THIS day His Majesty proceeded in state from Carlton-House to the House of Peers, where he arrived at a quarter before two o'clock; and, having alighted from the state coach, was received at the portico by the Great Officers of State and others, and proceeded to the robing room in the customary manner, wearing a cap of estate adorned with jewels: the sword of state being borne by Field-Marshal His Grace the Duke of Wellington, K. G.

His Majesty was there robed, and having put on the imperial crown, the procession moved into the House in the usual order.

His Majesty being seated upon the Throne, the Great Officers of State and others standing on the right and left, Sir Thomas Tyrwhitt, Knt. Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, was sent with a message from His Majesty to the House of Commons, commanding their attendance in the House of Peers. The Commons being come thither accordingly, His Majesty was pleased to give His Royal assent to

An Act for applying certain monies therein mentioned for the service of the year one thousand eight hundred and twenty-two, and for further appropriating the supplies granted in this Session of Parliament.

An Act to amend the general laws now in being for regulating turnpike roads, in that part of Great Britain called England.

And one private Bill.

After which His Majesty delivered the following most gracious Speech to both Houses of Parliament:

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

I CANNOT release you from your attendance in Parliament, without assuring you how sensible I am of the attention you have paid to the many important objects which have been brought before you in the course of this long and laborious session.

I continue to receive from Foreign Powers the strongest assurances of their friendly disposition towards this Country; and I have the satisfaction of believing that the differences which had unfortunately arisen between the Court of Saint Petersburg and the Ottoman Porte are in such a train of adjustment as to afford a fair prospect that the peace of Europe will not be disturbed.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I thank you for the supplies which you have granted Me for the service of the present year, and for the wisdom you have manifested, in availing yourselves of the first opportunity to reduce the interest of a part of the National Debt, without the least infringement of Parliamentary faith.

It is most gratifying to Me that you should have been enabled, in consequence of this and of other measures, to relieve My people from some of their burthens.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

The distress which has for some months past pervaded a considerable portion of Ireland, arising principally from the failure of that crop on which the great body of the population depends for their subsistence, has deeply affected Me.

The measures which you have adopted for the relief of the sufferers, meet with My warmest approbation, and seconded as they have been by the spontaneous and generous efforts of My people, they have most materially contributed to alleviate the pressure of this severe calamity.

I have the satisfaction of knowing, that these exertions have been justly appreciated in Ireland; and I entertain a sincere belief that the benevolence and sympathy so conspicuously manifested upon the present occasion, will essentially promote the object which I have ever had at heart, that of cementing the connection which subsists between every part of the empire, and of uniting in brotherly love and affection all classes and descriptions of My subjects.

Then the Lord Chancellor, by His Majesty's command, said:

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

It is His Majesty's royal will and pleasure, that this Parliament be prorogued to Tuesday the eighth day of October next, to be then here holden; and this Parliament is accordingly prorogued to Tuesday the eighth day of October next.

AT the Court at Carlton-House, the 5th of August 1822,
