Constantinople, Sept. 20.

THe Grand Signior will part from hence with his whole Court, the beginning of the next Month; for Adrianople, where he will not however arrive himself till the end of January; he intending to pass three or four Months in Hunting, during which time the Grand Vizier will go to Belgrade, to give the necessary Orders for the carrying on the War, which is certainly resolved here, and for that purpose the Osoman Troops are drawing together from the remotest parts of this Empire, being appointed, as we are told, to Rendezvous at Greicks-Weissenbourg. The Grand Vizier, having ordered matters at Belgrade, intends to return, and to meet the Grand Signior at his arrival at Adrianople.

Dantzick, Nov. 11. Our Polish Letters inform us, That that King had Issued his Circular Letters for the summoning a Dyet to meet at Warsaw the latter end of January, to consult concerning the Provision that is necessary to be made in this conjuncture for the Defence and Security of the Kingdom; they likewise tell us, That an Alliance is treating, and some say concluded, between the Emperor and the Crown of Poland, but this is not written with that certainty but that we may doubt the truth of it. The Polish Court was, when these Letters were written, at Stry, on the Frontier of Hungary. The Advices from Moscow have been of late very uncertain; the last we received said, That the two Czars did hitherto agree very well, and that things were at present very quiet, but that many apprehended they would not continue so.

Vienna, Nov. 19. Count Teckley's Deputies had two days since a very long Conference with Chancellor Hocker; and it's reported that they will very speedily part hence with the Emperor's final Resolutions and Offers to Count Teckley, in order to a Peace, which have been likewise communicated to the Count de Saponara, whom the Emperor lately sent to Count Teckley. The Cessation, as we understand, is to continue for four Weeks; at the end of which, and so at the expiration of every Term, it is to be renewed if the Parties think fit; and on this foot it's believed it will last all the Winter, that so the Troops on both sides may quietly enjoy their Winter-Quarters: but as for the hopes many seem to have, That during that time a Peace will be made between his Imperial Majesty and the Hungarian Rebels, there appears to be no very good ground for them, especially if it be true, as is confidently reported, That Count Teckley is under those Engagements with the Turks that he cannot do any thing towards the making a Peace without their consent and good liking; and all our Letters from Turkey do assure us, That the Turks are bent upon a War, and that it must be something very extraordinary that can divert them from it; to provide against which, the necessary preparations are not omitted here; and we are told that the Emperor will the next year have an Army of 80000 Men in the Field, of which 60000 are already on Foot, and 20000 are to be raised so soon as the moneys necessary for that Service can be got ready.

Ratisbonne, Nov. 22. The Elector of Cologne, having by his Deputy, presented a Memorial to the States of the Empire assembled here, acquainting them, That he understood there was an intention, to impose Winter Quarters upon his Country, contrary to the constitutions of the Empire, and desiring the same may by their means be prevented; The States, after consideration had of the Matters contained in the said Memorial, have resolved to pray his Imperial Majesty to give the Elector of Cologne his Assistance, that his Countries may not be burdened with Winter-Quarters, or Contributions.

Frankfort, Nov. 27. The French Ambassadors are preparing for their departure, to the great surprize of those that had persuaded themselves that the most Christian King would have conducted these Conferences; and the French say they had no reason to expect it, considering the little Fruit they have produced. It is reported that the Elector of Brandenburg, and some of the Princes of the Empire, do endeavour to persuade the Emperor, considering the present State of Affairs, and the impending War with the Turks, to accept of the Proposals made by the French Ambassadors upon their first arrival here, in order to the establishing a firm Peace and Friendship between the Empire and the most Christian King, which they think very necessary at this time.

Cologne, Nov. 27. The Deputies of Liège, have not yet had their Audience of the Elector of Cologne; but by what has passed in the Conference they have had with his Ministers, it appears they have Orders to stand very firm upon the point of the free Election of their Magistrates; and on the other side, his Electoral Highness seems resolved not to yield it. This is the main Article, which if once agreed, all the rest will be easily settled. The Deputies have written to their Principals, to give them an account of what has passed since their arrival, and to acquaint them with the difficulties they can yet perceive will arise in their Negotiation, and to desire their directions upon them. On Saturday next, the Duke of Juliers parts with his whole Court from Bensbourg to return to Dusseldorp, where the Arch-Bishops reckon to lie in about the middle of March; and against that time, the Duke and Duches of Neuburg burg are expected there. From Meiz they write, That a great many Troops arrive there daily.

Hamburg, Nov. 27. From Holstein they write, That the Gentry of that Country have made some composition with the Danish Commissaries concerning the Tax which the King of Denmark demands of them, and that they have thereupon paid part of it. However two Danish Regiments of Horse, which came from Futland, are arrived in Holstein, and have taken their Quarters there.

Hague, Dec. 1. Our Letters from Francfort of the 26th past assure us, That the French Ambassadors intended to part from thence in two or three days, and that the Imperial Ambassadors had sent an Express to Vienna, to give the Emperor an account thereof. From Hamburg they write, That the Subjects of the Duke of Holstein, to prevent the Military Execution they were threatened with by the Danes, had agreed to pay at present part of the Contributions the King of Denmark demands of them; hoping to compound for the rest. Our Letters from Vienna of the 15th past say, that Count Teckley's Deputies would be dispatched in few days to give their Master an account of the Offer which the Emperor makes to restore things in Hungary to the State they were in the year 1647; and to let him know that in case this will not satisfy him, the Emperor will not any longer amuse himself with the thoughts of Peace, but will wholly apply himself to a vigorous Prosecution of the War. The King of Denmark's Minister here presented lately a Memorial to the States-General, wherein he assures them, That the King his Master desires nothing more than that the Friendship that is established between him and this State may be preserved, and therefore wishes the differences that are depending between them may be amicably determined.

Paris, Dec. 5. All the Officers of the Army have Orders, as we are told, to repair to their respective Commands by January, and it is said that the Cavalry will be reinforced from 30 to 40 in a Troop. Monsieur du Quesnel is come to Court, and has been very kindly received by the King. Yesterday the Baron de Beauvais and the Chevalier his Brother, were sent Prisoners to the Bastile, for beating one of the Collectors of the King's Customs. A new Opera is preparing for the Entertainment of the Court at Versailles, where the King has ordered a Theatre to be built, with all other conveniences for these sorts of Diversions. It is believed the French Ambassadors have by this time left Francfort, and are on their return hither, pursuant to the Orders they have received from Court.

Blimouth, Nov. 24. This Evening arrived here, a Fleet of Dutch Merchant Ships, bound to the Southward.

Whitehal, Nov. 27. His Majesty was this day pleased to confer the Honour of Knighthood upon Richard Gibbs Esq; Master of the Revels of Grays-Inn.

London, Nov. 28. The Artillery Company having humbly prayed his Royal Highness to honour with his Presence their Annual Feast, which they kept this Day, at Merchant-Tailors Hall; his Royal Highness came thither attended by a very great number of the Nobility, and other Persons of Quality. The chief Officers having kissed his Royal Highness's Hand, and made their Compliments to his Royal Highness as their Captain General, by laying their Ensigns at his Feet, His Royal Highness went to Dinner at a Table at the upper end of the Hall, at which the Lord Mayor, the Nobility and Aldermen likewise sat, there being five other Tables for the rest of the Company, which was very numerous. After Dinner, and the Stewards for the next Year being Chosen, his Royal Highness returned to Whitehal, extremely satisfied with the Entertainment, which was very great and splendid, and managed with much order.

Whitehal, Nov. 29. His Majesty has been graciously pleased to Create his Grace the Duke of Ormond in the Kingdom of Ireland, a Duke of this Kingdom, by the Name and Title of James Duke of Ormond.

His Majesty has also been pleased to Create the Right Honourable, the Lord Marquis of Worcester, a Duke of this Kingdom, by the Name and Title of Duke of Beaufort. And to Create the Right Honourable the Lord Norris, an Earl of this Kingdom, by the Name and Title of Earl of Abingdon.

Whitehal, Nov. 29. This Morning died at his House in Spring-Garden, his Highness Rupert Prince Palatine of the Rhine, Duke of Cumberland, &c. in the 62 Year of his Age, after some days Sickness of a Fever and Pleurisy.
