SATURDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1819.

THE following Addresses, having been transmitted to Viscount Sidmouth, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, by the several persons whose names are respectively subjoined to each Address, have been presented by His Lordship to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, who was pleased to receive the same very graciously:

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT

WE, the Noblemen, Gentlemen, and Freeholders of the County of Oxford, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with unfeigned sentiments of veneration for the laws and institutions of our country, and of loyalty to your Royal Highness's Person and Government.

We cannot but behold with indignation and abhorrence the daring attempts of designing and turbulent men, who, under the specious pretext of considering of grievances, but more evidently for promulgating the most dangerous doctrines, and delivering the most inflammatory harangues, have arrayed under banners of sedition, and in various places have assembled together many thousands of the lower orders of the people, to the terror and dismay of the well disposed, and tending to overawe the constituted authorities of the law, and to endanger the peace of the country.

We have seen with feelings of horror the industrious dissemination of seditious and blasphemous publications, designed to promote discontent and disaffection to the Government, and to bring into contempt the holy religion of the country, and to extirpate from the minds of His Majesty's subjects every religious and moral principle, that they may be the more easily led to the perpetration of crime, and prepared for revolution and anarchy, with their unavoidable consequences, rapine, devastation, and murder.

We feel it our duty therefore at this time to declare our detestation of such practices, and that we will use our utmost endeavours to suppress them, and to assure your Royal Highness of our veneration for the Christian Religion, and our resolution to support and maintain that Constitution which we have received from our ancestors, by which, under Providence, this country has enjoyed glory, opulence, internal peace and happiness, above all other nations.

James Haughton Langton, Sheriff.

[Delivered by the Earl of Macclesfield, and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

To His Royal Highness George Augustus Frederick Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom and Duke of Cornwall.

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Mayor, Alderman, Capital Burgesses, and Inhabitants of the Borough and Parish of Bodmin, in the county of Cornwall, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with sentiments of profound respect and unfeigned attachment to your Royal Highness and to your illustrious House.

We feel fully sensible of the blessings we enjoy under that Constitution both in Church and State, which has been the boast of ages, the envy of neighbouring nations, and the admiration of the civilized world.

But we cannot avoid expressing to your Royal Highness our deep regret at the present disturbed state of several parts of the kingdom, and at the dissemination of various blasphemous and seditious publications, tending to poison the minds of the ignorant and unwary, and to subvert the Christian religion, and we firmly confide in the wisdom of Parliament to adopt such measures as may effectually suppress those spreading evils.

We beg leave to assure your Royal Highness of our steadfast determination to support your Royal Highness to the utmost of our power in the exercise of the royal authority as established by law, and to exert our strenuous endeavours to defend and maintain that Constitution which secures to us those liberties and privileges which we have derived from our ancestors and which, under the blessing of Providence, we hope to transmit to our posterity.

Thos. Conmits, Mayor.

[Transmitted by Davies Gilbert Esq. and Thomas Braddyll, Esq. M. M. P. and presented Viscount Sidmouth].
