SATURDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1818.

Lord Chamberlain's Office, December 8, 1818.

ORDERS for the Court's change of mourning, on Sunday the 3d January next, for Her late Majesty, of blessed memory, viz.

The Ladies to wear black silk, fringed or plain linen or muslin, white gloves, black and white shoes, fans and tippets, white necklaces and earrings, no diamonds.

Undress—White or grey lustrings, tabbies or damasks.

The Gentlemen to wear black, full trimmed, plain or fringed linen, black swords and buckles.

Undress—Grey frocks.

The Court to change the mourning further on Sunday the 24th of January next, viz.

The Ladies to wear black silk or velvet, coloured ribbons, fans and tippets.

The Gentlemen to continue in black, to wear coloured swords and buckles.

And on Sunday the 14th of February next, the Court to go out of mourning.

THE following Addresses, having been transmitted to Viscount Sidmouth, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, by the several persons whose names are respectively subjoined to each Address, have been presented by His Lordship to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, who was pleased to receive the same very graciously:

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council of the City of Bristol, in Common Council assembled, humbly beg leave to approach your Royal Highness, with sentiments of unfeigned sorrow and condolence, on the death of Her late Majesty the Queen; an event which has deprived these kingdoms of so highly distinguished an ornament of public and private virtue, uniformly practised during the period of an extended life. Whilst we deplore the loss we have sustained, we are still thankful to Providence for the blessings conferred to us in the person of your Royal Highness and the other Princes of the Royal Blood.

The testimonies of affection and tenderness invariably manifested by your Royal Highness towards your beloved Mother must, next to the consolations of that religion which so conspicuously regulated her conduct, have afforded the purest gratification to her mind; and the filial piety evinced by your Royal Highness and the other illustrious branches of your Family, on this mournful occasion, has excited the sympathy and respect of the whole nation, and affords a splendid example to all ranks of His Majesty's subjects.

We presume further humbly to express our assurances of sincere attachment to the person of our revered Monarch, and to the principles of an excellent Constitution as established in these realms.

[Transmitted by Sir Robert Gifford, His Majesty's Solicitor-General, the Recorder, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

WE, His Majesty's faithful and loyal subjects, the Mayor, Bailiffs, and Commonalty of the City of Winchester, in Council assembled, humbly crave permission to approach and condole with your Royal Highness, on the irreparable loss the nation has sustained, in the death of our much loved and honoured Queen; and at the same time to express our deep affliction at this mournful and overwhelming calamity.

Her late Majesty's many and exalted virtues, her gracious and benevolent disposition, her anxious and maternal solicitude for all ranks of her subjects, have ever kept alive in our breasts the warmest feelings of gratitude, affection, and respect, and will justly render her memory dear to us for ever.
