Vienna, Nov. 29.

WE gave you an account in our last of the departure of Count Teckeleys's Deputies; It is now said, That the Emperor intends to communicate the Proposals the said Deputies made, and his answer thereunto, to the Electors and Princes of the Empire, that he may have their Advice in a matter of so great Importance: That his Imperial Majesty intends to go himself to Prague, or Ratisbonne, and that preparations are ordered to be made for that Journey. From Hungary they write, That Count Teckeleys has put his Troops into Winter-Quarters in the upper Hungary; That he had left a good Garrison in Aisal and Karpen, and that he was sending a Deputy to the Port, to obtain the Grand Signior's Ratification of the Cessation; That the Count de Saponara, the Emperor's Minister, with Count Teckeleys, had Orders to accompany the said Deputy to Constantinople, and to make new Overtures to that Court, in order to a Peace. The Imperial Troops in Hungary are likewise going to their Winter Quarter; 9000 are to remain on the River Waag, to guard the Passage of that River, and their Head Quarter is to be at Presbourg. The Count de Starenberg is arrived here from Hungary. The Commissioners appointed by the Emperor, for the raising the Tax of one per Cent. are now very busy in that work.

Francfort, Novemb. 28. The 24th Instant, the French Ambassadors were to visit the Imperial Ambassadors, whom they acquainted with the positive Orders they had received to leave this place, telling them at the same time, That the King their Master, was still willing to restore what he has been put in possession of, since the first day of August last, the City of Strasbourg excepted; and that he had given order to the Sieur Verjus, his Minister at Ratisbonne, to continue the Negotiation, upon this proposition, till the first day of February next. The same Evening, the Imperial Ambassadors communicated to the Deputies of the Empire, what the French Ambassadors had imparted to them: The Deputies of Mentz, receiving at the same time an account thereof, in a Letter from the French Ambassadors. On the 26th, at the desire of the Deputies of the Empire, the Imperial Ambassadors were with those of France, and represented to them the ill Consequences their so sudden departure might have; and offered to put into their hands, a Deduction upon the state of Affairs in relation to this Congress, which the Deputies of the Empire had agreed upon in their Assembly; but the French Ambassadors refused to receive it, as well because it was in Latin, as that they were now only at liberty to receive their Answer to the late Declaration: they (the French Ambassadors) had made by the Kings Command.

Francfort, Decemb. 4. The 28th past, the French Ambassadors were to take their leave of the Imperial Ambassadors, who on the 30th, returned their Visit. The first Instant, Monsieur Harlay, one of the French Ambassadors, parted from hence, and the day following, Monsieur de St. Romain, that they might not incommode each other in their Journey, which they took toward Paris, by the way of Straßbourg. The day before their departure, the French Ambassadors sent their Secretary to the Imperial Ambassadors with a Declaration, wherein they impute the breaking up of this Conference to the Imperial Ministers. The Emperors Ambassadors would not receive it, saying, The French Ambassadors, by refusing the Deduction of the Deputies of the Empire, had put it out of their Power to receive any thing from them. Upon which, the French Ambassadors sent the said Declaration to the Deputies of Mentz, as Directors of the Assembly of the Deputation of the Empire, who received it, and sent it by an Express to the Elector their Master. The Imperial Ambassadors have likewise sent an Express to Vienna, to know the Emperor's pleasure how they are to dispose of themselves.

Cologne, Decemb. 4. The Deputies of Liege have not as yet been admitted to an Audience of his Electoral Highness their Prince; who insists upon some Points, which it's thought that City will hardly yield to. Yesterday arrived here Prince Casimir, of Nassau, Stadtholder of Friseland and Groningen, from Coblenz, and the same day he continued his Journey for Holland. From Francfort we have advice of the departure of the French Ambassadors; and that Prince Waldecke, who is General of the Forces of the Empire, had made some Proposals to the Magistrates of that City, in order to their receiving an Imperial Garrison of 4000 Men; to be commanded by the Count de Lippe, but that they had answered, That they did not think they stood in any need of such a Garrison, and that they hoped, they should themselves be able to provide for the Security of their City. Our last Letters from Vienna said, That the Emperor had granted Count Teckeleys all the upper Hungary for Winter-Quarters, and 3000 Florins a Month, to be paid by the Berg-Towns. That Count Teckeleys's Deputies parted from Vienna the 24th past, according to all appearances, very well satisfied: And that it was said, an offer of three Millions had been made the Port, to prolong the Peace for 20 Years; which some believed would be accepted.

Cologne, Decemb. 8. The Deputy of Liege were on Friday and Saturday last, in Conference with the Bishop of Strasbourg, but we do not yet find that any considerable steps are made towards an Accommodation. It's said, the Bishop told them, That if the City of Liege desire to be restored to the Favour of his Electoral Highness, their Prince, they must forthwith put him in possession of all the Rights and Privileges, which he enjoyed from the
