Unto the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The loyal and dutiful Address of the Noblemen, Gentlemen, Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply for the County of Fife, in General Meeting assembled, this 13th day of February 1827.

WE, your Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, the Noblemen, Gentlemen, Freeholders, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Supply for the County of Fife, beg leave humbly to approach the Throne; with the assurance of our sincerest sympathy and deepest grief for the misfortune that has befallen your Majesty and the Nation at large, by the demise of His Royal Highness the Duke of York. As faithful subjects of your Crown, we feel grateful for every event that has conducted to its glory and prosperity: we revert, with melancholy satisfaction, to the wisdom displayed by your Royal Father, of blessed memory, in confiding, and in your Majesty by continuing, the command of your land forces to that distinguished Prince, who, zealous in the discharge of his duty, devoted all his powers and all his faculties to bring the army, and every institution connected therewith, to a degree of perfection which has exceeded the anticipations of the warmest admirers of the service: at the same time, we can never forget that its administration afforded to His Royal Highness a field for displaying that beneficence of character, that uniform kind consideration for general and individual interests; which endeared him to every rank and class of the military profession, and has caused his death to be considered by your people at large a national calamity.

We earnestly pray that the Almighty will carry comfort to your Majesty, under the bereavement of so valuable, so beloved, and so affectionate a brother, and will afford to your Majesty the consolatory belief, that a life so pre-eminently useful, and so benevolent, have not been spent in vain, and will not go unrewarded.

Signed in name, presence, and by our appointment; Kellie, Lieutenant, County of Fife.

[Transmitted by the Earl of Kellie.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The loyal and dutiful Address of the Noblemen, Freeholders, Justices of Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the County of Selkirk.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Noblemen, Freeholders, Justices of Peace, and Commissioners of Supply of the County of Selkirk, request permission humbly to approach the Throne, to offer our tribute of sincere sympathy and condolence on the affliction which has recently
