and Phanatick Enemies. And our daily Prayers are, Dread Sovereign, That the King of Kings will preserve Your Majesty in Health and Happiness, long and long to Reign over us, and that on Your Sacred Head and Royal Line the Crown may ever flourish. Given under Our Hands and Common Seal of our said Burough, at a Common Council held at the Telſey there the Thirteenth day of June, in the Four and thirtieth Year of Your Majesties Reign.

Falmouth, July 3. The 30th past came in here His Majesties Ship the Diamond, Captain Jones Commander.
