

the States and Inhabitants of that Country, and that he would withdraw his Troops whenever they were no longer necessary for that purpose. The States-General have indeed resolved to send a Deputation to East-Frizeland, to endeavour a compoſure of the differences between the Princes and the States of that Country, and have named the Persons, but their departure is not at all hastened, and indeed this matter seems not to be pursued with that warmth as was expected. On Friday last Prince Casimir, Stadtholder of Frizeland and Groningen, was to visit the French Ambassador, with whom he keeps a very good Correspondence. The Emperor's Ambassadors and the Deputies of the Empire continue still at Frankfort.

Yarmouth, Dec. 5. The Meet of Dutch Merchant Ships which lately put in here, bound to the Southward, sailed from hence on Sunday last.

Whitehal, Dec. 8. The following Address from the Town of Great Yarmouth was presented to His Majesty by the Right Honourable the Earl of Yarmouth, their High Stewards, and Sir Thomas Meadows, one of their Bailiffs Elect, and was very graciously received by His Majesty.

The humble Address of the Grand-Inquest at the Sessions held for the Town and Burrough of Great-Yarmouth, the 19th day of September, 1682.

May it please Your Most Excellent Majesty,

WHAT Your Majesties most Dutiful and Loyal Subjects, the Grand-Inquest, out of a deep sense of our Duty and Loyalty, do beg leave to acknowledge the continuation of those many and great Blessings we enjoy, to be under Providence; from Your Majesties most wise and Gracious Reign over us; and to declare our Detestation and Abhorrence of all Treasonable Conspiracies, and Traiterous Combinations, whether against Your most Sacred Majesty, or the Descent of the Crown in the Right Line, knowing such Designs do tend to the overthrow of the established Protestant Religion, and of Your Government, which is the Security of our just Rights and Liberties; also the late Association, proved to be found in the Earl of Shaftsbury's Closet; which if it had taken effect, would have destroyed the whole Frame of Your Government, and reduced us to the like dreadful Confusions as of late: From all which, that we may be delivered, That Your Majesties Life and Reign over us may be long and prosperous, the Crown peaceably descend to Your Lawful Heirs and Successors, and our Religion, and the Government established, long flourish, in the hearty Prayer of us whose Names are hereunto subscribed.

Signed by the said Grand-Inquest, Your Majesties most Dutiful, Loyal and Obedient Subjects, do in most humble manner concur with the Grand-Inquest in the abovesaid humble Address.

2 Signed by the Magistrates, and the most considerable Inhabitants of the Town.

Whitehal, Dec. 8. This Evening was privately solemnized the Funeral of his Highness Prince Rupert. The Body was carried under a Velvet Canopy, from the Painted Chamber at Westminster, to the Abby, accompanied by several Knights of the Garter, and divers of the Principal Nobility, and other Persons of Quality. the Earl of Craven being Chief Mourner, and one of the Kings at Arms carrying the Coronet and Cushion, and the rest of the Officers at Arms attending and directing the Ceremony. Was met at the Church Door by the Dean and Prebends of Westminster, attended with the Quire, and was Interred among others of the Royal Family in a Vault on the South side of King Henry the Seventh's Chappell.

Whitehal, Dec. 8. Mr. John Duffe, having been taken on Sunday last, coming out of the House of a Foreign Ambassador at the time of Mass, by one of his Majesty's Messengers, and carried before a Magistrate, the Oaths of Allegiance and Supremacy were tendered him, which refusing, he was committed to the Custody of the Messenger, in order to his being brought before His Majesty in Council; and the said Duffe, having on the fifth Instant made his escape, he was, through the diligent Search that was made after him by Order of Council, re-taken yesterday at Rockester, and brought this Morning before the Council, where he again refusing to take the Oaths he was, by Order of the Board, sent to the Lord Chief Justice of the Kings-Bench, to be proceeded against according to Law.

WHereas there was Published in the Gazette of the 10th of November, an Advertisement concerning Mr. Alderman Backwell, We are ordered to give Notice to the World, That the said Advertisement is not only a scandalous Reflection upon Alderman Backwell, who is now in His Majesty's Service, but hath likewise given great offence, there being no sort of Licence or Authority for the Publishing of the same, and particular care being also taken to make a full discovery of the abuse.

It is also to give Notice to all Constainers, Masters, and Pilots, or any others concerned, That there is now laid on the North side of the Wool-pack-Sand a large red Buoy, not for a Chapel-Buoy, for Ships to pass that way, but for their direction to find deep Water, in case of necessity, for Anchoring in Horles-hole.
