SATURDAY, AUGUST 16, 1823.

THE following Address, having been transmitted to Mr. Secretary Peel by the Lord Provost of Edinburgh, has been presented by Mr. Peel to the King; which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously:

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the General Convention of the Royal Burghs of Scotland.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, the constituted Representatives of the Royal Burghs of Scotland, take the first opportunity of our assembling in Convention since your Majesty's most auspicious visit to Scotland, to express our warmest gratitude for the honour your Majesty has done to our country by most graciously condescending to visit it. Of this event your Majesty's subjects in Scotland will always retain the most grateful remembrance. We also beg leave humbly to express the exultation we have felt at the very gracious manner in which your Majesty, in your Speech to Parliament, was pleased to take notice of the reception you had experienced in Scotland.

We beg leave humbly to assure your Majesty of our inviolable attachment and allegiance to your Royal Person and Government, and of our unshaken confidence in your Majesty's steady maintenance of our civil and religious liberties, and of that unrivalled Constitution which, happily for the nation, placed upon the throne of this empire your Majesty's illustrious predecessors.

That your Majesty may long sway the sceptre over a great, a free, a loyal, a happy, and an united people; and that your Majesty may long enjoy health and every other blessing which this world affords, is the earnest and most anxious wish of this General Convention.

Signed in name and by appointment of the Royal Burghs of Scotland, in General Convention assembled.

And it is hereby further ordered, that in case, upon such examination, it shall appear to the Superintendent or other principal Officer of the Customs, employed in the quarantine service, that such ships or vessels have the said contagious fever actually on board, or that any of the crew or persons on board have been ill, or have died of such contagious fever within the space of forty days, prior to the arrival of such ships or vessels on the coasts of this kingdom, or of the Islands aforesaid, or that in the event of any death, occasioned by such contagious fever, having taken place on board at an earlier period of the voyage than forty days prior to their arrival on the coasts of this kingdom, or of the Islands aforesaid, the clothes and bedding and all personal effects, susceptible of infection, worn by or belonging to the persons so deceased, were not thrown overboard and sunk immediately upon such decease, or as soon after as possible; or in case it shall appear that such ships had, within the space of forty days prior to arrival on the coasts of this kingdom, or of the Islands aforesaid, received any person or persons, or any of the articles hereinbefore mentioned, from out of any ship, vessel, or boat coming from any port or place on the western coast of Africa, or from the Island of Ascension, then and in such case every such ship and vessel, with their cargoes and persons on board, shall perform a quarantine of fifteen days (or of such further time as may be afterwards directed by any Order or Orders of three or more of the Lords or others of His Majesty's Privy Council), at the several places appointed for the performance of quarantine by ships subject and liable thereto, and bound to the said several ports respectively:

And it is hereby further ordered, that notwithstanding the ships and vessels arriving or to arrive from any port or place on the western coast of Africa, or from the Island of Ascension, may not be found liable to the performance of quarantine as above directed, no goods, wares, or merchandise enumerated in the first class of His Majesty's said Order in Council, bearing date the fifth of April one thousand eight hundred and five, concerning quarantine, which may be imported in any of the said ships from any port or place on the western coast of Africa, or from the Island of Ascension, nor any packages of good, which packages may consist wholly or in part of any of the said articles
