THE following Address has been presented to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent; which Address His Royal Highness was pleased to receive very graciously:

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, &c. &c.

The humble and dutiful Address of the Presbyterian Ministers and Elders, distinguished by the name Seceders, of this part of the United Kingdom called Ireland, assembled in Cookstown, the 8th of July 1818.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Presbyterian Ministers and Elders, distinguished by the name Seceders, cordially embrace the opportunity of our annual meeting, to lay before the Throne the sincere expressions of our inviolable attachment and gratitude to His Majesty's Person, Family, and Government, under which we are happily blessed with the undisturbed enjoyment of civil and religious liberty, and have increased in number and respectability.

In the domestic afflictions of the Royal Family, we feel a lively sympathy and anxious solicitude; with the deepest concern we have heard of the much lamented and long continued indisposition of our venerable Monarch, from whose liberality we have received repeated proofs of paternal affection.

In the joy and the triumphs excited by the grand events that have occurred under your Royal Highness's administration, we have participated with no ordinary emotions of gratitude to the Giver of all Good. Events for which past times can scarcely produce a parallel, and which have elevated the British empire to a pinnacle of glory, unrivalled among the nations of the world; and while we have recorded with thanksgivings the victories which have been achieved by sea and land, we have beheld with astonishment and transport the extraordinary exertions which are made to communicate the light of Christianity to the regions which have long lain in the shadow of death. Thus exhibiting the British empire in the singular attitude of wielding with one hand the thunderbolts of war, and holding forth in the other the word of God and the olive branch of peace to the different nations of the earth.

As unmingled prosperity is not the lot of man, it has pleased Providence, after our victories and triumphs, to visit us with famine and with a pestilential disease, attended with unusual mortality; we have felt some of the bitter effects of a long protracted war, but we are happy to state that judgments have been accompanied with mercy, and a brighter prospect is now opened to our view, in the revival of trade, and the promising abundance with which the fields are covered.

Our prayers for your Royal Highness are, that you may be long spared; that your administration may be peaceful and prosperous; and that when you cease to reign on earth, you may be elevated to a throne on which no anxiety is felt, and from which there is no removal.

Signed, by order,

James Rentoul, Moderator.

[Transmitted by His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]
