SATURDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1818.

Heralds'-College, December 5, 1818.

THE interment of Her late Most Excellent Majesty Queen Charlotte, of blessed memory, took place in the Royal Chapel of St. George, within the Castle of Windsor, on Wednesday evening the 2d instant.—An account of the solemnities observed upon this melancholy occasion will appear in the Gazette of Tuesday next.

Carlton-House, December 4, 1818.

THIS day the Right Honourable Lord Grenville, Chancellor of the University of Oxford, with the Reverend Dr. Hodson, the Vice-Chancellor, waited on His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, and being introduced by the Lord of His Majesty's Bedchamber in Waiting, presented to His Royal Highness the humble Address of the Chancellor, Masters, and Scholars of that University, on the occasion of the death of Her late Majesty; which Address His Royal Highness was pleased to receive very graciously; and the Chancellor and Vice-Chancellor had the honour to kiss His Royal Highness's hand:

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT,
&c. &c. &c.

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Chancellor, Masters, and Scholars of the University of Oxford, intreat your Royal Highness's permission to lay before your Royal Highness the expression of our unfeigned condolence on the event which has deprived the country of its most illustrious example of female virtue in all the relations of public and domestic life, and has involved your Royal Highness and your Royal House in inexpressible affliction.

But we derive consolation, as we humbly and dutifully hope your Royal Highness may, from reflecting that Her Majesty's life had been extended beyond the ordinary duration of human existence; that it was passed in the habitual practice of virtue and religion, and that it terminated in a manner which confirmed the impressions which such a life had made.

The influence of the edifying example which has thus been exhibited to the world, of the composure which religion can impart to the closing scene of life, and of the consolations which may be administered by filial piety, will, we confidently hope, long survive the melancholy occasion over which we mourn; and tend to the maintenance and diffusion of those moral and religious principles which constitute the only true foundation of national prosperity and happiness.

Given at the House of our Convocation, this 2d day of December, in the year of our Lord 1818.

Carlton-House, December 4, 1818.

THIS day the Honourable and Reverend Dr. Neville, Vice-Chancellor of the University of Cambridge, waited on His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, and being introduced by the Lord of His Majesty's Bedchamber in Waiting, presented to His Royal Highness the humble Address of the Chancellor, Masters, and Scholars of that University, on the occasion of the death of Her late Majesty; which Address His Royal Highness was pleased to receive very graciously; and the Vice-Chancellor had the honour to kiss His Royal Highness's hand:

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

May it please your Royal Highness,

TO permit His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Chancellor, Masters, and Scholars, of the ancient University of Cambridge, sincerely to condole with your Royal Highness upon the loss of our late most gracious Queen your royal mother.

Placed in the most exalted station in these kingdoms, Her Majesty for more than half a century afforded by the practice of every Christian virtue, the brightest example to all ranks of His Majesty's subjects; and by that strict adherence to decorum which stamped every action of her life, rendered her court, under such fostering influence, a perfect pattern to surrounding nations.

The Almighty Disposer of all human affairs, who in His Wisdom sees fit so severely to afflict your Royal House, can alone administer consolation and support to your Royal Highness, under this heavy dispensation of His Providence; but the consciousness of that filial piety, which from your earliest infancy has so eminently distinguished your Royal Highness, cannot but soothe the bitter feelings of regret excited by such a loss! The great and conspicuous qualities which characterized Her late Majesty, will long live in the remembrance of His Majesty's loyal University of Cambridge, and cannot fail more than ever to attach them to your Royal Highness and to every member of her illustrious descendants.

Deeply impressed with a sense of the sorrow which overwhelms your Royal Highness, we will not presume to intrude further on your grief than to express our humble gratitude for being permitted to approach your royal person in this early period of your affliction, and to assure you that the example of your Royal Highness will be held up to the youth committed to our charge as a model of filial duty.

THE following Addresses, having been transmitted to Viscount Sidmouth, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, by the several persons whose names are respectively subjoined to each Address, have been presented by His Lordship to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, who was pleased to receive the same very graciously:

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council of the City of Edinburgh, most dutiful and loyal subjects of His Majesty, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with the most profound respect, and to express our unfeigned and deep feelings of sympathy and condolence on the lamented death of your august parent, Her Majesty the Queen, the illustrious consort of our venerable Sovereign.

We reflect, with a mournful gratification, on the memory of the many eminent virtues which adorned and exalted the character of Her Majesty; and while we bow with humble acquiescence in the appointments of Providence, we sincerely condole with your Royal Highness on this afflictive event, which has removed from the nation, whose interests are so dear to your Royal Highness, that salutary example and influence by which Her Majesty had so long contributed most effectually to promote the public welfare, by guarding and improving the public morals.

It is, at the same time, with the most lively concern, that we sympathise, in common with our fellow subjects, in that more tender sorrow which domestic affection awakens in the bosom of your Royal Highness. But we humbly rely on your Royal Highness deriving, under the pressure of this severe calamity, all the consolations which Religion is ready to afford, and which cannot but spring also from the consciousness of those zealous and endearing attentions which soothed the last scenes of your royal parent's sufferings, and which have attracted so deservedly, from every quarter of the kingdom, the most unqualified respect and admiration.

Signed in our name, and by our appointment, and the seal of the city affixed hereto, at Edinburgh, this 25th day of November 1818 years, Kincaid Mackenzie, Lord Provost.

[Transmitted by the Lord Provost, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Mayor and Commonalty of New Sarum, in Common Council assembled, humbly desire to condole with your Royal Highness on the irreparable loss recently sustained by your Royal Highness, by the Royal Family, and by the nation, in the death of Her Most Excellent Majesty the Queen.

The people of this United Kingdom ever faithful to His Majesty, and grateful for the blessings which are enjoyed under the Government of his illustrious Line, feel a lively interest in whatever affects or concerns the Royal House, and unite in general sorrow on the present melancholy occasion.

That your Royal Highness may live long to enjoy the affections of His Majesty's subjects, rendered prosperous and happy by a wise administration of our laws, is our constant prayer.

Given under our common seal the 18th day of November in the year of our Lord 1818.

[Transmitted by the Town Clerk, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

WE, the inhabitants of the Towns of Manchester and Salford, humbly approach your Royal Highness to testify our sincere condolence on the decease of your august mother, the revered and beloved Queen of this realm.

In offering the present tribute of loyal and respectful sympathy, our thoughts naturally dwell on the many excellencies which adorned the character of the illustrious personage now no more. By her death a bright example of public and private virtue is lost to her subjects. Her Majesty had established an undoubted claim to our regard and veneration by her condescending and affable deportment, by her acts of well-directed bounty, by her deep sense of religion; by her firm and constant rebuke of licentious manners in her own sex, and by her faithful attachment to her royal consort, the best of Sovereigns, more especially when the mysterious hand of Heaven had left him little, if at all conscious of her dutiful attentions. To the virtues of our deceased Queen, her exalted station gave peculiar weight and value, and while the purity of her moral principles tended to increase the sum of happiness in private life; it ~~evented~~ also the most salutary influence for the peace and stability of the empire.

No doubt the protracted sufferings which preceded Her Majesty's dissolution, and the fulness of years, which Providence in his goodness allowed her to attain, had in some measure prepared the minds even of her nearest relations for the event. But by the sacred laws of nature it is forbidden, that our kindred should ever be taken away without a pang to the survivors; nor can it be supposed, that the wounds thus inflicted on the feelings of your Royal Highness will be easily or soon healed. For the anguish of those wounds, however, there is provided a balm, in the recollection of a course of the tenderest and most affectionate assiduity, which filial piety could prompt in the last days of a parent languishing on the bed of mortal sickness.

Her Majesty had shared the Throne of this kingdom for more than half a century. It is not possible for us therefore to call to mind her exemplary conduct during the whole of that unusual period without the liveliest sentiments of gratitude and regret. In the sorrows of your Royal Highness and the other members of the Royal Family on the mournful occasion, we beg you to be assured that we most cordially participate. We beg you also to accept the declaration of our steadfast and unshaken loyalty, which in gratitude for the blessings enjoyed under the benign sway of the House of Hanover, we are anxious to renew. And we fervently pray that the life and health of your Royal Highness so valuable to our country may be long preserved, and also that there may never be wanting a descendant of your illustrious race, to reign in the hearts of Britons, to maintain their high preeminence in the scale of nations, advanced still higher under your auspices, and to transmit their numerous and unequalled advantages to their children's children.

On behalf of the inhabitants of the towns of Manchester and Salford; pursuant to the unanimous resolution of their meeting, held this 26th day of November 1818.

Edward Clayton, Boroughreeve; John Moor, jun. and Jonathan Andrew, Constables, Manchester; John Greenwood, Boroughreeve; James Cooke and Josiah Collier, Constables, Salford.

[Transmitted by Edward Clayton, Esq. Boroughreeve, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]
