THIS day, between twelve and one, His Majesty made his entry into this city, amid the acclamations of an immense concourse of people, having in the morning landed at Leith from his royal yacht, and proceeded from thence in his carriage in procession to Holyrood-House. On the King's entering the city, His Majesty was met by the Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council, who tendered to His Majesty the keys of the city, which His Majesty was graciously pleased to return to them.
