WHEREAS the Select Committee appointed to try and determine the merits of the petition of Sir Charles Cockerell, Baronet, and also the petition of the several persons whose names are thereunto subscribed, on behalf of themselves and others, being legal electors of Members to serve in Parliament for the borough of Evesham, in the county of Worcester, severally complaining of an undue election and return for the said borough, have this day reported to the House of Commons, that it appeared to the said Select Committee, that the merits of the petitions did depend, in part, upon the right of election; and the several parties were, therefore, required to deliver in statements, in writing, of the right of election for which they respectively contended:

That, in consequence thereof, the petitioners delivered in a statement as follows;

“That the right of election is in the Mayor, Aldermen, Capital and other Burgesses, Members of the Corporation:”

That for the sitting Member, William Edward Rouse Boughton, Esq. delivered in a statement as follows;

“That the right is in the Mayor, Aldermen, and Freemen of the borough, and in the inhabitants of the borough, paying scot and lot:”

That upon the statement delivered in by the sitting Member, the said Select Committee have determined;

That the right of election, as set forth in the said statement, is not the right of election for the borough of Evesham, in the county of Worcester:

That upon the statement delivered in by the petitioners, the said Select Committee have determined;

That the right of election, as set forth in the said statement, is the right of election for the said borough of Evesham:

I do hereby give this notice, in pursuance of the directions of the Act, made in the twenty-eighth year of the reign of His present Majesty, intituled “An Act for the further regulation of the trials of controverted elections or returns of Members to serve in Parliament.”

SCHOOL OF PHYSIC IN IRELAND.

Whereas by an Act of Parliament, passed in the fortieth year of His present Majesty, intituled "An Act for repealing an Act, passed in the twenty-fifth year of His present Majesty, intituled 'An Act for establishing a complete school of physic in this kingdom,' and also for repealing an Act passed in the thirty-first year of His present Majesty, intituled 'An Act to explain and amend an Act for establishing a complete school of physic in this kingdom, and also for extending and enlarging the powers of the President and Fellows of the King and Queen's College of Physicians, and establishing a complete school of physic in this kingdom;'"

It has been enacted, by the authority aforesaid, that every professorship mentioned in this Act shall become vacant at the end of every seventh year from the date of the election, provided further, that it shall and may be lawful for the said President and Fellows of the College of Physicians, if they shall judge it fit so to do, to direct, that the King's Professors in the city of Dublin, on the foundation of Sir Patrick Dun, or any of them, shall continue to hold their professorship or professorships for a further term of seven years, after the expiration of the term for which he or they was or were elected, provided always that the said President and Fellows of the College of Physicians do give three months notice, previous to the time at which the election to such professorship or professorships would otherwise have been held, in the Dublin and London Gazettes; and such their direction being duly entered in the books of said College, and said notice being duly published as aforesaid, it shall then be lawful to and for the professor or professors named in such direction, or notice, to continue to hold the professorship or professorships for a further term of seven years from the expiration of the term for which he or they was or were elected, without any further nomination or election.

And whereas the tenure of the King's Professorship of the Practice of Medicine, held by Martin Tuomy, M. D. as also of the King's Professorship of Materia Medica and Pharmacy, held by John Crampton, M. D. both on the foundation of Sir Patrick Dun, have now expired, in default of said notices or directions of continuance not having been published in the Dublin and London Gazettes, pursuant to the provision of said Act.

And whereas further it is enacted by the authority aforesaid, that previous to any election of the King's Professors, three months notice shall be given in the Dublin and London Gazettes, which notice shall be signed by the Register of the College of Dublin, and also by the Register of the said College of Physicians, and which notice shall set forth the emoluments and advantages, the time and the place of the election, and the qualifications of all persons intending to offer themselves as candidates.

Now the aforesaid President and Fellows of the College of Physicians do hereby publish, direct, and give notice, that the election for said King's Professorships of the Practice of Medicine, and of the Materia Medica and Pharmacy, both in the city of Dublin, on the foundation of Sir Patrick Dun, and now vacant, will be held at the College Hall in Sir Patrick Dun's Hospital, on Tuesday the 8th day of June 1819, after such examination as the electors may require, which will begin at the hour of Ten o'clock A. M. of said day.

The following emoluments and advantages attend each Professorship. The Professor will receive a salary yearly of one hundred pounds sterling, to commence from the time of his election, and also may charge reasonable fees, to be paid by all such persons as attend his lectures; said fees to be paid on admission, and from time to time regulated by the President and Fellows of the College of Physicians.

The lectures of each professor are to commence on the first Monday in November and continue until the end of April, and shall be given for four days in the week at least, in the Hospital of Sir Patrick Dun.

Each Professor shall read and give clinical lectures upon the patients in said Hospitals, at least two days in each week during every session, for the space of three months, in alternate succession with the other Professors, or in such order as they shall agree upon amongst themselves, and each pupil shall pay to the Professor, whose lectures he shall attend, three guineas for each three months course of said clinical lectures.

Said several lectures by the King's Professors, and the clinical lectures shall be given in the English language, unless specially ordered by the President and Fellows of the said College of Physicians.

Such professorships as are on the foundation of Sir Patrick Dun, are open to persons of all nations professing their faith in Christ, provided they shall have taken medical degrees, or shall have obtained a licence to practise from the College of Physicians, in consequence of a testimonium under the seal of Trinity College, Dublin.

The electors are bound to the strictest impartiality by a solemn oath taken by every elector previous to each election, save only such preference as has been directed to be given by Sir Patrick Dun, deceased, to candidates related to him, on an equality of merit.

All persons intending to offer themselves should send in their names, the places of their education, the Universities in which they have taken medical degrees, and the places where they have practised, to the Registers of Trinity College, and of the King and Queen's College of Physicians, one month previous to the day appointed for the election.
