TUESDAY, JANUARY 30, 1821.

THE following Addresses, having been transmitted to Viscount Sidmouth, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, by the several persons whose names are respectively subjoined to each Address, were presented by His Lordship to His Majesty, who was pleased to receive the same very graciously:

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble and dutiful Address of the Freeholders, Commissioners of Supply, Justices of the Peace and other Heritors of the County of Ross.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, the Freeholders, Commissioners of Supply, Justices of the Peace and other Heritors of the County of Ross, assembled in general meeting, beg leave to approach your Majesty and to express our unaltered feelings of allegiance and fidelity to your sacred Person and to the Government over which you preside.

It is little more than twelve months since the factious and treasonable proceedings of the disaffected in different parts of England and of this kingdom, under the specious pretext of a reform of the representation of the people in Parliament, induced us to approach your Majesty with a declaration of our determination to support the Constitution against the machinations of that desperate faction.

The danger which at that time assumed the appearance of actual rebellion and threatened the overthrow of the Constitution and of our rights and privileges, religious and civil, was happily suppressed by the energy and wisdom of Parliament, under your Majesty's auspices.

We, however, observe with much pain that, notwithstanding the wise and salutary regulations adopted by Parliament on that occasion, a spirit of misrule prevails in the nation, fostered by the mischievous arts of desperate designing men, and aided by the incessant efforts of a seditious press, whose object evidently is to vilify and traduce, by the most mischievous misrepresentations and falsehoods, the constituted Authorities of the empire, and thereby to bring the laws and religious institutions of the country into contempt.

Whilst we venerate and admire the genuine spirit of liberty which is inherent to our Constitution, we detest and abhor the licentiousness to which its abuse gives rise in the hands of the profane, the factious and the unprincipled, and we confidently trust that, by the wisdom of Parliament and the energy of your Majesty's Councils, measures shall be resorted to for restraining the latter, while the former may still be maintained in full vigour.

In the various and numerous publications of the disaffected a deception is daily practised to impose upon the ignorant and uninformed classes, by terming their own party and followers the people, thereby attempting to persuade these that their support is general, whereas it is matter of great exultation to us to be able to declare to your Majesty with confidence our firm conviction that an overwhelming majority of your subjects see through the arts and intentions of these demagogues, and when called upon will be found ready with heart and hand to support and maintain your Majesty's just and inalienable Prerogatives and the Constitution of the empire against all their machinations.

It is sufficiently evident that in the different nations of the Continent where the people have attempted an innovation on their various systems of government to extend their liberties, an approximation to the happy and well poised Constitution of these realms seems universally to be the object of their most ardent wishes.

Feeling the inestimable value of the privileges, both sacred and civil, which we enjoy under that our enviable Constitution, we beg leave to assure your Majesty, that it is our determined resolution, and we pledge ourselves to defend these and your Majesty's just rights at the hazard of our lives and fortunes, against the domestic enemies of your Majesty's Throne and dignity.

We continue to have the fullest reliance on the wisdom and firmness of your Majesty's Councils for suppressing the seditious and treasonable schemes of the disaffected, and maintaining the authority of the laws and their administration and a just respect for the religion of the State.

That your Majesty may long reign in the hearts and affections of your subjects, and be enabled, by the blessings of Divine Providence, to direct the power and energies of a happy and prosperous people to the best purposes, and that you may enjoy uninterrupted health and happiness, are the earnest and ardent prayers of the Gentlemen here assembled.

Signed, in our name, in our presence and by our appointment, by Sir Hector Mackenzie, of Gerloch, Baronet, Lord Lieutenant of the County of Ross, Preses of the meeting, at the Royal Burgh of Dingwall, the 4th day of January 1821 years, Hector Mackenzie.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The dutiful and loyal Address of the Magistrates and Town Council of the Royal Burgh of Wick.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Magistrates and Town Council of the Royal Burgh of Wick, beg leave to renew the assurance of our unshaken and unalterable attachment to your Majesty's Person and Government.

Deeming it the incumbent duty of every loyal subject, in such times as the present, to express his sentiments, we beg leave to assure your Majesty, that we have marked with the utmost disgust and abhorrence the unceasing attempts of base and unprincipled men to excite and foment, by every possible means, and especially through the medium of a licentious press, a spirit of disaffection and irreligion among your Majesty's subjects. The object at which these factious and turbulent demagogues are aiming is not a reform, as they falsely and insidiously pretend, but a revolution; and they are endeavouring to prepare the minds of your Majesty's subjects for this, their nefarious purpose, by harragues and publications teeming with blasphemy and sedition.

Through the blessing of Providence, on your Majesty's Counsels, and through the good sense and good principles, civil and religious, of a great majority of your Majesty's subjects, we ardently hope, and firmly believe, that these desperately wicked men shall be disappointed and confounded; and that, notwithstanding all their malignant assiduity in sowing the seeds of irreligion and anarchy, we, and our children's children, shall enjoy unimpaired the blessings of the British Constitution, under the mild and paternal reign of your Majesty and your illustrious House. That He who bringeth the counsel of the ungodly to nought, may grant this, is the earnest prayer of, may it please your Majesty, the Magistrates and Town Council of the Royal Burgh of Wick.

Signed, in our name, and by our appointment, and the seal of the Burgh is herto affixed, at Wick, the 5th day of January 1821, by John Macleay, Chief Resident Magistrate.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Freeholders, Commissioners of Supply, and Justices of Peace of the County of Inverness, beg leave to approach your Throne with the expression of our warmest attachment to your Majesty's Person and Government, and to the glorious Constitution which we have the happiness to live under; and at the same time to declare our utter abhorrence and detestation of all attempts of factious and disaffected persons, (assisted by a seditious and blasphemous press,) who, under the false pretence of patriotism and reform, assiduously endeavour to mislead the ignorant and unwary, to sap the foundations of religion and loyalty, and to reduce this happy country to a state of disorder and anarchy.

But we have the utmost satisfaction in being able to assure your Majesty, that in this part of your Majesty's dominions there exists no spirit of disaffection of irreligion or immorality; nor have any attempts been made, so far as we have been able to learn, either by the circulation of books and writings or otherwise, to shake the loyalty or to corrupt the manners of the people.

Grateful for the deliverance which, a few years since, we, together with the rest of Europe, experienced by the wisdom and vigour of your Majesty's Government, and for the inestimable blessings we continue to enjoy under it; we beg leave to offer to your Majesty the assurance of our firm determination to support, to the utmost of our power and ability, the established institutions in the Church and State against all designs of the disaffected.

That your Majesty may long reign the guardian of your people's liberties and rights, and defend them alike from foreign aggression and domestic abuse, is the sincere prayer of, your Majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the Freeholders, Commissioners of Supply, and Justices of the Peace of the County of Inverness.

Signed, in name and by appointment of the General Meeting of the County of Inverness, held at Inverness, this 4th day of January 1821, who voted and agreed to the above Address unanimously.

William Fraser Tytler, Preses.

[Transmitted by the Preses of the General Meeting.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The dutiful and loyal Address of the Noblemen, Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the County of Linlithgow.

WE, the Noblemen, Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the County of Linlithgow, in general meeting assembled, again humbly beg leave to approach your Majesty with feelings of the most unfeigned allegiance, and with the firmest and most unalterable attachment to your Majesty's Royal Person and Government.

So short a time has elapsed since we before endeavoured to convey to your Majesty our marked love, zeal and respect for your Royal Person and Government, that we should have deemed a repetition unnecessary, were we not aware that, at this momentous crisis, factious and designing men, whose only object is revolution, are straining every nerve to inflame and delude the minds of the unwary and illiterate, and, with the assistance of a seditious press, to supplant those principles of loyalty with which the heart of every Briton is naturally pregnant.

We view with indignation and regret the wicked attempts lately made to alienate the affections of your Majesty's subjects, by the most unwarrantable attacks upon the proceedings of your Majesty's Government. And we farther behold, with the most heartfelt sorrow, the unprincipled efforts of a base, artful, and seditious faction, to mislead the public mind in the great duties of religion and morality, and thereby to alienate from your Majesty the allegiance and affection of your people.

We have the fullest conviction that the vigilance, firmness and wisdom of your Majesty's Councils will avert those evils with which we are threatened; and being faithfully attached to the Constitution which has been handed down to us from our ancestors, and gratefully sensible of the blessings we enjoy under your Majesty's mild and benignant reign, we conceive we are imperatively called upon to repeat the assurances of our firm determination to preserve, and to endeavour to transmit to our posterity, unimpaired, that glorious Constitution which has been the pride and happiness of our country for ages past.

That the efforts of sedition and irreligion may ever prove fruitless and unavailing, and that your Majesty may long reign over a free, happy, and loyal people, is our most fervent prayer.

Signed, in our name, and by our appointment, by the Right Honourable John, Earl of Hopetoun, our Preses, at Linlithgow, the 5th day of January, 1821 years, Hopetoun.

[Transmitted by the Earl of Hopetoun, G. C. B.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, the Noblemen, Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the County of Kincardine, assembled in a general meeting, specially called, humbly beg leave to approach your Majesty with sentiments of unfeigned loyalty and attachment to your Royal Person and Government, and of the highest veneration for that invaluable Constitution under which, as Britons, we have experienced so many blessings.

Deeply impressed with these feelings, we have, for some time past, seen, with abhorrence and detestation, the incessant and persevering efforts of unprincipled and designing men, endeavouring, by every means in their power, to bring into contempt the institutions, civil and religious, and all the constituted Authorities of the empire; addressing their visionary schemes to a class of the people totally incapable, from their habits and occupations, of appreciating the destructive results of such innovations, and not aware of the anarchy, devastation, and confusion which alone they are calculated to produce.

By means of such artful and delusive practices, so adverse to the best principles of good government, aided by the frequent abuse of the liberty of the press, and even, in some measure, arising from the supineness of the sound part of the community, we lament to find that a considerable part of the population, in some districts, have been detached from their habits of industry and loyalty, and blindly led to avow opinions of such pernicious tendency as, if longer overlooked, cannot fail to undermine the foundation of the Altar and the Throne.

Under such momentous circumstances, therefore, we feel ourselves imperiously called upon to declare our firm and unalterable determination to support and preserve, to the utmost of our power and abilities, the admirable Constitution of these kingdoms. Let the long tried and genuine loyalty of the nation be effectually roused, then will these seditious and impious doctrines sink into merited oblivion and contempt, and the deluded part of the population, convinced of their error, will return to their wonted habits of industry, and a due respect to the laws.

While we express these sentiments, we nevertheless feel it a duty we owe to the Inhabitants of this part of the kingdom, to assure your Majesty of their unshaken loyalty and abhorrence of those doctrines, the dissemination of which have had such pernicious effects in other districts.

That the loyal declarations now flowing in a continued stream to the foot of the Throne, from every part of your Majesty's dominions, may be attended with the happy results of bringing into active exertion the known loyalty of the kingdom, and that your Majesty may long reign in the hearts of a free, loyal, happy, and religious people, is our fervent prayer.

Signed by our Preses, in our name, and by our appointment, at Stonehaven, the 6th day of January 1821. Arbuthnott.

[Transmitted by Viscount Arbuthnott.]

Unto the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the Magistrates and Council of the Burgh of Kilmarnock, in the County of Ayr.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the Magistrates and Council of the Town of Kilmarnock, desire again humbly to approach the Throne, that we may express our undiminished respect and attachment to your Majesty's Person, and our unshaken confidence in your Majesty's Government.

We gratefully declare our happiness in enjoying the benefits of our inestimable Constitution, under your mild and equitable reign.

Impressed with a deep sense of the prudence and moderation of your Councils, so eminently exemplified in the easy repression of the late seditious commotions, and in the merciful forbearance exhibited towards misguided and factious men, (who, in their blindness, would have deprived themselves of all that is dear to a free and loyal people), we humbly renew our assurances of allegiance and of respect and veneration for the established laws of our country.

We are aware that turbulent men exist in every State, who delight more in the destruction than in the support of peace and order, whose chief object is the promotion of disaffection, and whose every aim is evil. Deprecating the calamities with which such men would afflict their country, we will ever, in common with your Majesty's faithful subjects, unite our best energies to frustrate their purposes and extirpate their seditious and demoralizing principles.

That your Majesty's reign may be long and prosperous, is our most fervent prayer.

Signed, in name and by appointment of the Council, by John Fulton and John Thomson.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's most faithful and loyal subjects, the Minister, Assistant Minister, and Parishioners of the United Parishes of Boleskine and Abertarff, County of Inverness, specially met and constituted at Boleskine and Abertarff, this 26th day of December, 1820 years, take the liberty of approaching the Throne with sentiments of the profoundest reverence and devotion, and of the most unfeigned attachment to your Majesty's Royal Person and Government.

Deeply impressed with the belief that your Majesty does always watch with paternal care and solicitude over the welfare of all your Majesty's subjects, the most distant, no less than those who literally encircle your Throne, we cannot withhold from your Majesty the expression of our unabated confidence in your Majesty's unremitting superintendence over the best interests of the nation. Retired from the bustle of crowded cities and those angry and conflicting scenes which too often agitate the mind and distract the peace of the community: retired from the capital of the kingdom—the centre of courtly manners: unknown among the Princes, the Nobles, and the Legislators of the land: embosomed in the heath-clad-hills and the snow-capt-mountains of our native Caledonia; we nevertheless deem it our bounden duty, and that of all your Majesty's faithful subjects, and of all the sincere friends of their country, from the Land's End to Ultima Thule, at this crisis, so pregnant with alarm and danger, to come forward with a public declaration of our loyalty and patriotism; of our unalterable adherence to our most invaluable Constitution, and determined resolution to maintain the existing establishments, civil and religious, by our example, influence, and all the means in our power.

That a spirit of disorder and defiance, of profigateness and insubordination, of disloyalty and irreligion, has for some years past been stalking abroad amongst the nations of Europe, is a fact too well authenticated; the effects of which may be traced in the subversion of Thrones and the overthrow of the Altar, which followed in its heart-rending and desolating train. To the true Patriot and sincere Christian, it is, however, cause of the highest exultation, that amidst those sacrilegious delapidations, agonizing convulsions, and overwhelming disasters, Britain stood forth the daunted and successful defender of all that is precious and dear to man, protecting the rights of sovereignty and the liberties of the subject, and upholding the bulwarks of Christianity. But that a woeful change has since occurred in the principles and habits of our own nation, particularly of that portion of it which was wonted to be proverbial for decency of conduct, love of country, and scrupulous observance of religious ordinances, is not to be dissembled, how much soever to be deplored; inasmuch that the demon of turbulence, of sedition and rebellion, has now his emissaries regularly retained to scatter anarchy and indescribable miseries, not only in wealthy and populous cities, but also in sequestered hamlets and lonely cottages.

Heretofore the poison of infidelity and scepticism was confined to a few speculative literary individuals, and comparatively uninjurious to social order and prosperity; but now slop-shops for the distribution of treason and miscreancy are opened in almost every village, and the malady is ten-fold increased, throughout the whole kingdom, by ambulatory orators. Our once happy and united, loyal and religious people, are made the prey of the broachers, the advocates, the wholesale vendors, and the retailers of discord and misrule, of insubordination and blasphemy. That class of persons occupying inferior stations, so lately industrious, contented with the lot assigned to them by Providence, and supported by the faith and hope of the gospel under all the privations and discouragements of their humble condition, are now infected with the mania for innovation, and plundered of the sweets, consolations and charities inspired by the religion of Jesus; and the very mechanic's stall is become the haunt of avowed rebellion and practical atheism.

The wild floating theories of radical reform in Church and State, which have originated with designing knaves, and are patronized and diffused by unprincipled demagogues, which have greatly loosened the bands of society and endanger its very existence, as they are most abhorrent to our feelings and sense of duty, so shall they be resisted by us, within our respective spheres, with all our energy: nor shall we fail to recommend, inculcate, and enforce the fear of God, honour to the King, obedience to the Laws of the realm, respect to superiors, as the only solid and immoveable foundation of temporal celebrity and celestial bliss.

We beg leave further to assure your Majesty, that, judging from past experience, (the truest criterion), we are thoroughly convinced your Majesty's present Ministry (notwithstanding the insidious stratagems practised, and the popular clamour excited against them), are eminently qualified, with the blessing of the Supreme Ruler of the Universe, to avert the calamities with which we are threatened, and to restore the empire to its former tranquility and success, splendour and glory, so that we, and generations as yet unborn, shall have cause to bless your Majesty's reign.

That your Majesty may long sway the Sceptre over a free, a loyal, a religious and happy people, is the fervent prayer of, may it please your Majesty, your Majesty's most faithful and most obedient subjects, the Minister, Assistant Minister, and Parishioners of the United Parishes of Boleskine and Abertarff.

Signed, in our name, in our presence, and at our appointment, by William Eraser, Preses.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the President and Fellows of the Royal College of Physicians of Edinburgh, beg leave humbly to approach the Throne with the most cordial sentiments of fidelity and allegiance.

Impressed with a due sense of the numerous and invaluable blessings we enjoy under your Majesty's mild and paternal Government, we feel it our duty at the present alarming conjuncture, respectfully to assure your Majesty of our continued, firm and unshaken loyalty and attachment, to express our perfect confidence in the wisdom and energy of your Majesty's Councils, and to avow our fixed determination to maintain and support, by every means in our power, our unrivalled Constitution, and to transmit it unimpaired to our latest descendants.

That your Majesty may long sway the sceptre of these realms over a loyal and happy people, is our most sincere and ardent prayer.

Signed and sealed, in the name and by the appointment of the Royal College, at Edinburgh, the 10th day of January 1821, James Buchan, M. D., President.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The loyal Address of the Presbytery of Edinburgh.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's faithful and dutiful subjects, the Ministers and Elders of the Presbytery of Edinburgh, feel ourselves called upon by circumstances which we deeply deplore to present to your Majesty, a renewed assurance of our cordial attachment and inviolable fidelity to your Majesty's Person and Government.

We indulged a hope that the lenity manifested towards many of those who were implicated in some late machinations, for the subversion of our inestimable Constitution of Government, would have gained the hearts even of the disaffected, but with sorrow and shame we observe that the spirit of disaffection, if it has not gained additional votaries, has lately expressed itself with increasing boldness, with an avowed, if not a boasted disrespect to all constituted Authorities, even those which had been held the most sacred.

The deceivers of their brethren being well aware that the loyalty of the people had its best foundation in their religious principles, have long and assiduously laboured to undermine and subvert their christian faith, and our hearts are penetrated with grief while we acknowledge that the nefarious attempt has been too successful. We are willing, indeed, to believe that the means which have been lately employed for protecting our countrymen against irreligious and blasphemous writings, have operated as a check to the progress of infidelity; but, in this department the evil which had been done was not to be at once or speedily cured. A lamentable relaxation of religious and moral principle has become manifest in its baneful effects. The same men, who in former times would have scrupulously questioned the rectitude of the measures proposed to them, are now ready to concur in the use of any means, however unjustifiable, for prolonging and increasing that agitation of the public mind, which threatens the overthrow of our invaluable institutions.

If no fresh excitement were given to such a turbulent propensity, it might be hoped that it would gradually subside; but we are mortified to think that the licentiousness of the press, in its political discussions, has lately arrived at a height unexampled in our times, and is unweariedly employed in nourishing and propagating a spirit of discontent and sedition.

In such circumstances we should feel it to be inconsistent with our duty to conceal our apprehensions of danger, but the danger does by no means appal us. We know that in the sober minded part of the community, there are still wisdom and vigour more than sufficient to uphold our Constitution of Government, in defiance of all who would invade it; we confide in the protection of that overruling Providence, which at first wrought out for us our national privileges, and has hitherto preserved to us that invaluable possession, in the face of both foreign and domestic foes; and we rely on the prudence and energy of your Majesty's Councils, for the adoption of such measures as may be instrumental in the hand of God for delivering our country from every danger.

We beg leave at the same time to assure your Majesty, that we shall not be inattentive to the duty which in the present circumstances is more immediately incumbent on ourselves; we are sorry to think that to the ears of the disaffected it is not easy for the Ministers of Religion to find access, but it shall at least be our assiduous endeavour so to satisfy the minds of the doubtful and wavering, and to confirm the loyal and well disposed as to prepare them for every exertion and every sacrifice that may be required in their country's cause.

Signed, in our name, in our presence and at our appointment, by Alex. Brunton, Moderator.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Ministers and Elders of the Presbytery of Lanark, beg leave to tender to your Majesty our sincere assurance of attachment to your Majesty's Person and Government.

Ministers of the gospel of peace, we deplore the divisions, the bitter animosities, which factious and designing men have been endeavouring, with but too much success, to foment among your Majesty's subjects; and we would deprecate even the remotest possibility of inflaming these animosities, by coming forward as partisans of any political faction. But impressed as we are with the deepest sense of the blessings which we enjoy from our invaluable Constitution, and of the paternal solicitude with which your Majesty has ever watched over the rights and privileges which it guarantees to your subjects, we should account ourselves wanting in duty, alike to your Majesty and to the people entrusted to our charge, did we not openly avow our abhorrence of those disloyal and wicked principles which are at once incompatible with the stability of the Throne, and the best interests of the community. The danger with which those principles formerly threatened us, we have seen, averted off, by the firmness and the prudence of your Majesty's Councils; and we still trust that the God of all wisdom, to whom we have often had to offer our gratitude for protection in seasons of greater alarm, will so overrule the measures of your Majesty's Government as to restore the confidence of the people, and to secure, beyond the power of being shaken by any popular agitations, that Constitution which has been the source of so many blessings to the British nation, and the envy of all our neighbours.

That your Majesty may long reign in the hearts of a loyal and affectionate people, is the fervent prayer of, may it please your Majesty, your Majesty's most faithful, most obedient, and most loyal subjects, the Ministers and Elders of the Presbytery of Lanark.

Signed, in our name, in our presence, and at our appointment, by Geo. Dickson, Moderator.

Unto the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's very dutiful and loyal subjects, the Proprietors of Houses and Grounds, in the immediate Vicinity, House Proprietors, Tenants, and other Householders of the Town of Kelso, most humbly beg leave to lay at the foot of the Throne a renewal of the assurances of our unalterable attachment to your Royal Person and Government.

We profess ourselves, Sire, good and peaceable subjects, and are, in general, averse to be called from our occupations to enter the lists of public or political contention, but there is a limit to this seclusion, when forbearance becomes a crime, and want of exertion a relaxation of public duty: this period, we are sorry to say, is now arrived. For these some years a number of wicked and designing men, with an eagerness and assiduity worthy of a better cause, have seized upon every emergency arising in public affairs, to which they can make their hypocritical pretences subservient, or which their flagitious purposes can speciously embrace, to engraft upon every public measure of this kind, a catalogue of assumed grievances, by misrepresenting and distorting almost every act of your Majesty's Government, and holding up your Majesty, both Houses of Parliament, the Judges of the land, and Ministers of Religion, to the previously inflamed passions of the ignorant and deluded multitude, either as corrupt in their motives, or useless and partial in the discharge of the duties of their high and sacred functions. And to fill their cup of deception to the brim, this gauntlet of sedition is cast down with matchless effrontery in defiance of a mild and liberal Government, which, setting aside minor advantages, protects alike, with a just and equal hand, the personal liberty and property of the Prince and peasant; to a system so admirable, and to the wisdom and operation of its practical and beneficial results, we in vain explore the records of time to find a parallel.

To secure and to defend this bulwark of our freedom and of our happiness, and to stem this torrent of political pestilence, which, in its baleful course, threatens to overwhelm and consume every thing dear to man in civilized society, we assure your Majesty, individually and collectively, we will exercise our best judgment, and employ our best exertions, and as fathers of families and members of the community, diffuse to the utmost of our ability, among our children and domestics, principles and precepts inculcating veneration and obedience to the constituted Authorities, as the rock whereon the foundation of our whole social duties as men, and whole worldly enjoyments as individuals, can alone securely rest.

We firmly believe that the first solicitude of your Majesty's precious life is the good of your people, and when these factious days have passed away, the promoters of which, we are confident the energy of your Majesty's Councils; aided by the wisdom of Parliament; when joined by the loyalty and good sense of the great majority of your subjects, will soon effectually and rapidly subdue, we then most earnestly hope, that your Majesty may reap the fruit of your paternal cares, in long having the satisfaction, happiness, and enjoyment of reigning in the best affections of a loyal, free, and happy people.

The loyal Address of the Moderator and Members of the Presbytery of Alford.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE strongly feel it to be our duty, at the present time, to renew to your Majesty the assurance of our unshaken loyalty and attachment.

While, with deep concern but without dismay, we view the continued and industrious attempts of wicked men to spread among the people a desolating spirit of irreligion and disloyalty, we, at the same time, firmly trust that the united and hearty manifestations of deep abhorrence by the loyal and good, will, under Providence, speedily bring to shame those selfish and factious disturbers of the public tranquility, and restore their deluded followers to the duties and consolations of quiet and peaceable lives.

With pleasure we declare to your Majesty our belief, that the people under our charge, continue faithful to the sacred command "to fear the Lord and the King, and not to meddle with them that are given to change."

And we assure your Majesty, that it shall be our business to teach them sound religious principles, a conscientious obedience to the powers that be, and gratitude to Heaven for living in a country where the equal administration of the Laws, and your Majesty's mild and constitutional Government afford to all ample protection, and the exercise of the most extensive liberty, civil and religious, that was ever enjoyed by any people; that your Majesty, in the full possession of health and true happiness, may long reign over a free people, virtuous and warmly attached to their King and Constitution, are the heartfelt prayers of, may it please your Majesty, your Majesty's loyal and faithful subjects, the Moderator and Members of the Presbytery of Alford.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's very dutiful and loyal subjects, the Incorporation of Maltmen of Leith, beg leave humbly to approach your Majesty's Throne with assurances of our loyalty and most devoted attachment to your Majesty's Person and Government. We venerate the Constitution of this kingdom as by the law established, because it connects the honour of the Sovereign with the liberty and happiness of the subject.

We have seen with the utmost abhorrence, that endeavours have been made to bring into contempt our most sacred institutions, and to subvert the principles of that Constitution, which, under the Government of your Majesty's illustrious House, has raised Britain to be the envy and glory of the world.

Glorying in the name and privileges of Britons, we pledge ourselves, by every means in our power, to support your Majesty in suppressing all such seditious attempts, and in preserving unimpaired all our civil and religious institutions; and we earnestly pray that your Majesty may long sway the sceptre of these realms, and enjoy the affections and confidence of a free, a loyal and a happy people.

The loyal Address of the Reverend the Presbytery of Glasgow.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Ministers and Elders of the Presbytery of Glasgow, in Presbytery assembled, beg leave, at this moment of public solicitude, humbly to approach the Throne with renewed expressions of our profound respect for your Majesty's Person, and of sincere attachment to our excellent Constitution, in Church and State, under which we, in common with the rest of your Majesty's subjects, enjoy so many eminent blessings.

After the long experience we have had of the wisdom and firmness of your Majesty's Government, whereby a war unexampled in the history of man has been happily terminated, the peace of Europe secured, and this nation in particular raised to height of renown which has rendered her the bulwark of surrounding states, it fills us with surprise and indignation to find that there are any of your Majesty's subjects so perverse as wantonly to turn such services into a subject of obloquy, thereby blinding the ignorant to the true sources of their safety, and betraying them into measures which, if not speedily checked, must precipitate the nation into ruin; as the fatal instrument of this evil we deplore the licentiousness of the press, which so widely disseminates falsehood and blasphemy, tearing up all virtuous principle by the roots, and tending to obliterate all sense of religious and moral obligation, prepares men for the perpetration of every enormity.

In our sphere we will exert ourselves, as far as we shall be enabled, to warn the people among whom we minister against this insidious poison, but we look to the blessing of God in the firmness and energy of your Majesty's Government, as the most effectual means of counteracting and suppressing these alarming evils.

That your Majesty may be upheld and comforted amidst all the troubles which surround your Throne, that you may rise superior to every machination of wicked and unprincipled men, that you may see the present disorders happily settled in tranquility, and that your Majesty may long live to reign over a free, loyal and happy people, are the earnest prayers of, may it please your Majesty, your Majesty's most dutiful, most loyal and most obedient subjects, the Ministers and Elders of the Presbytery of Glasgow.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Noblemen, Gentry, Clergy and Freeholders of the County of Dublin, humbly beg to approach your Majesty with unfeigned expressions of loyalty and attachment.

When we see the most insidious-machinations resorted to for the purpose of deluding the unwary and seducing the ignorant from the duty which they owe to their King, their Country and their God, we feel that it would be a dereliction of that loyalty which we boast of, and a neglect of that Constitution which we venerate, if we did not come forward to avow our sentiments.

Deeply impressed with these feelings we think it an imperative duty upon us (thus convened by the High Sheriff of our County) humbly to offer to your Majesty the assurances of our most devoted loyalty and attachment, and of our solemn determination to support your illustrious Family upon the Throne of these realms, and to defend, by every effort in our power, that Constitution which has been the admiration of the world and the glory of your Majesty's dominions.

Richard Steele, High Sheriff County Dublin.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Nobility, Clergy and Gentry of the County of Donegal, assembled at a public meeting of the County regularly convened (unanimously,) beg leave to approach your Majesty with renewed assurances of fidelity to your Majesty and your Royal House, and of attachment to the glorious Constitution under which these nations have long continued to enjoy invaluable blessings.

Having lately, on the event of your Majesty's accession to the Throne, tendered to your Majesty the heartfelt expressions of our allegiance, we should not now deem it necessary to repeat them, did we not perceive that an active and malignant spirit has been assiduous to disseminate opinions and to inculcate principles, which, as faithful subjects, we feel it to be our bounden duty to reprobate and resist.

Convinced as we are that, under the civil and religious institutions of our country, the subjects of these realms may hope to enjoy as much of political freedom and social happiness as belongs to the condition of man; we cannot behold without the deepest alarm the exertions which for some time back have been unceasingly made, in a part of your Majesty's dominions, to sap the foundations of civil and religious obligation, to alienate the affections of the people from the Throne, and to bring contempt upon the constituted Authorities of the land.

In opposition then to the machinations which would work such evils, and to the delusions which they have unhappily effected, we feel ourselves irresistibly impelled to declare to your Majesty our unalterable determination to abide resolutely by those principles of sound religion and national liberty under which these nations have hitherto flourished; to exert all the means in our power to support the rights of the Throne, to defend the sanctity of the Altar, to maintain the authority of the Laws, and preserve inviolate the great bulwarks of our Constitution, in Church and State.

We trust that your Majesty will be graciously pleased to accept this tribute of our loyalty, at the same time we earnestly implore the Divine goodness to grant your Majesty a long and prosperous reign over a loyal and united people; enabling your Majesty, after the example of your venerable Parents, to combine throughout the just dignity of the Crown with the best interests of the people.

Signed, by order of the meeting, this 1st day of January 1821, James Stewart, Chairman.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, the Freeholders and Inhabitants of the County of Louth, legally convened by the High Sheriff, at Dundalk, on the 8th January 1821, beg leave to repeat to your Majesty our assurances of unabated loyalty and attachment to your Majesty, and humbly to express to your Majesty, that while we see with abhorrence the desperate attempts made in Great Britain to alienate the affections of the people from the Constitution, to bring into contempt the authorities and institutions by which our laws are administered and our liberties secured, and to destroy those moral and religious principles which form the sure foundation for social order in this world and happiness in the next, we have a just pride and satisfaction in believing, that your Majesty's subjects in Ireland have not suffered the contagion to spread among them, and we confidently trust that no similar attempt can be made with any hope of success.

But we are members of the same empire, Ireland is one with Britain, and Britain with Ireland, indissolubly connected, both must stand or fall together; the Constitution is our joint inheritance, if it is overthrown in Britain it must be lost in Ireland, and in whatever portion of either kingdom it may be attacked, it is the bounden duty of every loyal subject in each manfully to defend it.

Every feeling therefore of loyalty to the Throne, affection to our sister country, and regard to our own welfare, imperiously call upon us to lay before your Majesty our determined resolution to unite our utmost efforts, with those of all your Majesty's loyal subjects, in checking and overpowering that wicked spirit which now guides the frightful progress of treason and infidelity, and to assure your Majesty that we will most cordially and rigorously support your Majesty in preserving our glorious Constitution from all attempts to impair, injure or overthrow it.

It is and will be ever our fervent prayer that our most excellent Constitution, the work of ages and envy of the world, may be preserved to us under the mighty protection and guardian arm of Him, by whom Kings reign and empires rise and fall, and that your Majesty may long very long live in the hearts of your grateful subjects, the defender of their rights and the protector of their laws.

The dutiful and loyal Address of the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, Freeholders, and Inhabitants of the County of Westmeath, agreed to at a Meeting held at the Court-House, Mullingan, convened by the High Sheriff, pursuant to requisition made to him for that purpose, on Thursday the 4th day of January 1821.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, Freeholders, and Inhabitants of the County of Westmeath, beg leave to approach your Majesty with our renewed assurance of fidelity and allegiance. Having already tendered our dutiful homage to your Majesty, on the auspicious occasion of your Majesty's succession to the Throne of this empire, we should not again obtrude ourselves were it not that, at this critical period, a wild and revolutionary spirit, excited by the daring exertion of political incendiaries, and circulated through the medium of blasphemous and seditious publications, issuing daily from a press, licentious beyond all precedent, threatens treason towards your Majesty, and subversion to that Constitution under which individually, we have enjoyed such happiness, and nationally, we have attained such glory.

With painful anxiety we have observed the progress of that dangerous spirit in parts of Great Britain, fomented by insidious appeals to the most violent passions and prejudices, and encouraged by the most gross misrepresentations and calumnies, in order to bring into contempt all our most approved Institutions, established Authorities, and constituted Tribunals, which had so long distinguished this country as the best regulated and best administered State in the civilized world; and with a view of dissolving those ties which link together the several orders and classes of mankind which tend equally to private comfort and public welfare, and which, in truth, are absolutely necessary to the very existence of well ordered society.

Although this country has, in no degree, been corrupted by doctrines so dangerous and so disgraceful, yet, sensible as we are how intimately we must be affected by all that passes in the sister Island, we cannot remain passive spectators of a system which we deem equally injurious to all classes of your Majesty's subjects.

Under these impressions, we feel it our bounden duty to your Majesty, to our country, and to ourselves, to come forward, openly and manfully, and declare publicly, in the most explicit terms, an unshaken fidelity and inviolable allegiance to your Majesty, an unalterable attachment to our most glorious Constitution, and a most determined resolution to maintain and support it by every means and every exertion in our power.

Signed on behalf of the meeting, by

W. H. Magan, Sheriff.

The Address of the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, and Freeholders of the County of Mayo, assembled at the County Hall, Castlebar, on Wednesday 3d of January 1821.

WE, your Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects of the County of Mayo, here assembled, deeply sensible of the blessings which we, in common with our fellow subjects of this united kingdom, have enjoyed under the rule of the illustrious House of Brunswick, beg leave to approach your Throne with renewed assurances of fidelity to your Majesty's Person, and our unalterable attachment to the Constitution, which is the foundation of our Liberties and the general security of the Empire.

With deep regret we observe that the same system which, for the last thirty years, has been hostile to the freedom and happiness of mankind, and whose operations were suspended only by the victories that attended the British arms, by land and sea, under your Majesty's particular direction and authority, has again exhibited itself; and that the abettors of treason and blasphemy are systematically and daringly uniting their efforts to bring into contempt the Throne and every institution that has been handed down to us as venerable or holy. We are convinced that revolution in power and plunder of property are the objects at which those traitors aim, and that the best security for those objects of attack is to be found in a firm support of the dignity and constitutional privileges of the Crown. We pledge ourselves to oppose those wicked and treasonable machinations, and to use our best exertions to maintain the Government of the country, the laws, and all our sacred institutions.

That your Majesty may long reign the Head of a great and free people, and may ever experience from them the same support which enabled your illustrious and lamented Father to stem the torrent of domestic and foreign aggression, your most earnest and anxious prayer.

The unanimous Address of the Mayor, Sheriffs, Burgesses, and Commoners of the County of the Town of Drogheda, in Common Council specially assembled.

Most Gracious Majesty,

AT a time when attempts are made, by a base and desperate faction, to bring your sacred Person and the Monarchy into contempt, and to vilify and degrade the highest Court of Judicature known to our Constitution; we, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Mayor, Sheriffs, Burgesses, and Commons of the County of the Town of Drogheda, beg leave to renew to your Majesty our assurances of unfeigned attachment to your Royal Person and Government; and to express to your Majesty our firm determination to support, by every means in our power, our most invaluable Constitution.

We feel an honest pride in the conviction, that the tranquility of Ireland has continued undisturbed by similar enormities; and we pray that your Majesty may long and gloriously reign over a loyal and a free people.

In testimony whereof we have caused our common seal to be hereunto affixed, the 27th day of December, in the year of our Lord 1820.

The dutiful and loyal Address of the Nobility, Clergy, Gentry, and Freeholders of the County of Wexford, unanimously adopted at a Meeting convened by the High Sheriff, at the Sessions-House, Enniscorthy, on the 5th day of January 1821.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Noblemen, Clergy, Gentry, and Freeholders of the County of Wexford, beg leave to approach the Throne with the strongest assurances of our fidelity and attachment to your Majesty's Royal Person and Family, and to that free Constitution which has been so long the firm bulwark of our rights and liberties.

It is with the deepest concern we contemplate the circumstances which have for some time past occurred in the sister kingdom; when we behold the country inundated with treasonable and blasphemous publications, in which the Sovereign is vilified and insulted, the Laws of the land defied, the Legislature calumniated, the doctrines of Christianity derided and traduced; and when the instruments in this abominable agency derive increased audacity from the occasional infliction of punishment; we must necessarily infer the existence of an organized system for general destruction; and we feel at a loss for adequate terms to express our abhorrence and detestation.

We deeply regret the partial and temporary success of these guilty men over the minds of the weak, the ignorant, and the credulous, now the involuntary dupes, but soon the wretched victims of their mischievous designs. For the final result however we have too firm a reliance on the protection of Providence to entertain any apprehensions: assured of that protection we repose a perfect confidence in your Majesty's paternal care and in the wisdom and vigilance of the Legislature, convinced that all the attempts of treason or of atheism must end ere long in merited disappointment and disgrace.

In turning our eyes to our own country we reflect with gratitude and no little pride and self congratulation, that the poison of these pernicious doctrines has here found no admission; we appreciate too highly the blessings of our admirable Constitution to hazard them on guilty schemes or visionary speculations; and it shall be our endeavour, as it is our duty, to cherish in all around us the same principles of unshaken loyalty and attachment.

And we fervently implore the Almighty long to continue to us your Majesty's life and reign with which so many recollections of past glory, and so many anticipations of future prosperity are intimately associated.

The unanimous Address of the Nobility, Clergy, Gentry, and Freeholders of the County of Monaghan, agreed to at a Meeting convened by the High Sheriff, the 2d day of January 1821.

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Noblemen, Clergy, Gentry, and Freeholders of the County of Monaghan, legally assembled, beg leave to approach your Majesty with sentiments expressive of our unalterable attachment to the Constitution, in Church and State; as by law established, and our firm determination to support the same to the utmost of our power.

We regret that it should be necessary at this present moment to express these sentiments of attachment to your Majesty's sacred Person, and to the principles of our glorious Constitution; but when sentiments of a directly contrary nature have been recently broached and artfully disseminated; when the Throne and the Altar have been insulted and threatened; and every thing which we have been accustomed to consider as sacred and venerable in our Constitution, held up to public scorn and contempt; we feel that we should be doing injustice to ourselves, and to the cause we have so warily at heart, did we not publicly avow our abhorrence of such principles, and our firm and unalterable determination to rally round the Throne and the Constitution in the hour of danger.

That such danger does at present exist we cannot but feel deeply sensible of, from the many blasphemous and seditious publications which have been daily issuing from the press; but we entertain a confident hope that the good sense and sound loyalty of the great majority of the people of England will ultimately triumph over this momentary delusion and partial disaffection; and that all classes of your Majesty's subjects will feel and acknowledge the blessings which they enjoy under a free and happy Constitution, the pride of this empire, and the envy of the world.

Signed on behalf of the meeting,

Wm. Verners, Lieut.-Col., High Sheriff,

The dutiful and loyal Address of the Noblemen, Clergy, Gentry, and Freeholders of the County of Fermanagh, unanimously adopted at a Meeting convened by the High Sheriff at the Court-House of Enniskillen, on Monday the 8th day of January 1821.

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Noblemen, Clergy, Gentry, and Freeholders of the County of Fermanagh, feel ourselves imperatively called on, by the circumstances of the present time, with respect and veneration to approach the Throne, and to lay at your Majesty's feet the strongest assurances of our fidelity to your Majesty's Person and dignity, and our inalienable attachment to the principles and establishments of the Constitution.

We have not been accustomed to obtrude on the royal ear declarations of loyalty, which we trust has in this county never been questioned, but when we see the growth of disaffection under the mildness of your Majesty's Government, when we see many of our fellow subjects misled by factious demagogues and insane theorists to undervalue the Constitution under which the nation has risen to such eminence, when we find all that is respectable in station and sacred in character traduced by a licentious press, and insulted by a ferocious rabble, when we see the malevolent industry with which the sophisms of the infidel, and the ribaldry of the blasphemer has been circulated, and the insolent audacity with which the administration of equal laws has been assailed by the culprit, when we behold the freedom of legislative discussion thwarted by those who would substitute licentiousness for liberty, and revolution for government, we deem it a duty incumbent on every loyal subject to separate his name from the lists of sedition, and to make public avowal of his readiness to submit to the necessary restrictions of social order, and his zealous wish to support the religion of the gospel.

Confident, as we are, that those who entertain with us those well founded sentiments of loyalty to your Majesty's Government, and veneration for our existing establishments, comprise almost the whole of the respectable classes of the community. We trust that sedition will soon be brought to feel its importance, and delusion to discard its errors. But should our expectations unhappily meet disappointment, we pledge ourselves to your Majesty by every efficient means in our power to counteract the machinations of the malevolent, to resist the outrage of the seditious, and to give our best support to your Majesty's Government, founded as it is on those principles of just and constitutional liberty, which our ancestors endeared to us by their blood, and which we trust will be transmitted unimpaired to our posterity.

Wm. D'Arcy Irvine, High Sheriff.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful subjects, the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, and Freeholders of the County of Cavan, in County Court assembled, beg leave to approach your Majesty with sentiments of unshaken attachment, and to assure your Majesty of our firm determination to support to the utmost of our power the principles of our most happy and glorious Constitution, whilst we lament that a spirit of irreligion and insubordination should ever have been manifested in any parts of your Majesty's dominions; it affords us sincere gratification to be enabled to congratulate your Majesty, that no symptoms of one or the other have appeared in this country, and we beg leave to assure your Majesty, that we shall at all times be ready to rally round the Throne for the support and maintenance of the Constitution.

Faveham, Chairman.

The dutiful and loyal Address of the Gentlemen, Clergy, and Freeholders of the County of Sligo, unanimously agreed to at a Meeting convened on Monday the 1st January, at the Court-House, by the High Sheriff, pursuant to requisition.

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Gentlemen, Clergy, and Freeholders of the County of Sligo, conceive it to be our bounden duty, and that of every loyal body of your Majesty's subjects, to step forward at this conjuncture to renew our assurances of inviolable attachment to your Majesty's sacred Person and the inestimable Constitution under which we have the happiness to be governed. This duty we conceive to arise from the indefatigable exertions which continue to be made; more particularly in the sister country by the disaffected, both by themselves and through the agency of a profligate press, to extirpate all veneration for Religion, for our Legislature, our Laws, and all our constituted Authorities, thereby hoping to destroy all the sources of British freedom, prosperity and power, and to throw this mighty empire into a state of anarchy and confusion.

We feel, Sire, that in order to avert the calamities which are impending from this torrent of impiety and sedition, when every thing that is moral is attempted to be ridiculed, and every thing venerable to be vilified, that it is high time to rally round the Throne and declare our determination to assist, as far as in us lies, in guarding the Christian Religion and the Laws of our country from the machinations of their inveterate enemies.

In common times and under natural occurrences, we should deem a declaration of our sentiments and feelings superfluous, but when we see every endeavour made by the abandoned to pervert, inflame, and mislead the great body of the people, there is a necessity for an antidote which we apprehend can in no way be administered with more effect than by a zealous resolution of the loyal and well-informed publicly to resist and expose the arts of the seditious, and thereby undeceive the ignorant and unwary, who must otherwise be led astray to their own ruin and to the great hazard of the empire.

Signed by order and in behalf of the meeting,

William Parke, High Sheriff County of Sligo,

[Transmitted by His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's dutiful subjects, the Provoost, Burgesses, and Freemen of the Borough of Sligo, have this day assembled to address your Majesty and to tender our services in the present most critical situation of the empire.

When wicked and designing men are labouring to overthrow every thing dear to a free people, when they have seduced from their allegiance numbers of your Majesty's subjects who, untaught by the horrors which have recently occurred upon the continent, and unappalled by the slaughter of millions, and the destruction of every valuable institution, are rushing madly into revolutionary schemes.

When we see the press (the pride of Britons) prostituted to the vilest purposes, insulting your Majesty, blaspheming our Holy Religion, reviling our Laws, and defaming our Judges, we feel it high time to approach the Throne and to express our devoted attachment to our King and Constitution.

We humbly entreat your Majesty to exert those powers with which you are invested, and by the most prompt and energetic measures to save us from the visionary plans of infatuated men, and to secure to us our inestimable form of Government, and we sincerely trust that the spirit of loyalty which now bursts forth from every part of the empire will enable your Majesty to preserve it unimpaired to us and our posterity. W. C. Armstrong, Provost.

[Transmitted by His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful subjects, the Inhabitants of the Town and precincts of Sligo, at the present crisis of alarm and difficulty, when all loyal men are imperiously called upon to avow their principles, beg leave humbly to approach your Majesty with expressions of our steady and unfeigned attachment to the person of your Majesty, and of our devoted zeal in support and defence of that happy and free Constitution which the whole tenor of your Majesty's political life has evinced your anxious wish and pre-eminent capacity to maintain in all its glory.

We have viewed with sincere sorrow the flagitious attempts of a party of revolutionary projectors, who have availed themselves of the mild and gentle character of your Majesty's principles and Government to propagate amongst your generous and honest people of England, by the most systematic and insidious plans, a spirit of disaffection and sedition.

It is with grief that we are obliged to confess, that we greatly fear the artifices of disloyalty have been but too successful in seducing numbers of your Majesty's subjects from their duty, and that, under the influence of this fatal delusion, their understandings have been so perverted that they can only see with the eyes, and hear with the ears, and speak with the tongues of their crafty instructors, whose object has been to obliterate from their minds all distinction between right and wrong, and all ideas of religion and virtue.

In this posture of public affairs we beg leave most humbly to suggest, that in our judgment the most prompt and vigorous measures ought to be adopted in order to crush at once a system which threatens to lay prostrate not only the just rights of the Crown, but also the genuine and legitimate privileges of the people; and we beg leave with all humility to tender to your Majesty our dutiful services, should they be required, to co-operate with all your other loyal and faithful subjects in accomplishing so desirable a purpose; and we assure your Majesty, that we shall esteem no sacrifice too great to prove our attachment to an happy Constitution, and an affectionate loyalty to the person of your Majesty.

And it shall be our constant prayer to the Almighty Disposer of all human events, that your Majesty's great political talents and experience, aided by the counsels of your wise and able Ministers, may enable your Majesty to triumph over all your enemies, and to add another brilliant ray to that glory which you have already acquired in subduing an upstart tyrant, at a moment when most of the States of Europe lay prostrate at his feet.

Signed on behalf of the Inhabitants,

Wm. C. Armstrong, Provost.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, the undersigned Magistrates and other Inhabitants of the Hundred of Risbridge, in the County of Suffolk, beg to offer to your Majesty the assurance of our dutiful and zealous attachment to your Majesty's sacred Office and Person. We feel ourselves called upon, at this perilous time, to state, that we view with regret and abhorrence, measures brought forward, and sentiments declared, the tendency of which evidently is to inflame the passions of the unwary and unenlightened part of our fellow countrymen, mislead their judgment, and thus to aggravate the difficulties with which we are now contending. We trust with unshaken confidence to the laws of our inestimable Constitution for the protection of our Altars and the Throne; and we hope, under Divine Providence, your Majesty may long continue to enjoy a prosperous and happy reign over a free and loyal people.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

IN these critical and eventful times, when silence may be construed into an approval of those blasphemous and seditious publications which endanger the safety of the Constitution, and which have disgraced a free press, and outraged both Divine and human laws; we, the undersigned, your Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, the Magistrates, Gentry, Clergy, Freeholders and Inhabitants of the Hundred of Cosford, in the County of Suffolk, feel ourselves especially called upon to approach the Throne, with our unfeigned professions of attachment to your Majesty's Person, and to declare our firm determination to support the Laws and Constitution by every means in our power, that we may bequeath them unimpaired to our posterity.

We fully rely on your Majesty's paternal solicitude for the welfare of all classes of your subjects, to recommend to your Ministers, in the approaching sessions of Parliament, to take into their most serious consideration the peculiar difficulties under which we now labour, and to devise such measures for our relief as will tend to secure the peace and prosperity of the British empire.

It will be our sincere and constant prayer, to the Supreme Disposer of all human events, that your Majesty may long reign over a free, prosperous, and united people.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Mayor, Recorder, Capital Burgesses, Freemen and Inhabitants of the Borough of Lyme Regis, in the County of Dorset, beg leave to approach the Throne humbly to express our loyal attachment to your Royal Person and Government.

We feel ourselves imperiously called upon, at this momentous crisis, to convince your Majesty of our abhorrence and detestation of that unprincipled spirit which is so universally excited, in order to degrade and contemn the most sacred ordinances, to set the laws of our country at defiance, and to seduce the timid and unwary from their allegiance to their Sovereign.

In order to disseminate these baneful principles, it is with the deepest regret that we confess that the press, which we have been accustomed to appreciate as one of those invaluable privileges attached to our happy Constitution, has betrayed its confidence, and become the channel for promoting and disseminating those licentious fallacies which, if not timely checked, will overwhelm our happy Island with anarchy, and profane our sacred Altars with impiety and irreligion.

With a perfect confidence on the wisdom of your Majesty's Government, and on the uprightness and integrity of our Courts of Judicature, we humbly beg leave to assure your Majesty of our unalterable determination to support, with our lives and fortunes, the constituted Authorities of this kingdom against every traitorous and disloyal attempt to endanger her security both in Church and State.

That your Majesty's benignant reign may, by the blessing of Providence, be prolonged with happiness and prosperity, and that all your future days may be full of joy and gladness we shall ever pray.

Carlton-House, January 27, 1821.

THIS day the following Address from the City of Dublin, was presented to His Majesty on the Throne, by the following Gentlemen as a Deputation from that City, the Lord Mayor, the Recorder, the High Sheriff, the City Representatives, Alderman Shaw and Mr. Ellis; Aldermen Darley, Archer, Cash, Bloxham, James, Abbott and Nugent; Sheriffs Peers, Messrs. Fox, Dixon and Archer; Members of the Common Council, Messrs. Twycross, Foster and Hone; from the Guild of Merchants, Sir Francis Hassard, and Messrs. G. Nugent and Isaac Willis; attended by numerous Freemen of the City:

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty:

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Lord Mayor, Sheriffs Commons and Citizens of the City of Dublin, feel ourselves called upon at this momentous crisis to approach your Majesty's Throne, with the renewed homage of our most affectionate and devoted attachment to your Majesty's Person and Government.

Permit us to assure your Majesty that we have observed with indignation and horror the efforts which have recently been made, upon the basest and most unworthy pretences to alienate the affections of your Majesty's faithful people; for the accomplishment of that atrocious purpose, we have been afflicted to see infidelity called in aid of disaffection, and doctrines audaciously promulgated through their united influence, which if they could be successful in their object would extinguish our best hopes of happiness, both as christians and as subjects, and overwhelm in one common ruin our religion, our liberties and our laws.

But it is impossible that a thinking, a moral and a grateful people, can be the dupes of such desperate artifices; the machinations of the wicked may create a partial and a momentary delusion, but the voice of truth and reason will assuredly be heard, and must prevail; enjoying under your Majesty's paternal protection the most perfect system of Government, which the world has yet beheld, we should be strangely lost to all recollection of its blessings, if we did not resolve (as we firmly do), to uphold it against the infidel and the traitor, with all the energies of our nature, and at the utmost peril of our lives.

Such, Sire, are the sincere sentiments of your Majesty's loyal and devoted Corporation of Dublin, sentiments, which we are confident we entertain in common with the reflecting and the good, in all the classes of your Majesty's subjects, through every part of the united kingdom.

That through the bounteous dispensation of Providence, your Majesty may enjoy a lengthened and a prosperous reign, experiencing in the tranquility of your realms and the happiness of your people, those delightful feelings which such contemplations must excite, and which we know to be the most grateful to your Majesty's heart, is the fervent prayer of your Majesty's unalterably attached and faithful subjects, the Lord Mayor, Sheriffs, Commons and Citizens of the City of Dublin.

In testimony whereof the common seal of said City, is hereunto affixed.

Abraham Bradley King, Lord Mayor.

George Whiteford and Nicholas William Brady, Sheriffs.

To which Address His Majesty was pleased to return the following most gracious answer:

"It is peculiarly gratifying to me thus to receive from you such a testimony of your affectionate and unshaken attachment to my Person and Government.

"I have the most entire confidence in that spirit of genuine loyalty, which animates the great body of my subjects in Ireland, and I am perfectly convinced that there is no part of the United Kingdom, in which that spirit is more predominant, than in my faithful City of Dublin.

"When the Crown is insulted or endangered, I well know that you will ever be forward to defend it, fully conscious that the legitimate prerogatives of the Sovereign, are inseparably united with the liberties of the people, and that they must stand or fall together.

"It will be the unceasing endeavour of my life, so to administer the sacred trust of which I have the charge, as to fulfil the great and important purposes for which it is held, and I have the firmest reliance on your cordial co-operation and zealous support, in those exertions which may be necessary to frustrate the designs and efforts of infidelity, sedition and treason, and to maintain the British empire, in the high station which it possesses amongst the nations of the world.

“My loyal City of Dublin, may be assured of my constant favour and protection, and of the ardent solicitude which I shall ever feel for its welfare and prosperity.”

The Deputation was most graciously received, and had the honour to kiss His Majesty's hand.

Carlton-House, January 27, 1821.

THIS day the following Address was presented to His Majesty on the Throne by the Lord Bishop of London, attended by the Dean of St. Paul's; the Archdeacons of the Diocese; the Hon. and Rev. Dr. Wellesley, Canon of St. Paul's; the President of Sion College; the Deans of Canterbury and Carlisle; and about One Hundred other Clergy of the Cities of London and Westminster.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Bishop of London, the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's, and the Clergy of the Cities of London and Westminster, most humbly desire permission to lay at your Majesty's feet the expression of our devoted attachment to your Majesty's Person, and to the Constitution of this kingdom, in Church and State.

We have long observed with anxiety the progressive dissemination of opinions, which tend to create a restless desire of change, and to disturb the foundations of civil society, by the introduction of principles, which, when brought to the test of experience, have always been found incompatible with order, with peace and with liberty, with the prosperity of political communities and the welfare of private life. Our apprehensions are now unhappily verified, by the use which is made of these vain and delusive speculations, in misleading the understandings of the ignorant, inflaming the passions most adverse to public tranquillity, and dissolving the salutary restraints which, in christian countries, religion, morals and manners have imposed on the conduct of mankind.

In the mode of pursuing these objects we discern indications of a settled design to poison the minds of the people, by falsehood and calumny, to withdraw their respect from whatever is venerable in station and character, and to alienate their affections from those institutions and laws which are justly revered as the noblest monuments of the wisdom and virtue of our ancestors; in this light we regard the numerous insults which have been deliberately and publicly offered to the highest Authorities of the State, the Tribunals of Justice and the national Religion. Nor can we suppress our indignation in beholding the flagrant and daily misuse of the press, which, under the direction of honour and truth, is the faithful ally of virtuous principle and rational liberty, but has lately been made, by a monstrous perversion, the degraded and licentious instrument of slander, sedition and blasphemy.

Under these circumstances we deem it our duty to offer thus publicly to your Majesty our faithful profession of unshaken adherence to the maxims of ancient loyalty. And standing in the double capacity of Citizens concerned in the general safety, and of Ministers responsible for the due execution of a high spiritual charge, we humbly assure your Majesty, that, while in common with our fellow subjects, we do all in our power to preserve the Constitution from injury and uphold the authority of the Laws, it will be our more peculiar object, by the zealous discharge of our professional duties to counteract and defeat the insidious practices of unprincipled and impious men, and to promote with our utmost ability, belief in the doctrines and obedience to the precepts of our pure and Apostolic Faith.

To which Address His Majesty was pleased to return the following most gracious answer:

“I receive, with the greatest satisfaction, this loyal and dutiful Address.”

“You have expressed, in a manner highly becoming your station and character, the feelings with which you are impressed, by the attempts so continually and perseveringly made to vilify our Holy Religion, to bring into contempt the established Authorities and Institutions of the State, and to shake the foundation of all civil society. These feelings cannot but be aggravated by the reflexion, that the means provided by our wise and virtuous ancestors, for the preservation of our laws and liberties, are now sedulously perverted into instruments for their destruction.

“I am fully convinced that no efforts will be wanting on your part to counteract designs so formidable and flagitious, and that by instruction and example, you will unceasingly encourage and promote that respect for lawful Authority which our religion enjoins, and that firm attachment to the Constitution, in Church and State, which is essential to the security and happiness of individuals, and to our welfare and prosperity as a nation.”

The principal Clergy had the honour of being presented to His Majesty by the Bishop of London, and were most graciously received, and kissed His Majesty's hand.

Commission signed by the Lord Lieutenant of the County of Northumberland.

Robert Ogle, Esq. to be Deputy Lieutenant.
Dated 29th December 1820.

Commission in the Derbyshire Regiment of Yeomanry Cavalry, signed by the Lord Lieutenant of the County of Derby.

Thomas Haden, Gent. to be Surgeon, vice Hancock, resigned. Dated 19th January 1821.

WHEREAS by an Act of Parliament, passed in the forty-third year of the reign of His late Majesty, intituled "An Act for permitting certain goods imported into Great Britain to be secured in warehouses without payment of duty," it is, amongst other things, enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the importer or importers, proprietor or proprietors, consignee or consignees, of any of the goods, wares, or merchandise, enumerated or described in the table thereunto annexed, marked (E), and which shall have been legally imported or brought into the port of London, to lodge and secure in a warehouse or warehouses to be provided for that purpose, any such goods, wares, or merchandise, under the joint locks of the crown and the merchant, without payment at the time of the first entry of the duties of customs due on the importation thereof: and it is by the said recited Act further enacted, that if the Lord High Treasurer, or the Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury for the time being, or any three or more of them shall deem it expedient, that the provisions of the said Act should be extended to any goods, wares, and merchandise, not enumerated or described in either of the tables annexed thereto, and should cause a list of such goods, wares, and merchandises, to be published in the London Gazette, then and from thenceforth, all and every the provisions, regulations, and restrictions, of the said Act, shall extend to such goods, wares, and merchandise, in every respect in as full and ample a manner as if the same had been inserted and enumerated in the said tables respectively, at the time of passing the said Act:

We, the undersigned, Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, pursuant to and in execution of the powers vested in us, in and by the said Act, do hereby declare, that it appears to us expedient that the provisions of the said Act should be extended to the article of legally imported or brought into the port of London (not being imported by the United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies); and that such ground madder should be added to the list of goods, wares, and merchandise enumerated and described in the table annexed to the said recited Act, marked (E), and that such ground madder should be lodged and secured at or in such warehouse or warehouses, under the regulations and directions of the said Act: and we do further declare, that from and after the publication of this our certificate in the London Gazette, conformable to the directions of the said Act, all and every the provisions, regulations, and restrictions of the said Act shall extend, and be construed to extend, to all such ground madder in every respect in as full and ample a manner as if the same had been inserted and enumerated in the table annexed to the said Act, marked (E), at the time of the passing of the same Act.

Given under our hands at the Treasury Chambers, Whitehall, this 21st day of December 1820,
