SATURDAY, MARCH 10, 1821.

Lord Chamberlain's-Office, March 9, 1821.

NOTICE is hereby given, that His Majesty will hold a Levee at Carlton-House, on Wednesday the 21st instant, at two o'clock.

Lord Chamberlain's-Office, February 26, 1821.

NOTICE is hereby given, that His Majesty will hold a Drawing-Room at Buckingham-Palace, on Thursday the 22d of March next, at two o'clock.

THE following Addresses, having been transmitted to Viscount Sidmouth, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, by the several persons whose names are respectively subjoined to each Address, were presented by His Lordship to His Majesty, who was pleased to receive the same very graciously:

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the undersigned Nobility, Clergy, and Freeholders of the County of Wilts, beg leave to approach the Throne with renewed assurances of our ardent and unabated attachment to your Majesty's sacred person, as well as to that glorious constitution, of which your Majesty has ever shewn yourself the faithful guardian and protector.

Alarmed, but not dismayed, at the present disturbed state of our country, we have viewed with grief and abhorrence, the wicked industry of factious agitators, aided by a corrupt and licentious press, to subvert all religion and order, and to destroy the very foundations of civil society.

Against such nefarious attempts, we pledge ourselves to exert our most vigorous and unceasing endeavours, and to promote that loyalty to our Sovereign, and that willing obedience to the laws, which have hitherto been the peculiar boast and protection of our country.

That your Majesty may long reign over us, the beloved Father of a great and loyal nation, is our fervent prayer.

To His Most Excellent Majesty KING GEORGE the Fourth.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, the undersigned Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, Freeholders, and other Inhabitants of the County of Gloucester, beg most humbly to assure your Majesty of our unalterable devotion and attachment to your Majesty's royal person and government; and we feel more particularly called upon to make this declaration at the present period, when the kingdom has been agitated, and our glorious and invaluable constitution threatened with destruction, by the machinations of evil disposed persons: We observe with indignation the attempts that are making to mislead the unwary, and to alienate the affections of your Majesty's subjects; and we cannot but view with the utmost alarm, the freedom of the press perverted from its legitimate objects, employed to undermine those principles which it ought to defend, and exerted in propagating the most false and seditious libels against your Majesty's Government and throne.

We are aware of the fatal consequences which must flow from a passive acquiescence in these dangerous proceedings; but we feel assured that, in spite of the efforts of the disaffected, the great mass of the nation remains sound and untainted.

Upon these grounds we consider it our duty to stand forward at the present moment, to declare our inviolable attachment to your Majesty, and our firm determination to support the constitution under which we have the happiness to live.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

SIRE,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects; the Noblemen, Clergy, Gentry and Freeholders of the King's County, beg leave to approach the Throne with assurances of our warm attachment to your Majesty's sacred Person; and of our steady and devoted loyalty to that excellent Constitution, of which your Royal Authority forms so essential, and so valuable a part. If in some portions of the Empire, a spirit of disaffection has appeared, calculated to rouse those predominant loyal feelings, which must put it down, We are, however, proud to hope, that the sentiments which we presume to tender to your Majesty's acceptance, are no more than a specimen of dispositions very generally diffused: and with which it will be found that the great body of your Irish people are pervaded.

But we cannot deny ourselves the honour of standing early in the list of those, who are declaring their readiness to redeem at all times, and with alacrity, the pledge which their oath of allegiance and fealty has given.

Gratitude to the pious memory of our late venerated Monarch, the Father, not only of our King, but of our country, is a sentiment, of which loyalty is the natural fruit and produce; a loyalty, to which that son and successor is well entitled, whose ambition is to tread in the steps of his royal sire; and during the few years of whose auspicious sway, so many laurels have been added to those which already crowned his people. But independently of these sufficiently powerful incentives, well fitted, we presume to say, to influence an Irish mind, we feel, and we acknowledge, that we are guarding our own liberties, and defending our best rights, when we devote our efforts to maintaining the security of the throne.

Those efforts, it is the unquestionable right of your Majesty to command; while a prompt and spirited obedience to that call, we not only admit to be our bounden duty, but are proud to claim and assert it, as our right.

If your Majesty should graciously hold that the affectionate attachment of your liege subjects is deserving of return, we presume to suggest that the means of requital are within your royal power; and that you have only, whenever emergencies arise, to rely confidently on the courage and fidelity of your people.

Yet far be it from us to insinuate that even this is not a very subordinate resource: Your Majesty will look, as your royal father ever did, to that Divine Protection, which alone can be effectual towards prospering your reign, and blessing the loyal efforts of your faithful people.

It is indeed a matter for serious and profound reflection, that those would not spare the altar who assailed the throne; and that in struggling to preserve our Constitution unimpaired, we might be performing a still higher and more sacred duty: we might be combating to maintain the blessings of our Christian Faith.

Signed, on behalf of the Meeting,

F. E. Moony, Sheriff.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble and dutiful Address of the Bishop, Dean and Chapter, and Clergy of the Diocese of Dromore.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Bishop, Dean, and Chapter, and Clergy of the Diocese of Dromore, beg leave to approach your Majesty's Throne with the assurance of our firm and indissoluble attachment to your Majesty's sacred Person and Government, and to the principles of that happy Constitution, in Church and State, which is the admiration of the world, the most valuable earthly inheritance as well of your Majesty as of your subjects, and the imperishable basis on which the Throne of the Monarch, and the rights and privileges of the people of these realms are securely founded.

To transmit this Constitution, in essence and in operation, unimpaired to your Successors and their subjects, will, we trust, constitute the glory and the felicity of your Majesty's reign.

And although in these momentous times, some wild and perverse spirits have licentiously abused the free institutions of the country, and have insidiously seduced from their faith and allegiance divers of your Majesty's subjects, "speaking lies in hypocrisy, having their conscience seared with a hot iron;" yet confiding in the protection of that Almighty and beneficent Being, "by whom King's reign and Princes decree justice," we entertain little apprehension for the result.

Assured that "the Lord disappointeth the devices of the crafty, so that their hands cannot perform their enterprise," an invincible host of the loyal and well-disposed will always be prepared to rally round the Throne and the Altar, defending our inestimable Constitution from every assault, and preserving it to distant generations, as the sanctuary of a pure, sound, apostolical faith, and of a rational, practicable and well defined liberty.

In this diocese we would fondly hope that the poisonous seeds of infidelity and treason have been scattered to little purpose, and we beg humbly to assure your Majesty that our assiduous exertions shall be used individually and collectively to keep the vineyard intrusted to our care from the pollutions of the disaffected and profane.

In our professional labours hitherto we humbly presume to represent to your Majesty the aid we have derived, in the establishment of parochial schools and catechetical lectures and examinations, from the association incorporated for discountenancing vice, and promoting the knowledge and practice of the Christian religion. An institution to which the attention and liberality of your Majesty's Government has been already directed, and which we doubt not it will continue to merit and receive.

That your Gracious Majesty may be preserved and defended from all dangers, spiritual and temporal, and that your reign may be long, prosperous and peaceful, is our fervent wish and devout prayer.

Signed, in the name and by the desire of the Dean and Chapter and the Clergy of the Diocese of Dromore.

James, Dromore.

Unto the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, the undersigned Justices of the Peace, Clergy, Heritors, Burgesses and other Inhabitants of the Town of Montrose and Neighbourhood, beg leave to offer to your Majesty the assurances of our inviolable fidelity to the Throne, of our determination to support the Authorities of the land, and of our attachment to that religion, which gave the Crown to your Majesty's House, and upholds the blessings of our happy Constitution.

An expression of loyalty might in ordinary cases be deemed unnecessary, but extraordinary circumstances demand corresponding measures: we have seen persons who by taking advantage of a temporary distress in the country, and by flattering the prejudices of the people, have endeavoured under the specious pretext of reform, to destroy the authority of the Crown, shake the allegiance of the subject, and subvert institutions the most venerable and sacred; we have seen with regret, the press, that valuable prerogative of Britons, converted by insidious and designing men to the most dangerous purposes; and therefore, while we avow our attachment to your Majesty's Person and Government, we wish by so doing to prevent a part of your Majesty's subjects in this quarter of the kingdom, from being charged as countenancing those principles and measures by which the Crown has been assailed, the Church profaned and the Constitution endangered. And we wish to express our approbation of that system of policy, which has raised our country to a height of glory unprecedented in former times, and which has tended to dispense the means of comfort to every part of the community.

Deeply sensible of the advantages which we possess as a nation, and of the blessings which we enjoy as individuals, our sincere and fervent wish is, that your Majesty may long continue to reign over a people, happy because they are free, and loyal because they are enlightened.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Portreeve, Gentry, Clergy, Freeholders, and Inhabitants of the Town and Parish of Ashburton, and the vicinity, whose names are undersigned, venture to approach the Throne at this important crisis, with the assurance of our unalterable attachment to your Majesty's sacred person and authority, and of our zealous determination to uphold and maintain the glorious constitution of the country, in church and state.

That your Majesty may long reign, in the full enjoyment of health and of the choicest blessings of Heaven, over a loyal, happy, and grateful people, is the fervent prayer of, Sir, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

An Address from the Hundred of Hoxne, in the County of Suffolk.

WE, the undersigned Magistrates, Clergy, Gentry, and Inhabitants of the Hundred of Hoxne, in the County of Suffolk, beg leave to approach your Majesty with the fullest assurance of attachment and loyalty to your royal person and government. We should not have presumed to approach the Throne with the expression of this our duty, but that we perceive with regret and abhorrence the many attempts of evil-minded persons to mislead the unwary and to seduce the ignorant. Although, as an agricultural district, we are at this time suffering under peculiar distress, we nevertheless look forward with confidence to the exertions of your Majesty's government on our behalf, and we beg leave to declare that we are determined at all times, and under every difficulty to support, to the best of our ability, that unrivalled constitution in church and state, upon which the liberties, the happiness, and welfare of this nation so essentially depend.— That your Majesty may long reign over us, in the enjoyment of health and every other blessing, is the earnest prayer of your Majesty's most dutiful subjects.
