

believed was gone for Alsace, returned hither very unexpected on Saturday last.

Hamburg, June 8. We have not as yet any advice of the King of Denmark's departure from Copenhagen, but from Gluckstadt they give an account of the preparations they are making against the Courts arrival there. From Lunenbourg they write, That the Duke of Zell had Countermanded the Orders he had given for the March of his Troops, and that an Imperial Envoy was arrived at Zell. From Sweden they tell us, That their Fleet was appointed to Rendezvous at Carelsroon, but that they would not go to Sea this summer unless there was a very great occasion for it. The Letters from Warsaw say, That the new Levies are made with so great diligence and application that it's not doubted but the Troops they are raising will be compleat by the end of this Month, and that the Prince de Lubomirski was on his March, with the 6000 Men he has raised for the Emperor's Service, for Hungary, to joyn Major General Schutz, who expects him on the Frontiers.

Brussels June 8. The States of Flanders are assembled at Gaunt, and his Excellency has sent the Duke de Havre to make the demand of the next Years Subsidies, which it's hoped they will readily agree to. His Excellency has resolved to Encamp his Cavalry at Peiton, and the Orders are given out for that purpose. The Letters from Vienna which we received yesterday, say, That the Imperial Army was Encamped three Leagues from Graz, and that the Duke of Lorraine seemed resolved to attack that place, and for that purpose was making a Bridge over the Danube. The Affairs of Cologne are in the greatest disorder and confusion imaginable, the Commonalty having been in Arms for several days, and Imprisoned some of the Magistrates and others.

Brussels, June 11. The Cavalry and Dragoons which his Excellency has ordered to Encamp at Peiton, are on their March, and they will be there on Monday next. His Excellency will go and view the Camp a day or two after, and having done it, without making any stay there, will return hither. The Prince of Orange designs likewise, as we are informed, to have a Camp near Maefricht.

Hague, June 11. To compose the Squadron which the States-General have resolved to have abroad this Summer, nine Ships are fitting out at Amsterdam, six at Rotterdam, four in Zealand, four in North-bolland, and two in Frizeland, and we are told, That they will in a very short time be in a readines to Sail, especially those of this Province. It was reported, That Lieutenant-Admiral Tromp was to command them, but now it is said, That this Commission will be given to the Count de Stirum. The Deputies that have been sent to visit the Frontier places of this State do take a very strict account of the Garisons, and it's said that the Captains whose Companies are not compleat will be Cashiered. Here is arrived Count Carleson from Sweden.

Paris, June 12. We told you in our last, That the Court arrived at Auxerre the 30th past; Their Majesties continued there the 31 and the first of this Month; The next day they parted from thence and lay at Noyers, the third at Monbar, the fourth at Chanceau, and the fifth they arrived at Dijon, the Dauphin, who parted from Versailles the 4th, having joyned their Majesties two Miles on this side the place, where they Dined that day. The sixth, being Whitsunday, the Court remained at Dijon; the seventh they parted again to St. Jean de Laune, intending to go from thence to Bellegarde, and so to the Camp on the Soane.

Edenburg, May 9. This being the Anniversary of His Majesties Birth and happy Restauration, was observed here with much solemnity. There were Sermons Preached in all the Churches, suitable to the occasion; and 53 old Men, all in new blew Gowns, (to each of which was given 53 s.) went from the Abbey to the great Church, Praying for His Majesties Health and long and happy Reign. About four in the Afternoon my Lord Provost, the Bailiffs, and Council, went in their formalities to the Council-Chamber, from whence they accompanied the Lord High Chancellor, the Lords of the Council, and the Nobility, to the Cross, where was Erected a large Theatre, adorned with rich Tapestry, upon which was placed a Table covered with a very noble Banquet, under an artificial Grove of Trees, Laden with Lemons and Oranges. The Lord Chancellor, the Nobility, the Magistrates, &c. having Drank their Majesties and their Royal Highnesses Healths, they caused the Oranges and Lemons, with variety of Sweetmeats, to be distributed among the People, the Cross running all the while Wine at eight several Condoits, and the great Guns from the Castle being several times discharged, amidst the Vollics of the Trained-Bands, and the repeated acclamations of the People and the Night concluding with Bonfires, Ringing of Bells, and other publick Expressions of Joy, becoming the day.

Deale, June 5. This Morning arrived in the Downs Sir John Berry, in his Majesties Ship the Henrietta, from the Streights.
