

The London Gazette.

Published by Authority.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1820.

THE following Addresses, having been transmitted to Viscount Sidmouth, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, by the several persons whose names are respectively subjoined to each Address, were presented by His Lordship to His Majesty, who was pleased to receive the same very graciously:

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The loyal Address of the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, and other Inhabitants of the County of Westmorland.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, and other Inhabitants of the County of Westmorland, beg leave to approach your Majesty with the earnest declaration of our attachment to the Throne and veneration for the Constitution.

At a time when the basest arts are resorted to by wicked and designing men, to inflame and prejudice the unwary against the highest authorities and best institutions of the State, we feel it our duty publicly to declare our solemn determination to support the Government, as by law established, with our firmest energies. The evil designs of the disaffected part of the community having been so openly displayed, we deem it necessary for your Majesty's loyal subjects to come forward with a manly and open avowal of our unaltered constitutional principles. Most sincerely do we deplore the base perversion of the freedom of the press to licentious purposes; yet, relying on the wisdom of Parliament and on the loyalty of the people, we confidently anticipate the speedy return of better times, when delusion shall be removed, and cheerful satisfaction shall succeed to that partial discontent which has been so materially assisted by the agency of a seditious press.

That your Majesty may long reign in the hearts of a free and loyal people, protected in the firm administration of the just and equitable laws of our glorious Constitution, is our fervent prayer, in common with the rest of your Majesty's dutiful and affectionate subjects; and we beg leave to assure your Majesty, that we shall ever be ready to display the characteristic loyalty and patriotism of the inhabitants of Westmorland, having for our watch-word the divine command, "fear God, honour the King."

[Transmitted by Viscount Lowther.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Bailiffs and Citizens of the City of Lichfield, in Common Hall assembled, beg leave to approach the Throne with renewed sentiments of loyalty and attachment.

We have witnessed with horror the seditious and blasphemous publications which have been distributed throughout the country by wicked and factious men, disgraceful to the British character, and calculated to mislead the ignorant and unwary.

We place the firmest reliance on the wisdom and promptitude of your Majesty's Government, to frustrate the designs of these enemies to our land; and trust your misguided subjects will return to their allegiance, and that your Majesty may long reign in the hearts of an affectionate people.

We beg to assure your Majesty, that at no former period, renowned as this ancient City has ever been for its attachment to our glorious Constitution, have its Magistrates felt a firmer determination to support by every means in their power, the Religion, the Laws, and the Government of their Country.

Thomas Walton and James Eboral, Bailiffs.

[Transmitted by the Bailiffs of Lichfield.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, Inhabitants of the City and Close of the City of Lichfield, beg leave to approach the Throne with sentiments of profound respect and allegiance.

We are duly sensible of the great blessings we enjoy from our excellent and unrivalled Constitution under your Majesty's paternal Government.

We lament the delusions which have gone abroad among the people, so injurious to ancient British loyalty; and we abhor the arts and machinations by which they have been propagated, from whatever quarter they may have issued.

We beg leave to assure your Majesty, that our allegiance remains true and undiminished; and we firmly resolve, under the protection of the laws, and your Majesty's administration of them, to exert all the means in our power to support the just rights of the Throne and the equitable balance of the Constitution.

[Transmitted by the Bailiffs of Lichfield.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty,
Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, the Mayor, High Steward, Aldermen, and Citizens of the City of Chichester, in Common Council assembled, beg to be permitted to lay at the foot of the Throne the declaration of our steady and heartfelt attachment to our invaluable Constitution, trusting that your Majesty will be pleased to accept this solemn assurance of our sentiments as the best pledge which we can offer to the King of a free people, that against every effort of its enemies to disturb or destroy that Constitution, we will remain firm in our allegiance to the Crown, and unshaken in our fidelity to the sacred Person of your Majesty.

At a less distracted period we should not have presumed to intrude our sentiments upon your Majesty. In ordinary times their uncalled for avowal might be construed into unworthy adulation, or mistaken for an ostentatious pretension to superior loyalty. We disclaim all such motives—we are strangers to any such inducements. But these are not ordinary times, and if we now declare our feelings, it is because we have witnessed with sorrow, and with shame, the active attempts of too many of our fellow subjects to disseminate doctrines, and to recommend measures, which appear to us to threaten not the Throne only, and the Altar as inseparably connected with the Throne, but the peace of every man's home, and the very existence of that order of things, upon which every true Englishman rests his confidence of enjoying for his own life, and his hope of transmitting to posterity, all the blessings of a free Government.

To enumerate those blessings, uninterrupted secured to us since the happy accession of your Majesty's illustrious Family to the Throne of these realms, would far exceed the bounds of this our humble address. But deeply convinced as we are by our own experience, and confirmed in that impression by the concurrent testimony of the well informed of all other nations, that the institutions of our own country are practically the best for the security of life and liberty, for the protection and growth of industry and property, and generally for the moral happiness of all classes of the community. We trust, under Divine Providence, to the wisdom and energy of your Majesty's Councils, to preserve those institutions from any dangers with which they may be assailed.

For our unrivalled Constitution we are indebted, perhaps, not less to the fortunate combination of political chances, than to the wisdom and virtue of our ancestors. But revolutions are seldom bloodless in their progress, neither are they always favourable to liberty in their results. Let this great lesson, which all history, and the sad experience of other countries in our own times, so strongly inculcate, be duly impressed on the unwary, the weak, but well meaning, who, in pursuit of visionary improvements, might otherwise be inclined to encounter such fearful hazards, and we then shall have little to dread from the now almost undisguised designs of the daring and the desperate.

That even they may be reclaimed from those wicked designs, and that, with this happy change your Majesty may long reign over an empire as loyal and united in peace, as it has shewn itself great and powerful in war, is our earnest prayer.

In testimony whereof we have caused the common seal of our City to be hereunto affixed, this 30th day of November, in the first year of your Majesty's reign.

[Transmitted by the Duke of Richmond, High Steward of the City.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.—

WE, your Majesty's dutiful subjects, the Mayor, Bailiffs and Commonalty of the City of Oxford, in Common Council assembled, impelled by a consideration of the agitated state of public feeling at the present moment, and by a sense of the sacred duty we owe to your Majesty, humbly beg to renew to your Majesty the assurance of our devoted loyalty, and to express our deep and grateful estimation of your Majesty's general administration of the executive powers of this realm abroad and at home.

If upon this occasion we advert to a late most distressing investigation, it is only to observe, that whatever differences of opinion may prevail upon that subject, your Majesty may implicitly rely on our unalterable fidelity, and on our anxious endeavours to frustrate the designs of such as seek to render this, amongst other public occurrences, subservient to the wicked purpose of alienating the affections of your Majesty's subjects, of producing a breach between the Sovereign and his people, and ultimately of convulsing the empire with civil commotion.

We are impressed, however, with the fullest conviction, that these vile agitators are too contemptible in character to create serious alarm; and that, if occasion should arise, the great body of your Majesty's subjects would rally around the Throne, and vindicate, with irresistible zeal and overwhelming strength, their attachment to that glorious Constitution, and their love and veneration of those equal laws, by which this country is so pre-eminently blessed.

Given under our common seal the 6th day of December 1820.
Wm. Elias Taunton.

[Transmitted by Sir Wm. Elias Taunton.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, the Mayor, Recorder, Aldermen, Burgesses, and Inhabitants of Bridgwater and its Neighbourhood, humbly approach your Majesty with renewed assurances of our unalterable attachment to your Majesty's Royal Person and Government.

We view with indignation, but without dismay, the wicked attempts of a desperate and unprincipled faction, who endeavour to provoke resistance to the laws, by aspersing the integrity of our highest tribunals of justice; and who, availings themselves of every season of public calamity, seek, under the mask of reform, to overthrow all the venerable institutions of our beloved country:—Institutions, under which it has, for a long series of years, enjoyed the blessings of pure religion and genuine liberty, and attained unrivalled eminence both in arts and arms.

In this unhallowed work of destruction, blasphemy and sedition, as might be expected, go hand in hand together; but we hope and believe, that the public mind is not yet extensively corrupted, and we are persuaded, that the loyal and the good will be speedily roused to a sense of the dangers by which they are surrounded, and that their united efforts, co-operating with the wisdom and energy of your Majesty's Councils, will, under the blessing of Divine Providence, be successful in counteracting the designs of the disaffected, and maintaining unimpaired our happy Constitution in Church and State. E. A. Stradling, Mayor.

[Transmitted by the Town Clerk.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Mayor, Recorder, Justices, Bailiffs and Capital Burgesses, and other Burgesses and Inhabitants of the Borough of Newcastle-under-Lyme, firmly united in zealous attachment to your Majesty's illustrious Family, and truly sensible of the blessings which we enjoy under your Majesty's Government, humbly beg leave to renew to your Majesty the assurance of our cordial and unshaken allegiance and fidelity.

Entertaining the fullest reliance, that it is at all times your Majesty's gracious wish and intention to consult the good of your subjects, and to promote the welfare and prosperity of these realms; we feel ourselves called upon at this period to assure your Majesty, that we not only cherish in our own breasts, but shall unremittingly endeavour to impress upon the minds of all connected with us, the truest sentiments of duty and affection to your Majesty's Person, together with a fixed and unalterable resolution to support and defend our excellent Constitution as by law established, and the most sincere reverence and regard for religion and morality; satisfied, that by the settled influence of these sound and salutary principles, the national interests and honour can alone be effectually maintained, the public weal and happiness ensured, and those invaluable rights and privileges which constitute our best birthright and inheritance, be preserved and perpetuated.

Permit me, Sire, to add our fervent hope, that your Majesty may long continue to reign over us, that the just dignity of the Crown may ever be supported, and your Majesty's Throne remain established upon that most solid and glorious of all foundations, the united love and confidence of a free and loyal people. Robt. Bentley, Mayor.

[Transmitted by the Recorder.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, the Inhabitants of Frome, and its Neighbourhood, humbly beg your Majesty's acceptance of this solemn declaration of our sentiments at the present crisis.

Deluded, as we lament that many of our fellow subjects are, by the fallacies and inflammatory proceedings of men whose object evidently is the overthrow of all established authority, we feel ourselves called upon to avow the deep abhorrence with which we regard their flagitious attempts.

Firmly persuaded, Sire, that our national and individual welfare equally depends on the maintenance of our happy Constitution, both in Church and State, we beg to assure your Majesty that we are fully determined to use our utmost exertions to counteract the efforts of those who are alike the enemies of both.

We are not less sensible than any others of the inestimable value of liberty; but well knowing that nothing would more certainly deprive us of that blessing than the predominance of those principles which are now so openly avowed and industriously inculcated, and that, on the other hand, the best guarantee for its continuance is the unimpaired integrity of your Majesty's Constitutional Government, we fervently pray that, under the Great Disposer of Events, loyalty may prevail over disaffection; that your Majesty may triumph to the confusion of all your enemies, foreign and domestic; that, following the footsteps of your late venerated Sire, (towards whose memory the bosom of every true Briton yet beats with filial affection), your Majesty may long be spared to bless us, reigning a beloved Sovereign in the hearts of a loyal and great nation,—the Defender of their rights,—the Guardian of their Constitution,—the Father of your People.

[Transmitted by Sir T. Lethbridge, Bart. M.P.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The loyal and dutiful Address of the Minister, Churchwardens and Inhabitant Householders of the Parish of Wantage, in the County of Berks, in the Vestry assembled.

WE, the Inhabitants of the Town and Parish of Wantage, in the County of Berks, beg leave to renew to your Majesty our assurances of fidelity to your Majesty's Person, and of firm and unalterable attachment to our invaluable Constitution.

Viewing as we do, with sorrow the attempts of a base and desperate faction (by means the most insidious, and also by the aid of popular clamour, raised by arts which Englishmen should blush to own), to alienate the affections of your loyal subjects from their attachment to your Majesty's Person, we feel imperiously called upon, at this juncture, to make and open and fearless avowal of our determination to rally round the Throne, and to maintain and uphold, by every mean in our power, the Constitution in Church and State, as by law established.

We presume not to offer any opinion on passing events; but we place the firmest reliance on the vigour and promptitude of your Majesty's Government to defeat any attempt that may be made by traitorous enemies to our peace and prosperity to convert the honest though mistaken warmth of popular feeling to disloyal or seditious purposes; and we trust that by such exertion the present delusion may be quickly dispelled, and the public mind restored to its usual sound and healthful tone. For ourselves, we beg leave most humbly to assure your Majesty that we will promote by our example and influence, a dutiful allegiance to your Majesty's Royal Person, and submission to the Laws and constituted Authorities of the country.

[Transmitted by the Lord Bishop of Salisbury.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful, loyal and faithful subjects, the Mayor and Burgesses of the Borough of Devizes, in the County of Wilts, in Common Council assembled, humbly beg leave to approach your Majesty to offer at the present crisis our renewed assurances of attachment to your Majesty's Person and Family, and of fidelity to that Constitution, in Church and State, which has, for so long a period proved the safeguard of our national liberty and prosperity.

Deeply sensible of the value of that liberty, which is the peculiar privilege of Britons, we cannot but see with regret, that attempts are every day made to weaken the attachment of the people to that happy Constitution, and those equal Laws under which alone that liberty can be secured.

At a time when principles are openly avowed and most industriously circulated, which tend to the utter subversion of our Laws and our Religion, we think it our duty to assure your Majesty, that we are fully resolved to use our utmost exertions to counteract the efforts of those who are alike the enemies of both; and we fervently pray, that, under the dispensation of Providence, disaffection and disloyalty may be defeated, that your Majesty may triumph over all your foreign and domestic enemies, that your Majesty's reign may be long and prosperous, and that its close, like that of your Royal Father, our late venerable and ever-lamented Sovereign, may be marked by the blessings and regrets of a loyal and affectionate people.

Given under our common seal, in the Council Chamber of the said Borough, the 2d day of December, in the first year of your Majesty's reign.
Wm. Hughes, Mayor.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Mayor, Jurats and Commonalty of the Town and Port of New Romney, in the County of Kent.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's faithful and loyal subjects, the Mayor, Jurats and Commonalty of the Town and Port of New Romney, approach your Majesty with the warmest assurances of our fidelity to your Majesty's Person, and of our confidence in your Majesty's Government.

Viewing with the deepest concern the unremitting attempts made by numerous factious and evil-disposed persons to delude the ignorant and unwary by the most insidious misrepresentations, and to bring into contempt the laws of the land, we feel it our duty at this important moment to declare our unalterable attachment to our happy and envied Constitution, which ensures to every Briton his liberties and enjoyments to an extent that no other nation can boast, and we beg to declare our firm determination to assist in maintaining (as far as our humble sphere will permit) the constituted authorities of the State, and to discourage and repress to the utmost of our power the traitorous attempts of the enemies of the Throne, and of your Majesty's loyal and well affected subjects.

Given under the seal of our Corporation, at New Romney aforesaid, the 29th day of November 1820

[Transmitted by G. Cholmelly Dering, Esq.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Inhabitants of the ancient City or Borough of Wells and its Environs, humbly beg that your Majesty would graciously deign to accept the most respectful assurances of our unfeigned attachment to your Majesty's Person and to the Constitution of these realms as by law established. It is at all times gratifying to us, Sire, to offer the homage of these assurances at the foot of your Majesty's Throne, but the public expression of them is more peculiarly called for at the present moment, when that Throne is surrounded by difficulties of no common magnitude, and when all the institutions under which this nation has so long flourished, are assailed by every means which a wild and mischievous spirit of innovation can suggest. We feel, Sire, that we should ill discharge that duty which we owe to your Majesty, to our loyal fellow subjects, and to ourselves, if we refrained, at such a crisis, from declaring, in the most explicit terms, the indignation and disgust with which we have seen that every incident is eagerly seized upon which can be made to serve the views of the disaffected, every mask assumed which can be made a cover for their criminal designs, and every artifice resorted to for the purpose of irritating the public mind and of rendering your people the instruments of their ambition, by scattering among them, with equal industry and profusion, the seeds of impiety and sedition.

But, Sire, however great are the difficulties in which our country is now involved, and however active and daring may be the efforts of the enemies of its tranquillity and welfare, we feel confident that they will be met by a firm union of every class of your Majesty's loyal subjects, and by a steady determination to rally round that Throne and that Constitution under which we have so long enjoyed those inestimable blessings which have rendered this country the admiration of the world.

Regarding as we do the honour of your Majesty's Crown and the Laws and Constitution of our country as inseparably connected with our individual happiness and prosperity; we beg most humbly:

to assure your Majesty that no exertion shall be wanting on our part to uphold and preserve them inviolate under whatever dangers may threaten them, and to transmit them to our latest posterity, unimpaired either by the rash experiments of innovators or by the insidious artifices or open violence of the disaffected.

Stephen Davies, Mayor.

Wells City, December 1st 1820.

[Transmitted by the Mayor.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The dutiful Address of the Mayor, Aldermen, Common Councilmen and Burgesses of the Town of Cambridge in Common Hall assembled.

*May it please your Majesty,
Most Gracious Sovereign,*

WE, your Majesty's faithful subjects, the Mayor, Aldermen, Common Councilmen and Burgesses of the Town of Cambridge, in Common Hall assembled, averse to the language of flattery and equally unwilling to obtrude unnecessarily upon your Majesty the profession of our loyalty, still we feel, that there are occasions (and that the present is peculiarly one of them) on which the silence of every true friend to his country would be deeply criminal, would argue a total want of reverence for the wise and envied institutions of our ancestors, and an ungrateful insensibility to the signal blessings which, by the Divine Mercy, we have so long been permitted to enjoy.

Suffer us therefore, Sire, most respectfully, and with the strongest sentiments of loyalty, to approach your Throne, and to renew to your Majesty the solemn pledge of our unshaken attachment to your Royal Person and Government.

In the threatening aspect of the present times we recognize the workings of the same factious spirit of anarchy which long since, engendered by infidel philosophy, deluged Europe with its poison, and having loosened the bonds of civilized society, and thrown off the restraints of religion, devoted to the sanguinary dissolution of revolution, the fairest kingdoms. By the blessing of Providence upon the animating and directing impulse which England so powerfully gave to the reviving loyal and religious feeling, and to the moral energies of the Continent, we beheld this spirit humbled and bruised, but not destroyed: jealous and restless at the cheering prospect of a long repose to the world, again it reared its hydra head, and exulting at the distress which had beset the agriculturist, the manufacturer and the artisan, poured forth anew, through the channels of a profligate and blasphemous press, its pestilential poison, fondly hoping to inflame into rebellion the once peaceable, contented and loyal population: foiled by the conviction to punishment of its incendiary agents, by the revival of trade, and the consequent return of the people to a better disposition, we now see the same spirit giving a different direction to its machinations, and under the mask of a spurious loyalty, striving to plunge into one common abyss of destruction, the Laws, the Institutions, the Throne and the Altar of our Country.

But, Sire, we confidently persuade ourselves, that the eyes of the misguided portion of your Majesty's subjects are opening to the delusion by which they have been bound: that the sound Constitutional feeling of Englishmen is awaking to a sense of the true character and object of this factious spirit, and that they will ardently unite with us in rallying around the ark of our Constitution, under the patriotic administration of a Sovereign, anxious only to protect the real liberties of his people, to maintain the tranquillity, and to promote the prosperity and glory of his kingdom.

Given under our common seal at Cambridge, the 5th day of December in the year of our Lord 1820

[Transmitted by Sir John C. Mortlock, Mayor.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

We, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Mayor and Corporation, and other Inhabitants of the Borough of New Windsor, in the County of Berks, and its vicinity, humbly presume, at this time, when a factious faction, aided and stimulated by licentious publications, is diffusing the poison of disaffection, to approach your Majesty with renewed pledges of our unshaken fidelity and allegiance to your sacred Person, and of our unalterable attachment to that glorious Constitution which your Majesty has so steadily and powerfully maintained.

We have observed with the deepest concern for a considerable time, the insidious arts by which this designing and dangerous faction has attempted, through every national misfortune, to degrade in public opinion, each department of the state; and we now view with indignation, its more open attacks upon all that is dear, sacred, and noble, in this envied country; tending to lower by unprincipled machinations, the majesty and splendour of the Throne,—the dignity and honour of the Peerage and Parliament,—the sanctity of the Church— and the independence of the Judges,—and to seduce and inflame, by the vilest misrepresentations, the unfortunate sufferers under temporary distress, to acts of violence, irreligion, and destruction.

We feel confident that the good old English sense of the nation, co-operating with the wisdom and activity of your Majesty's Government, will ere long dispel the pestilential breath of blasphemy and sedition, which is libelling to the world the proud and distinguishing character of Britons; but we cannot at this time, when supineness might appear like fear, forbear boldly and unequivocally, to avow our resolute and hearty determination, to preserve with jealousy our loyalty to the august Person of your Majesty unimpaired, and to defend by every means and exertion in our power, the established religion and constitution of the kingdom.

[Transmitted by the Members of the Borough and the Town Clerk.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty;

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Lord Provost, Magistrates and Town Council of the City of Edinburgh, in Council assembled, beg leave humbly to approach the Throne with expressions of our unvarying love and attachment to your Majesty's Person, and our respect for the Constitution and Government of the Country.

We are particularly anxious at this moment to address your Majesty, when many of your people, misled by the intrigues of wicked and factious men, are attempting to poison the public mind with opinions subversive of all government, and highly prejudicial to the best interests of this free and happy kingdom.

We approach your Majesty with the deepest reverence for your Royal Person, and for the British Constitution, which confers upon all your subjects so many blessings.

We will continue to use our utmost exertions in support of your Throne, and of that Constitution which we believe to be the best ever devised by human wisdom.

That your Majesty may long continue to reign peaceably and prosperously over a loyal and happy people, is the sincere wish of your attached subjects, who have now the honour of laying their sentiments at the foot of the Throne.

Signed in our name, by our appointment and in our presence, and the seal of the said City is hereto affixed, this 29th day of November 1820.

John Manderston, Lord Provost.

[Transmitted by the Lord Provost.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble and unanimous Address of the Guild, or Brotherhood of Masters and Pilots Seamen of the Trinity House of Kingston-upon-Hull.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Guild or Brotherhood of Masters and Pilots Seamen of the Trinity House of Kingston-upon-Hull, humbly beg leave at this critical period when the country is disturbed by designing and disaffected men, whose aim is to overthrow the Government and sap the foundation of our glorious Constitution, to approach your Majesty's Throne with our humble declaration of loyalty and attachment.

We have beheld with detestation the attempts which have been made to intimidate the highest Tribunal in the nation, while engaged in an arduous and important public duty, to attribute motives of the worst description to, and thereby endeavour to cast an odium upon that august assembly, of which we feel a perfect conviction it is undeserving. We trust that the efforts which have thus been made will fail in their effect, and that the tranquillity of the country will be preserved by the firmness and stability of your Majesty's Councils.

Actuated by these feelings and sentiments we deem it a duty incumbent upon us, humbly to approach your Majesty's Throne and to intreat that your Majesty will be graciously pleased to accept this tender of our loyalty and attachment to your sacred Person and Government, trusting that the Almighty Disposer of human affairs will extend over this highly favoured Empire His protecting arm, and preserve the Crown in the Family of your Majesty to the latest posterity.

Given under our common seal this 2d day of December 1820.

*William Horncastle, John Burstall. Wardens.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, the Minister, Churchwardens, Vestry, and other Inhabitants of the Parish of Saint Stephen, in the City of Bristol, feel it a duty which we owe to your Majesty, as well as to our Country, at a period when its most sacred establishments are assailed by the enemies of all civil and social order, to assure your Majesty of our unalterable attachment to your Royal Person, and our grateful sense of the blessings which we enjoy under our unrivalled Constitution.

We have viewed with the utmost indignation the attempts which have been made, through the medium of a licentious press, to excite a spirit of disaffection amongst your Majesty's subjects, and to convert the proceedings in a late public investigation into a signal for sedition and rebellion.

We anticipate, however, with confidence, that the hour is not far distant when the delusions which have been created by the emissaries of disaffection and sedition shall be dispelled, and truth again triumph over falsehood.

We beg to assure your Majesty that we shall use our utmost endeavours, by our example and influence, to promote a continued attachment to the sacred Person of your Majesty, and to that Throne which, in subservience to Divine Providence, has been so long a bulwark to our civil and religious liberty.

[Transmitted by Mr. H. Davis, and Mr. H. Bright,
M. M. P. for the City of Bristol.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's loyal subjects, the Minister, Churchwardens, Vestry and Inhabitants of the Parish of Saint John Baptist, in the City of Bristol, beg leave to approach your Majesty with the most fervent assurance of loyalty and to express our warm and unalterable attachment to your sacred Person and to the constituted authorities of these realms.

We cannot but view with horror and disgust the measures that have been adopted by the vicious and designing towards the subversion of good order and the annihilation of the numberless blessings we have long enjoyed under the parental guidance of your Royal House, we feel ourselves therefore called upon to renew our expressions of loyalty, and to pledge ourselves individually and collectively to oppose the machinations of those who would alike destroy the prerogative of the Crown, the property of individuals, and the principles of our religion.

We repose with confidence upon the wisdom and integrity of Parliament, and earnestly trust and pray, that under its wise and prudent counsels, your reign may be long and prosperous, and that the happiness we have derived from our unrivalled Constitution, established at the revolution and at the accession of the House of Brunswick, may descend unimpaired to our latest posterity.

[Transmitted by Mr. H. Davis and Mr. H. Bright,
M. M. P. for the City of Bristol.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects of the Parish of Saint Peter, in the City of Bristol, highly sensible of the many blessings we have enjoyed under the mild and benevolent Government of your Majesty's illustrious House, feel it to be our solemn duty at this most eventful crisis, when sedition, blasphemy and treason are actively engaged in diffusing their baleful influence throughout this highly favoured country, (hitherto so signalily distinguished for its internal peace and tranquillity), to approach your Majesty with assurances of our firm determination to support (if necessary even by the sacrifice of our lives and property), our most glorious Constitution, which has so justly excited the admiration of the world, and under the auspices and protection of which we with pride and gratitude acknowledge it to be our greatest happiness to live.

Bristol, 21st November 1820.

[Transmitted by Mr. H. Davis and Mr. H. Bright,
M. M. P. for the City of Bristol.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, the Vicar, Church Warden, Vestry, and other Inhabitants of the Parish of Temple, alias Holy Cross, in the City of Bristol, feel it a duty which we owe to our King and Country to express our grateful sense of the privileges which we enjoy under our unrivalled Constitution; and we deem such an expression of our feelings to be peculiarly called for at a moment when the enemies of social, religious and civil order are assailing all that is dear to us as Men, as Christians, and as Britons.

It is with the utmost abhorrence that we view the attempts which are made by a licentious press to disseminate a factious and turbulent spirit among your Majesty's subjects, and to propagate atheism, infidelity and blasphemy throughout this hitherto favoured land.

We cannot but confidently hope that, under Divine Providence, the wisdom and energy of the great Councils of the nation, aided by the co-operation of all your Majesty's loyal and good subjects, will speedily dispel the delusions which disaffection and sedition have excited, and restore to us the invaluable blessing of national tranquillity.

We do not hesitate to declare to your Majesty our determination to support that Throne which has been so long a bulwark to our civil and religious liberty; and to defend and preserve the Constitution of this Realm, both in Church and State, as our noble ancestors have handed it down to us, by our example, our influence, our property, and our lives.

[Transmitted by Mr. H. Davis and Mr. H. Bright,
M. M. P. for the City of Bristol.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, Inhabitants of the Parish of Saint Augustine the less, in the City of Bristol, intreat permission, in this crisis of public danger and alarm, to tender to your Majesty the assurance of our inviolable attachment to your Majesty's Person and Government.

We have observed with the utmost indignation the base and factious purposes to which the enemies of their King and Country have laboured, by the aid of a licentious press, to convert the proceedings in the late Parliamentary investigation: a measure which we are convinced, however, much it was to be deplored, the honour and character of the nation imperatively demanded.

Whilst those proceedings were pending we felt it due to the rank and station of the party accused, the highest subject in the kingdom, to abstain from any public animadversion on the seditious conduct of her pretended friends, who, under the shield of her name, were directing their attacks against whatever has been held most sacred in our civil and religious establishments; but now that the enquiry is concluded, we consider it our duty to unite with the rest of your Majesty's loyal and faithful subjects, in reprobating the vile delusions which have been so industriously practised on the uninformed classes of society, in the hopes, no doubt, by confounding all distinctions between virtue and vice, of corrupting their morals and thereby rendering them the more apt instruments of sedition.

We trust that these lamentable delusions will ere long be dispelled, and we beg to assure your Majesty that no exertions shall be wanting on our parts to maintain the public tranquillity, by promoting and enforcing to the utmost of our power, a due submission and obedience to the laws.

[Transmitted by Mr. H. Davis and Mr. H. Bright,
M. M. P. for the City of Bristol.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, the Vicar, Churchwardens, Vestry and Inhabitants of the Parish of All Saints, in the City of Bristol, are desirous at this time in particular, of testifying to your Majesty our firm and zealous attachment to your Majesty's Person, our veneration for the religion, laws and establishments of our Country, and our acknowledgements of the blessings we derive from our free and unrivalled Constitution.

We deeply lament the rapid progress of the apparently organised system in action throughout the kingdom, which, under specious pretexts, aided by the licentiousness of the press, has for its object an incitement to discontent, the encouragement of disloyal and seditious opinions, the subversion of religion and of every other tie to civil society and domestic peace.

Relying on the firmness and judgment of your Majesty, and on the uncorrupted and favourable disposition of a vast proportion of your Majesty's subjects we entertain a confident hope, that under the protection of Providence, the principles of social order, morality and religion will ultimately prevail; and that those of your Majesty's subjects, who have unhappily been induced to countenance the measures of the worst enemies of our Country, will soon become sensible of their error and be brought to unite in a zealous and effectual support of our laws and establishments, and cordially co-operate in repressing any attempt to disturb that peace and tranquillity which we have hitherto enjoyed under the mild administration of your Majesty's Government.

Bristol, November 24th 1820.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Chancellor, Masters and Scholars of the University of Cambridge.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Chancellor, Masters and Scholars of the University of Cambridge, humbly approach your Throne, to tender to your Majesty the special homage of a devoted loyalty and attachment to your Majesty's Royal Person and Government.

Sir, we behold with deep concern the increasing prevalence, in some of your Majesty's subjects, of a spirit and temper of bitter hostility against the blessings which we hold most dear, and which we have now the happiness to enjoy under your Majesty's paternal sway.

Convinced by accumulated evidence of the existence and growth of this pernicious spirit, under its most degrading forms of faction, sedition, and treason in the State; and of profaneness, infidelity and blasphemy in religion, we observe with much more pain than surprize the system of operations pursued with unwearyed perseverance in subordination to and alliance with the same baneful principles; a system of odious reviling and calumnious insult, heedless of truth, poured forth against all that is honourable and venerable amongst us, in person, rank, office and institution; against all constituted authority; against the motives and conduct of public men; against both Houses of Parliament; against the administration of the laws, and the Officers of Justice; against the ordinances and Ministers of our Christian Faith; and finally, against your Majesty's sacred Person and Government. The tendency of these proceedings, and their result, if left uncontrolled, cannot be contemplated without dismay; being nothing less than the disgrace, ruin and downfall of our country, to be brought about for the gratification of the basest, most malignant, and most corrupt passions of the human heart. And though we devoutly trust that an issue so calamitous will be averted, through the rising disgust and abhorrence of good men, through the vigour of your Majesty's Government, and by the Protecting Arm of Almighty God; yet the rapid progress has become but too apparent, of a power and influence which domineers with lamentable success over the minds of multitudes of your Majesty's deluded subjects, and threatens destruction to their best interests.

Such being the circumstances of our country, we confess, Sir, that we could not remain longer silent without acute feelings of self reproach. We are sensible that your Majesty has claims upon us, and upon all your faithful and loving subjects; claims to be assured, that amid the anxious and arduous cares of government, you possess the affectionate sympathy and the determined, loyal attachment of your people.

We come, therefore, to avow before your Majesty our utter detestation of the principles and practices of infidelity and faction, and to declare that it is to the wisdom and energy of your Majesty's Councils that we look for rescue, under Providence, from the impending dangers.

For ourselves, we entreat your Majesty to believe that we shall not be wanting on our part in any exertions, which the exigencies of the times may require, and your Majesty may be pleased to call for at our hands: and with respect to that which, under your Majesty's fostering care, has been and is the object of our constant pursuit, habitual solicitude, and perpetual obligation, we assure your Majesty that there are no lessons so grateful to us, to convey to the youth who are intrusted to our care, as those which inculcate a reverence for your Majesty's Person; an attachment to the institutions of our country, and to its free and glorious Constitution; and, above all, a devout, profound veneration for our Holy Religion.

To which Address His Majesty was pleased to return the following most gracious answer :

" I thank you for this loyal and dutiful Address.

" Whilst the most wicked and daring efforts have been unremittingly used to spread infidelity and sedition throughout my Kingdom, I have felt a perfect conviction that in our Academical Establishments such efforts would not only prove abortive, but would be regarded with the strongest sentiments of disgust and reprobation.

" The manner in which the University of Cambridge has justified this confidence, has afforded me the highest satisfaction.

" I am well assured that you will persevere with unabated zeal in cherishing and inculcating a pious reverence for our Holy Religion, and a just sense of the inestimable blessings which are derived from the Laws and Constitution of the Country.

" You may rely on my firm determination to protect and uphold your venerable institutions, in the stability of which are deeply involved the preservation and security of all that is dear and valuable to us as a Nation."

They were all most graciously received, and the Delegates had the honour of kissing His Majesty's hand.

Carlton-House, December 8, 1820.

THIS day the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor, the Aldermen, Recorder, Sheriffs and Officers of the City of London waited upon His Majesty with the following Address, which was read by Sir John Silvester, Bart., the Recorder.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty,

The dutiful and loyal Address of the Court of Lord Mayor and Aldermen of the City of London.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of the City of London, approach your Royal Presence with renewed assurances of our most inviolate attachment to your sacred Person and Government.

Impressed as we are with veneration for your Majesty's Crown and dignity, we view with horror and detestation the unprincipled efforts of the disaffected in every direction which infatuated malice can devise and a licentious press promote, to withdraw the unwary and timid from their allegiance to their Sovereign, and in the result to overwhelm this free and happy land with anarchy and confusion.

For this base purpose, calumnies of the most mischievous tendency have been circulated against all the Constituted Authorities of the Realm, with restless and unabating rancour: the Parliament, the Courts of Judicature, the Altar and the Throne, as established by our envied and glorious Constitution, have become the objects of the most profigate abuse and insulting derision.

We feel, Sire, that in order to avert the devastation threatened by such a torrent of impiety and sedition it becomes the bounden duty of all the liege subjects of the Realm to stand forward, without delay, and avow their determination to support the principles of the British Constitution, in the true spirit of British loyalty, to rally round the Throne and guard the Religion and Laws of the Country from outrage and insult.

The Lord Mayor and Aldermen of the City of London are therefore most anxious, Sire, to testify to the country at large, in this evil hour, their resolution to defend the Monarchy, as well as the other branches of the Constitution, against the attempts openly and industriously made by the instigators and abettors of sedition and infidelity; and to do their utmost endeavour in their respective stations, as Magistrates under the sanction of the laws, to transmit to their children's children the blessings they have derived from the wisdom and bravery of their Ancestors, and which they enjoy under your Majesty's paternal sway.

We beg to add our most fervent prayers to the Almighty Disposer of all events, that your Majesty's reign may be long, prosperous, and happy in the affections of a faithful, grateful, and loyal people.

Signed, by order of Court,
Henry Woodthorpe.

To which Address His Majesty was pleased to return the following most gracious answer :

" I return you my warmest thanks for this loyal and dutiful Address.

" It is peculiarly gratifying to me to receive at this time such an assurance of your unshaken attachment to my Person and Government, and of the feelings with which you regard the attempts so unceasingly made to extirpate all that has hitherto been held sacred amongst us, and to destroy all the sources of British freedom, prosperity and power.

" A spirit similar to that by which you are actuated, happily predominates throughout the kingdom; and I well know the implicit confidence which is due to the virtue and loyalty of the great body of the nation, who are manifesting their just sense of the blessings they enjoy, by the most decisive proofs of their zealous determination to defend and preserve them.

" You may rely on my constant support in the discharge of the duties which arise out of the present extraordinary conjuncture.

" We are engaged in a common cause, and I feel most deeply, that the honour of my Crown and the happiness of my reign are inseparably interwoven with the maintenance of our established Constitution, and with the true interests and welfare of my people."

They were all very graciously received and had the honour of kissing His Majesty's hand.

By the KING.
