SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1819.

Lord Chamberlain's-Office, November 18, 1819.

NOTICE is hereby given, that His Royal Highness the Prince Regent will hold a Levee at Carlton-House, on Friday the 26th instant, at two o'clock.

THE following Addresses, having been transmitted to Viscount Sidmouth, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, by the several persons whose names are respectively subjoined to each Address, have been presented by His Lordship to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, who was pleased to receive the same very graciously:

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales,
REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The dutiful and loyal Address of the Noblemen, Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the County of Linlithgow.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, the Noblemen, Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the County of Linlithgow, consider it to be our duty, on the present occasion, to approach the Throne, through the medium of your Royal Highness, not only with the usual expressions of loyalty and fidelity, but with a firm, an explicit, and we trust a temperate, declaration of the sentiments we entertain on the state of public affairs.

We are firmly convinced that the British Constitution as by law established, has been productive of more practical good, and of more real freedom, than has resulted from any other system by which Nations have been governed.

We are persuaded that under its benign influence, this Country has attained to a height of prosperity, of power, and of national glory, to which no other circumstance in our situation, could have carried us.

That Constitution we venerate and cherish, as the glorious inheritance that has descended to us from our Ancestors, and we are determined, as far as in us lies, to transmit it unimpaired to our posterity.

We have therefore observed with unmingled detestation, the systematic endeavours that have lately been made, to bring into contempt Institutions, which have been productive of so much happiness and prosperity to this Empire.

The efforts of turbulent and disaffected men to mislead the ignorant and unwary, to foster all the bad passions of the idle and the profligate, and to employ them for the purposes of their own ambition, if not checked by seasonable vigour, will, we are persuaded, sap the foundations of our liberty, and overthrow all that is most dear to us as men and as subjects.

Happily indeed the objects of these turbulent men are no longer disguised.—Emboldened by the popular applause of some districts, where the usual resources of industry have suddenly, and unexpectedly failed, and where the people are consequently more open to seduction, they have thrown off the mask.—They have openly avowed the most blasphemous and most seditious sentiments. Every effort has been made to corrupt the moral and religious feeling, and to shake and extirpate the loyalty of the people; and it is no longer doubtful that the existence of our Religion, of our Government, the security of our property, and the order of Civil Society itself, are placed in the most imminent danger.

We have the happiness indeed to believe, that in the district which we inhabit, these noxious principles have hitherto made little or no progress. We rejoice to think that the population around us continues hitherto uncontaminated. We rejoice to think that in this corner of our Island, the God of our fathers is worshipped in simplicity, and in sincerity; that the truths of our holy religion are held in universal respect by all sects and denominations of men; that loyalty to the Throne, is a principle deeply rooted in the minds of all; that confidence in the equity, and in the just administration of the laws is unshaken; and that veneration for the great Council of the Nation, and attachment to the Government, as vested in King, Lords and Commons, pervade all ranks among us.

But we lament that, in some other districts, a far different spirit appears to prevail. We cannot disguise from ourselves that the growing influence of example is always to be feared; and that if the voice of loyalty is not heard, if the friends of the peace, the order, and the happiness of their Country do not stand forward to meet the danger and to counteract its baneful influence, the torrent may speedily overflow the land, sweep away in its fury the Institutions under which we live, annihilate the invaluable privileges we enjoy, and overwhelm the glory and the prosperity of the British Empire.

Strongly impressed with these sentiments, and acting under a deep sense of public duty, we desire to offer to your Royal Highness, the expression of our unshaken loyalty to the King our Sovereign, and of our dutiful attachment to the Person and Government of your Royal Highness as the Regent of these Realms.

We request your Royal Highness to be persuaded that our utmost efforts shall be used for the maintenance of order and tranquillity, and that by our influence and example, we shall endeavour to counteract the progress of infidelity and of disaffection. We desire to assure your Royal Highness, that we entertain the most perfect confidence that the wisdom of Parliament will devise the means best calculated to allay or to subdue the ferment that exists. We trust that the sound sense and the energy of the Nation will be called forth, in proportion to the exigency of the times, and be powerfully exerted to aid the efforts of the Legislature, and which we trust will be the means, under Providence, of maintaining inviolate, the peace, the security, and the liberty of this great Empire.

Signed in our name and by our appointment, by the Right Honourable John, Earl of Hopetoun, our Preses, at Linlithgow, the 12th day of November 1819.

[Transmitted by the Earl of Hopetoun, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

The humble and dutiful Address of the Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council, and of the Inhabitants of the City of Bath.

AT a time when the spirit of loyalty throughout His Majesty's dominions is peculiarly called into action by the tumultuous and dangerous assemblies which have recently and widely been convened, it would ill become the Inhabitants of a place, so long and so eminently distinguished for its loyalty, to be the last in approaching your Royal Highness with those demonstrations of attachment, which their genuine feelings suggest, and the important crisis demands.

We witness with feelings of grief and indignation the artful attempts of factious and designing men to inculcate, under the specious but delusive pretext of radical reform, doctrines subversive of all existing Authorities, and directly tending to destroy our invaluable and unrivalled Constitution.

We view with still more lively abhorrence the infamous attempts which have been made by blasphemous publications to sap the foundations of religion, and to bring into contempt the Holy Scriptures.

And we pledge ourselves to use our most active exertions in defending all that is dear to us as Englishmen, and in opposing all attempts to overawe the constituted authorities, under a full reliance on the efficacy of the laws, on their power to maintain right and to redress wrong, on the purity of their administration, and on the wisdom of His Majesty's Councils for securing to us a continuance of those invaluable blessings which are enjoyed by all His Majesty's subjects in this great and free Country.

George Edward Allen, Mayor.

[Transmitted by the Mayor, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

The humble Address of the Mayor, Bailiffs, Burgesses and Inhabitants of the Town and Borough of Pembroke.

WE the Mayor, Bailiffs, Burgesses and Inhabitants of the Town and Borough of Pembroke, humbly approach your Royal Highness, to express our warmest sentiments of loyalty to our Sovereign, of attachment to, and veneration of the laws and religion of the United Kingdom.

We view with indignation and abhorrence the insidious efforts of some of his Majesty's subjects, to subvert the order of Government, by the most dangerous inducements to revolt and revolution, by appeals to the ignorance and miseries of the poor, delusions which they have neither the wish nor ability to investigate or understand.

It is with deep concern likewise that we find the enemies of public peace and social order insulting the constituted authorities of the Realm, endeavouring to bring into contempt the ancient forms of our civil jurisprudence, and disseminating publications subversive of those laws under which the British people have arrived at such distinguished eminence among nations, in the arts of peace and war, and in foreign and internal polity.

We contemplate too, with detestation, the daring and impious attacks of infidels against the Christian Religion, founded as it is and confirmed by divine interposition and authority, and embraced and sanctioned by the wisest and best human institutions.

Although far remote from the districts in which such a spirit of disloyalty and discontent prevails, we conceive it a duty we owe to our Prince, and to our Country, to avow to your Royal Highness the principles which actuate our conduct, and to assure you of our uniform and unshaken determination to support, on every emergency, that invaluable Constitution by which the lives, the liberties and the property of all British subjects have been so admirably secured and protected.

Dated at the Town Hall of the Town and Borough of Pembroke, the 13th day of November, 1819.

By desire and on behalf of the Meeting.

Antony Innys Stokes, Mayor of Pembroke.

[Transmitted by the Mayor, presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

The loyal and dutiful Address of the Magistrates and Town Council of the Burgh of Musselburgh.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most loyal and dutiful Subjects, the Magistrates and Town Council of the Burgh of Musselburgh, anxiously approach your Royal Highness, at the present crisis, with sentiments of the warmest veneration and attachment to our beloved Sovereign and His illustrious House, and of the deepest love and admiration for that Constitution under which we enjoy the best system of rational liberty which the wisdom of man has yet devised.

We deplore in common with the great majority of the nation the existence of that spirit of insubordination, which has risen to such an alarming height in certain districts of the country. We humbly trust it may not extend beyond those limits within which it has hitherto been chiefly confined; and that the causes which have produced it, as they are sufficiently understood, may speedily be removed or ameliorated by the salutary measures of His Majesty's Government.

We confidently anticipate the return of order and subordination throughout the land; and did their restoration depend on the voice of the people at large, uninfluenced by those who at present delude so large a portion of our manufacturing population, we are firmly persuaded that few indeed would be found whose hearts and hands would not unite to guard the Throne from faction, and the Constitution from the attacks of the designing. But it is with feelings of no common indignation that we observe the efforts of Government frustrated, and the lower orders themselves deluded and seduced from their allegiance by men of abandoned principles.

Our liberty and our laws have been invaded; above all, our religion has been openly attacked. Publications of a blasphemous and atheistical tendency have been disseminated abroad to corrupt the general mind, and to wound in a peculiar manner the understandings of the rising generation.

Under these circumstances of danger and distress we are desirous of approaching the Throne to express our abhorrence of these evils, and our earnest hope and belief that they will last but for a season, and to assure your Royal Highness of our devout attachment to our King and Constitution. It shall ever be our determined resolution to stand by the Throne, and to assist in defending to the uttermost the Constitution of Great Britain, against every attempt that may be made to undermine its excellent fabric. Whatever measures may conduce to the peace and the comfort of those within our Jurisdiction shall be zealously adopted, that the people under our charge, as they have hitherto proved themselves loyal and peaceable subjects, may continue to abound in every patriotic virtue.

We beg your Royal Highness will be graciously pleased to accept of these our imperfect expressions of devotion to your Illustrious Family, and of inviolable attachment to the religion, liberty and laws, which we enjoy, under this blessed Constitution.

Signed in our name, and by our appointment, and in our presence, and the Seal of the Burgh is hereto affixed, this 12th day of November, in the year 1819.

James Kemp, Senior Magistrate and Preses.

[Transmitted by Mr. Kemp, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness George Augustus Frederick, Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and Duke of Cornwall.

The humble, dutiful and loyal Address of the Mayor, Aldermen, Burgesses and Inhabitants of the Town of Falmouth in the County of Cornwall and its vicinity.

We, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Mayor, Aldermen, Burgesses and Inhabitants of this Town and its vicinity feel it our duty to assure your Royal Highness of our inviolable attachment to our excellent establishments in Church and State at this eventful period, when the press teems with the most blasphemous publications; and the wildest theories in politics (subversive of all civil order) are addressed by designing men to the passions of the lower orders of the people.

We sincerely commiserate the general distress, but we cannot refrain from expressing our abhorrence of proceedings calculated to increase beyond measure the existing evils.

We rely with confidence on the wisdom of your Royal Highness, and the other branches of the legislature to supply all the means in your power towards alleviating the sufferings of the people; whilst at the same time we confidently expect that you will take such measures as may be deemed necessary for frustrating the machinations of the disaffected who are anxiously endeavouring to subvert our happy constitution. And we beg to assure your Royal Highness that we shall feel it incumbent on us to check by example and influence all attempts towards irreligion and sedition, and to manifest that spirit of loyalty which has at all periods of our history been the peculiar characteristic of the inhabitants of the County of Cornwall.

Dated the 4th of November 1819.

[Transmitted by the Mayor, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble and dutiful Address of the Magistrates, Ministers, Incorporated Societies, and other Inhabitants of the town of Leith.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the Magistrates, Ministers, Incorporated Societies, and other Inhabitants of Leith, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with sentiments of the most profound respect and attachment.

Living under the most perfect form of government with which any nation was ever favoured, and enjoying in rich abundance the inestimable blessings of a Religion pure and undefiled, we are shocked and disgusted, with the daring and desperate attempts of foolish or of flagitious men, to undermine at once the principles of the British Constitution, and the sanctions of the Christian Faith.

Relying with perfect security on the wisdom and energy of His Majesty's Councils, and on the good sense and unshaken loyalty of the great majority of the nation, we hope that effectual measures will be speedily adopted to prevent the printing, and circulating of those blasphemous and seditious publications, which are the disgrace of the present times, and which appear to us to be fraught with consequences incalculably mischievous to the prosperity and the stability of the British empire.

Trusting that Britain will long continue to be protected by Providence, and to be defended by all right-hearted men, we beg leave to assure your Royal Highness that we will use every endeavour in our respective situations to preserve those sentiments of attachment to the Royal Family, and of submission to the laws, by which all classes of the Inhabitants of Leith have been uniformly distinguished.

Signed in our name, and by our appointment, at a General Meeting, called by public advertisement for the special purpose, at Leith this 11 day of November 1819 years. And the seal of town is hereto affixed.

William Patison, Senior Magistrate, Preses.

[Transmitted by Mr. Patison, Preses, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness the George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdoms of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the Noblemen, Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply, of the County of Edinburgh, humbly beg leave to approach the Throne at the present moment, to convey to your Royal Highness the expression of our firm attachment to our Sovereign, and to that Constitution under which we have the happiness to live.

We have witnessed with horror and indignation the wicked attempts which have been made in various parts of the kingdom, by desperate and designing men, by means of blasphemous and seditious publications, to undermine and destroy the religious and moral principles of the people; and by inflammatory speeches, to excite the lower orders to acts of violence, and to introduce all the horrors of revolution into this free and happy country, under the specious, though visionary title and pretext of radical reform.

Deeply as we lament the dissemination of these mischievous doctrines in many parts of the country, and the serious evils they have occasioned, we rejoice to be able to state, that in this country these agitators of the public peace, have not yet dared to show themselves, and we firmly trust, that here, they would find no supporters.

We beg leave to assure your Royal Highness that it shall be our most anxious endeavour, by every means in our power, to repress and check the progress of these dangerous principles, and to use our utmost exertions to preserve the public tranquillity, and to transmit to our posterity, unimpaired, that Constitution, and those civil and religious institutions which we have inherited from our ancestors, and under which we enjoy so many blessings.

Signed in our name, and by our appointment, by the Marquess of Lothian, His Majesty's Lieutenant at the County of Edinburgh, our Preses, the 10th day of November 1819.

Lothian, Lieutenant, County of Mid-Lothian.

[Transmitted by the Marquis of Lothian, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, the Mayor, Bayliffs, and Commonalty of the City of Coventry, in Council assembled, humbly presume to approach and to assure your Royal Highness of our devoted attachment to our revered Sovereign, your Royal Highness, and the Constitution of these Realms; a Constitution which has excited the admiration of the whole world, and most eminently calculated to communicate and secure to all His Majesty's subjects genuine liberty and happiness, and which we are determined to support to the utmost of our power.

We view with the deepest concern and abhorrence the rapid progress of sedition which has lately manifested itself in divers parts of the country, and the daring acts of a factious set of demagogues who, under pretext of promoting an alleviation of the distresses of the poor, are alienating them from their allegiance to the best of Sovereigns, and the mildest form of government, and by these means increasing and aggravating those evils they affect to deplore, and which, no doubt, would have been of temporary duration but for their baneful interference.

We, however, rely with the utmost confidence on the wisdom and firmness of your Royal Highness, and your Councils for the adoption of such measures as will conduce to the permanent security of the state. In testimony whereof we have hereto affixed our common Seal, this 11th day of November 1819.

William Perkins, Mayor.

[Transmitted by the Earl of Craven, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To his Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

The dutiful and loyal Address of the Provost, Magistrates, Town Council, Burgesses, and Inhabitants of the ancient Royal Burgh of Irvine.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Provost, Magistrates, Town Council, Burgesses, and Inhabitants of the ancient Royal Burgh of Irvine, humbly beg leave to approach your Royal Highness, with renewed declarations of loyalty to our beloved Sovereign, and attachment to your Royal Highness's sacred person. At the present critical time, when impious and designing men are doing all in their power to bring into contempt and ridicule, the established laws and religion of the Country, and by instilling seditious principles into the minds of certain classes of the people, are endeavouring, by these means, to subvert the happy Constitution under which we live. We would humbly assure your Royal Highness, that while we compassionate the deluded people, who allow themselves to be misled by the insidious instigators of such practices, thus taking advantage of the distresses of the times, our loyalty to the Throne, and our attachment to the present Constitution, remain firm and unshaken; and it is our determination to use our utmost endeavours to suppress all attempts which may be made to disturb the public tranquillity, or by unlawful and unconstitutional means, to violate or infringe our existing laws and institutions.

Signed by the Provost of the Burgh of Irvine, and Preses of a General Meeting of the Magistrates, Council, Burgesses, and Inhabitants of the Burgh, at Irvine, the 10th day of November 1819 years. In the name, and by appointment of the Meeting.

J. Montgomerie, Preses.

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble and dutiful Address of the Magistrates, and Town Council of the Royal Burgh of Queens Ferry.

May it please your Royal Highness.

WE, His Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, the Magistrates and Town Council of the Royal Burgh of Queensferry, in Council assembled, humbly beg leave to approach your Royal Highness at this alarming crisis to express our abhorrence and indignation at the attempts which are now made in different parts of the kingdom, under the specious pretext of Parliamentary Reform, and by means of blasphemous and seditious publications to subvert our glorious and happy Constitution, so long the admiration of surrounding nations; and to hold up to ridicule and contempt that holy religion, for the establishment and maintenance of which, our fathers fought and bled.

We feel great satisfaction in assuring your Royal Highness that these baneful principles have made but very little progress in the district wherein our Burgh is situated; and we trust, and are assured, that your Royal Highness, aided by the wisdom of your Councils, and supported by the unshaken fidelity of a loyal and virtuous people, will adopt such wise and prompt measures, as will at once counteract those base and dangerous designs so repugnant to every principle of justice and every feeling of moral rectitude.

We most humbly beg leave to express our firm and unshaken attachment to your Royal Highness's person and government and our fixed determination to exert our utmost endeavours by every means in our power, in opposing principles so dangerous and hostile to every thing social and sacred, and in maintaining inviolate our Constitution, our religion, and laws.

Signed in our name, and by our appointment, in our presence, and the Seal of the said Burgh is hereto affixed, this 12th day of November 1819 years, and of His Majesty's Reign the 60th year.

Campbell Innes, Chief Magistrate.

Unto His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland REGENT.

The humble Address of the Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons of Glasgow.

May it please your Royal Highness.

WE, His Majesty's loyal and most dutiful subjects, the Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons at Glasgow, beg leave in the present juncture, humbly to approach the Throne with a renewed expression of our firm and unshaken attachment to the Constitution of the Country as by law established. We have never ceased to venerate the wise and salutary institutions, which were handed down to us by our forefathers, and have ever been grateful to Divine Providence for the many important blessings which Britons have enjoyed under the mild parental sway of the House of Brunswick. In the exercise of our profession we have peculiar opportunities to be fully aware of the distress to which the labouring part of the community are reduced during the present stagnation of trade, and we have joined with our fellow-citizens in giving them both our sympathy and our aid; but with deep regret we perceive that the factions and the ill-disposed have been too successful in taking advantage of their present distress to exasperate the minds of many against the Institutions of the country, and to prompt them to seek after objects which are wild and chimerical in themselves, and which can have no effect in relieving the depressed state of manufactures and commerce. We submissively confide in the wisdom of Parliament to devise such constitutional measures as the present state of public affairs may render necessary, and for ourselves, we shall continue to hold it our sacred duty, as far as the limited sphere of our influence extends, to promote a respect and veneration for our political establishment.

Signed by our Preses, in our name, and by our appointment, this 10th day of November 1819 years.

Richard Millar, M. D., Preses.

[Transmitted by Mr. Hill, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Freeholders and Householdors of the County of Hertford, in County Hall assembled, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness to express our regret that any Blasphemous or Seditious Publications should have been circulated in any part of these realms; but at the same time to assure your Royal Highness, that in this country, publications of such a tendency have never received any countenance or sanction. We beg leave to express to your Royal Highness our warm attachment to your Royal Highness's Illustrious Family, and our ardent veneration for the laws of our country, and for those sacred institutions which have been established equally for the security of the throne, and the protection of the subject. At the same time, we feel it to be our duty, most humbly, but most earnestly, to represent to your Royal Highness, that the occurrences which took place at Manchester, on the 16th of August last, seem to us to demand the most strict and solemn Investigation, as having an appearance of being an infringement on one of the most important rights of the subject, and a violation of the most essential principles of the Constitution. We beg leave further to represent to your Royal Highness, that the obstacles which have been opposed to an inquiry into those occurrences; the extraordinary, if not illegal adjournment of the Coroner's Inquest at Oldham; the sanction which your Royal Highness has been advised, by your Royal Highness's confidential servants, to give to the interference of a Military Force, attended with such fatal consequences, to the lives of his Majesty's subjects; all these circumstances afford us too much reason to apprehend, that without the interference of Parliament, and the express recommendation of your Royal Highness, that strict investigation, which the nature of the case and the feelings of the country require, will not be instituted. We therefore most respectfully beseech your Royal Highness to recommend to the immediate care and attention of Parliament, a full and solemn inquiry into these transactions.

William Hanbury, Sheriff.

[Transmitted by the High Sheriff, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales,
REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble Address of the Reverend the Presbytery of Glasgow, in Presbytery Assembled.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Ministers and Elders of the Presbytery of Glasgow, moved with serious alarm by the circulation of irreligious and seditious Writings, and by the tumultuous Meetings which have taken place for some time past in various parts of the Kingdom, beg permission to approach the Throne with expressions of profound respect for His Majesty's Person, of esteem for your Royal Highness, of unalterable attachment to our happy Constitution, and of perfect confidence in the wisdom and energy of your Royal Highness's Councils.

While we lament the severe distress which the stagnation of trade has occasioned, while we sincerely sympathize with the operative classes who have been thrown out of employment by this calamity, and are earnestly desirous to exert every endeavour, in our sphere, to afford them relief, we cannot but view with indignation the insidious attempts of the evil affected and seditious, to make these disasters a pretext for vilifying the Government, and spreading discontent through the land, thereby aggravating, in an incalculable degree, the very evils of which they complain.

We behold with horror the effrontery of the profligate in disseminating the most dreadful impieties and blasphemies; with the evident design of corrupting the public mind, of unhinging the religious and moral principles of the less informed classes of society, thus preparing them for desperate deeds. We particularly bewail the artful and malignant attempts that are now making to render the rising generation totally unprincipled and vicious. Deeply deploring these melancholy features of the times, and convinced that nothing but the influence of true religion can effectually stop their growth, we shall not cease to preach the truth as it is in Christ Jesus, under the firm persuasion that the monstrous doctrines of these emissaries of darkness will, under the Divine blessing, disappear before the general light of the glorious Gospel of the Son of God.

Entertaining the warmest affection for our country and the most cordial wishes for the happiness of our countrymen, we bewail the facility with which so many of the labouring classes are deluded into practices, which directly oppose their own best interests, keep the whole community in a state of most uneasy perturbation, and hinder the very steps which might be taken to alleviate their privations. To arrest the progress of this deplorable infatuation, and to save the people from the fatal effects of their own folly, we confidently rely on the vigilance and firmness of your Royal Highness's Administration, and trust that the Wisdom of Parliament will devise the most effectual means for extending and securing the benefits of moral and religious instruction to all classes of his Majesty's subjects, for preserving our excellent Constitution inviolate, and, at the same time, for completely repressing the turbulence of profligate and evil-designing men.

Feeling the sacred obligations which lie upon us to watch for the welfare of the people under our charge, we shall not fail diligently to warn them of the machinations which are at work to produce insubordination and violence, and we shall endeavour to cultivate in their minds piety towards God, loyalty to the King, reverence for the laws, and steady attachment to the Constitution.

That Almighty God may impart his Divine consolations to the mind of our most gracious Sovereign, that He may abundantly bless your Royal Highness with every temporal and spiritual blessing; that He may direct your councils with wisdom from above, and enable you to maintain the United Kingdom in the high attitude among surrounding nations, to which, under the auspices of your Royal Highness, it has been raised; and that our invaluable Constitution in Church and State, may be transmitted unimpaired to latest posterity under princes of the illustrious House of Hanover, are the earnest prayer of, May it please your Royal Highness, his Majesty's most dutiful, most faithful, and most obedient Subjects, the Ministers and Elders of the Presbytery of Glasgow.

Signed in our name, in our presence, and at our appointment, at Glasgow the 10th day of November, 1819.

Stevenson Mac Gill, Moderator.

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

The respectful and loyal Address of the Mayor, Aldermen, Common Council, and Burgesses of the Town of Cambridge in Common Hall assembled.

Most Gracious Prince,

WE, his Majesty's faithful subjects, the Mayor, Aldermen, Common Council, and Burgesses of the Town of Cambridge, deeply impressed with a sense of that duty which we owe to our Sovereign, our Country, and ourselves, anxiously press forward at this crisis of danger, renewing the solemn pledge of our loyalty, and rallying around the Throne and the Constitution.

We behold, with detestation and horror, but (relying under the blessing of Providence upon the sound loyalty, the moral and religious feeling of the great mass of our fellow subjects) without dismay, the daring machinations of desperate and abandoned men, who under the maddening impulse of their infidel and revolutionary frenzy, stop not to undermine, but openly avow their flagitious design to overthrow, with the altars of our religion, the venerable fabric of our Constitution, and to plunge this hitherto favoured country into all the miseries of anarchy and desolation.

Imbibing their principles from the licentiousness and Atheism of the French school, they are sensible that the impression of the hopes and fears which Christianity holds out to us in a future state of reward and punishment, must first be eradicated from the mind; hence their object has been to ridicule, to vilify, and to degrade the doctrine, the morality, and the credibility of the Gospel; and thus, (having weakened, if not removed, the conviction of the awful responsibility of a world to come, and inculcated the necessary consequence that death is an eternal sleep) they render their frantic votaries fit instruments of that demoniacal ambition, which seeks only to delude and to destroy.

We devoutly trust, however, that this country has not been hitherto so mercifully and so signally preserved from the contagion of infidelity, and the horrors of revolution, to become in its turn a prey to the destructive machinations of the scoffers and blasphemers of religion; but that all ranks and classes, laying aside every minor political difference or religious distinction, will array themselves under the banners of social order and Christianity, against the frantic enemies of both; prepared to second, with their utmost energy, those exertions which your Royal Highness, aided by the collective wisdom of the great Council of the Nation, may find it necessary to adopt for the preservation of all we value as Englishmen and as Christians.

Given under our Common Seal at Cambridge, the 11th day of November, in the year of our Lord, 1819.

[Transmitted by the Duke of Rutland, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, &c. &c. &c.

The Humble Address of the Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council of the Royal Burgh of Dunfermline, in Common Council assembled.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council of the Royal Burgh of Dunfermline, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness, to express to your Royal Highness our firm and undeviating attachment to your Royal Person and Government.

At a time like the present, when we perceive the most audacious and undisguised attempts resorted to by disaffected and unprincipled demagogues to poison the minds of the lower classes of his Majesty's subjects, through the industrious circulation of impious, and blasphemous publications, whose evident tendency is to bring into ridicule and contempt the sacred Scriptures, and even to brand the Divine Author of our Holy Religion, as "An enthusiast and impostor," to rend asunder the bonds of civil society, by holding out to the unthinking multitude, with the most appalling abuse of every sacred principle of religion, dogmas of Government equally absurd as they are impracticable, and so obviously calculated to alienate the affections of his Majesty's subjects from the Government, and consequently to undermine and to destroy our happy and enviable Constitution. At such a time, we conceive it to be our bounden duty, as loyal subjects to our revered and venerable Sovereign, not only to express to your Royal Highness our firm attachment to your Royal Person and Government, and our utter abhorrence of the infamous and desperate attempts of these insidious incendiaries, but to declare our firm adherence to the Constitution of our Country, and our determination, by every means in our power, to support that Government from whose determined, persevering, and gloriously successful exertions, this kingdom and Europe have been rescued from an unrelenting and unexampled tyranny, restored to the blessings of peace, and continue to enjoy the exercise of a mild and Constitutional Administration of the Government.

We observe, with feelings of astonishment and detestation, the insidious arts resorted to, by bold and unfounded assertions, to prejudice and vilify the conduct and character of Magistrates acting in very critical circumstances, by the circulation of shameless fabrications, and the most palpable misrepresentations of facts, the prominent feature of a system which can have but one only object, to deceive and to mislead.

We have unfeigned satisfaction, however, in observing, that in this populous manufacturing town, no symptom of disloyalty or discontent has hitherto appeared. That from the liberal system adopted by the principal manufacturers, and their own sense of propriety, the operative population continue peaceable and contented, notwithstanding the pressure they must feel from the certainly depressed state of trade; and it is our sanguine hope, that the tranquillity of this district may continue undisturbed, as it shall be our earnest endeavours, by every Constitutional means in our power, to promote and preserve it.

Signed, in name, by appointment and in presence of the Council, and having the Common Seal of the Burgh, affixed by

D. Wilson, Provost.
