Venna, Nov. 8. The Letters from Hungary give an account, That the Turkish Troops are gone into Winter-Quarters, and that the preparations they are making against Spring are very great; That Count Teckelej was Encamped with about 3000 Men near Ajoh, not having quitted the Berg-Towns, as was reported; and that the Imperial Army continued in its Camp on the Waag, where it was thought they would not remain much longer, for that the ill Weather would oblige them to go into Winter-Quarters. Count Teckelej's Deputies here go on with their Negotiation, and while this lasts (though few believe it will have any effect), the Cessation of Hostilities will continue. The said Deputies, upon their first arrival here, promised the restitution of the Berg-Towns, but now they declare, That the Port will not suffice Count Teckelej to quit them. This being the State of things, the Emperor is resolved to provide for War, and to enable him to make the preparations necessary. A Tax will be raised throughout his Hereditary Countreys, of one per Cent. that is, every person who is worth 100 Pounds must pay one, and so proportionable. The Count de Adamant parted hence, some days since, for Italy.

Cologne, Nov. 16. The ninth Instant arrived here the Bishop of Strasbourg, who was received with all imaginable respect: After some days stay here, he and the French Envoy, the Sieur Tambonneau, intend to go for Liege, to accommodate the affairs of that City. The said French Minister is at present at Coblentz, whither he went some days since upon an Express he received from Paris, to confer with the Elector of Trier. Our Letters from Frankfort give us hopes that the Treaty will be continued there after the expiration of the Term set by the French Ambassadors in their late Declaration.

Hamburg, Nov. 17. About the beginning of this Month 400 Brandenburg Soldiers Embarked on several small Frigats at Gluckstadt, which upon after Sailed from thence, various conjectures being made concerning the Enterprize they had in hand, but none of them promising any thing for we have Advice, That they have Landed in East-Friseland, and have possessed themselves of a place called Greenzail, which is lookt upon here as an action that may have great consequences, because of the jealousy it may give to the United Provinces, the Dukes of Lunenburgh, and others. There seems of late to have been no very good understanding between the Elector of Brandenburg and the said Dukes of Lunenburgh, and it was some days since reported that their Troops on both sides were in motion; and particularly that 2000 Brandenburgs were marched towards Mucklenburgh, to hinder, as was said; any foreign Troops from taking Winter-Quarters there, but it's hoped things will not come to extremities between these Princes, and that the differences between them will be amicably composed.

Brussels, Nov. 17. His Excellency is making what provision he can for the security of these Provinces, and has commanded all Officers to be at their respective Commands on the 20th Instant, on pain of being put out of them; and because Luxemburg seems most exposed his Excellency has not only resolved to increase that Garrison, as we said in our last, but has ordered three Serjeants Generals of Batalia, to go thither, that so in case of a Siege there may not want General Officers. The Troops are now receiving a Month's Pay, which is the fifth Payment into his Excellencies coming to this Government.

Hague, Nov. 17. Our Letters from Flanders inform us, That Monsieur del Val, whom the Marquis de Grana lately sent to the French Court, has not been able to obtain a prolongation of the Term, and that people are therefore in great trouble.

ble an anxiety in Flanders, fearing the Invasions of the French Troops. The States of Holland have been compleatly assembled since the 17th Instant; and have, it is said, several important matters before them. From Hamburg they write, That there are some differences between the Elector of Brandenburg and the Princes of Lunenbourg; and that they fear the Consequences of the Proceeding of the Danes in Holstein. The 14th, being the Prince of Orange's Birth-day, when he entered into his 33 year, his Highness was complimented by the Deputies of the several Colleges of the State, by the Foreign Ministers, &c. and in the Evening their Highnesses were entertained by the Heer Odyke with a Ball and very noble Collation.

Hague, Nov. 10. The Sieur Dieft, Envoy Extraordinary from the Elector of Brandenburg, has presented a Memorial to the States-General, on the occasion of his Electoral Highness's possessing himself of Greuzell, in East-Friesland, which is to this effect. That the said Envoy had received Orders from his Electoral Highness to represent to the States, That his Electoral Highness had for some time past taken notice that there were ill affected Persons, who to advance their particular designs, had endeavoured to render all the actions of his Electoral Highness odious and suspected to the States; but that his Electoral Highness did assure himself that when they impartially consider the Affection and Friendship which his Electoral Highness manifested to this State during the last War, and that he hath since entered into a new and strict Alliance with them, and freely delivered up to them Schenckians, they will not be able to receive any ill Impressions concerning his proceedings; and His Electoral Highness does assure the States that he will faithfully maintain and cultivate the good Neighbourhood and Friendship that has been for so many years between them, and Religiously observe the said Alliance. And because the said ill affected Persons may endeavour to give the States an Ombrage of the few Men his Electoral Highness has caused to Land in East-Friesland, he does declare to them, That what he has done, he will do in that matter, is in pursuance of the Imperial Conservatorium, by which the Protection of the said Country, and the States and Inhabitants thereof, is committed to his Electoral Highness, the Bishop of Munster, and the Duke of Neuburg together, and in each in particular; That his Electoral Highness sent some time since, an Envoy to offer his Mediation, as well to the Princes as to the States of East-Friesland in order to an amicable composition of the differences depending between them, but that she declined it; And is being notorious that there are dangerous designs to burden the Country with Quarters for Foreign Troops, his Electoral Highness was obliged, by the Duty of his Conservatorship, to send some Men thither, as a safeguard to protect the said Country and the States thereof, and that by Water, because of the inconvenience of passing at this time by Land. And his Electoral Highness does assure the States that the same is not intended to any bodies Prejudice, much less to the damage of the States, or any other Neighbour, the smallness of the number of Men making it plain that no dangerous or prejudicial design lies hid under it. That his Electoral Highness has communicated this affair to the other Conservators, and will farther do so; and that he intends, so soon as he is secured of his aim, which is to preserve Peace in East-Friesland, and to protect the States and Inhabitants thereof against Foreign Ruin and Force, always to follow the farther direction and Orders of the Emperor. The Elector of Brandenburg has likewise written a Letter to the States-General on this Subject, which, as well as the said Memorial, are put into the hands of the Deputies for foreign Affairs.

Paris, Novemb. 17. Our last Letters from Paris told us, That the Pope appeared as much dissatisfied as ever, with this Court; and that he had resolved to name some Person, that is already in this Kingdom, for the performing the Compliment of giving the Duke of Burgundy the Bless'd Clout, which done, his Commission should end, so that the hopes many had that the Popes sending a Nuncio hither, would offer a favourable occasion for the begetting a better understanding of things, than there is at present between the two Courts, are disappointed. Great preparations are making for the entertainment of the Court at Versailles, where it will remain all the Winter. It is said that the Dauphin is again with Child, which occasions great Joy at Court.
