SATURDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1820.

THE following Addresses, having been transmitted to Viscount Sidmouth, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, by the several persons whose names are respectively subjoined to each Address, were presented by His Lordship to His Majesty, who was pleased to receive the same very graciously:

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Master Pilots and Seamen of the Trinity House of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, in the County of Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

May it please your Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Master Pilots and Seamen of the Trinity House of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, in the County of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, beg leave to approach your Majesty with the renewed sentiments of our loyalty to the Throne, and steady and heartfelt attachment to your Majesty's illustrious Person and Family, and to express our deep and grateful estimation of the blessings we enjoy under our invaluable Constitution.

Viewing as we do with sorrow the attempts of a base and desperate faction (by arts which Englishmen should blush to own) to alienate the affections of your Majesty's loyal subjects from their attachment to your Majesty's Person; we feel imperiously called upon at this juncture to make an open and fearless avowal of our determination to rally round the Throne and to maintain and uphold, by every means in our power, the Constitution in Church and State as by law established.

We repose with confidence upon the wisdom and integrity of your Majesty's Ministers, and trust that their wise and prudent counsels, aided by the co-operation of all your Majesty's loyal and good subjects, will speedily dispel the delusions which disaffection and sedition have excited, and restore to us the invaluable blessings of national tranquility.

We earnestly pray that your Majesty may continue long to reign peaceably and prosperously over a loyal people, and that the happiness we have derived from our unrivalled Constitution, under the mild and beneficent sway of the House of Brunswick, may descend unimpaired to our latest posterity.

Given under the seal of this Corporation, the 13th day of December 1820.

George Fothergill Master.

[Transmitted by the Lord Chancellor.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, the Noblemen, Freeholders, Justices of Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the County of Perth, in general meeting assembled, again humbly beg leave to approach your Majesty with feelings of the most cordial allegiance and fidelity.

We so lately expressed to your Majesty our firm attachment to your Royal Person and Government, that we should not have deemed a repetition of these professions now to be necessary, did we not conceive that at the present moment it would be a dereliction of the duties we owe to your Majesty, our country, and ourselves, were we to hesitate respectfully to assure your Majesty, that the loyalty and attachment which we then expressed remain unaltered and unimpaired—openly to avow our continued approbation of the principles upon which your Majesty has hitherto conducted your Government—and explicitly to declare our fixed determination, by every means in our power, to preserve and maintain our happy Constitution.

When revolution is the obvious and almost acknowledged object of a profligate faction, when a seditious and blasphemous press is unceasingly employed to eradicate from the minds of the people those principles of loyalty to their King, attachment to the Constitution, and veneration for the Religious institutions of their country for which the British nation has hitherto been so eminently distinguished; we feel ourselves imperatively called upon to proclaim our detestation and abhorrence of these atrocious designs, our sense of the ruinous consequences to which they lead, and our assurance that no efforts will be deemed by us too great, no
