Dread Sir,

Hough others have more early, yet none can more fin-cerely and heartily than our felves, Congratulate your A cerely and neartily than our leives, Congratulate your Majellies and your Royal Brothers miraculous Deliverance out of the hands of your Blood thirfly Enemics, the Fanaticks, and the full and clear Difcovery your Majetty hath made of their Hellish and unparallel'd Conspiracy, whereby it appears, that they who took away the Life of your Bleffed Father, and endeavours the ruine of your only Brother, aim'd chiefly at the Destruction of your Sacred Person and Government. And that after all their species of Beligic shelly at the Deltruction of your sacred Perfon and Government; And that after all their specious Protences of Religion, they are so far from being better than other Christians, that they are worse than some of the worst of Heathens, and Dissenters not only from ours, but also from all Religion and Morality; which Consideration we hope will beget so just an abhorrence of their Principles and Practices in the midds of all good men, that the name of Dissenters will become as odious in this Nation, as they have made us in others, and as they justly deserve to be in all the World: your Majelly to accept our Lives and Fortunes to be dispoied with those Arms you have been pleased to trust us withall, in defence of your Sacred Person and Government, your Heirs and Successors, against his and all other Traiterous Plots, Conspiracies, and Associations whatsoever. Thus fell the then greatest Monarch upon Earth by the hands of his Ambitious ungrateful Favorites. This we mention (Dread Soveraign) with Horror and Assonitement, when we hear (by Your Majesties Proclamations) of the late Horrid Conspiracy against the Lives of Your Sacred Majesty and Your Dearest Brother the Duke of York; for since Your Majesty, by Your great Wisdom and Conduct has happily avoided the Rocks Your Royal Father of Blessed Memory, Split upon, and that You could not be drawn in by the Sirens Songs of Tollerations, Exclusions, Comprehensions, and such like Enchantments, to part with Your Crown and Scepter in a formal way, the Malice of Your Enemies is turn'd into Despair and Madnels, and what was formerly intended by the Accurled Association they would now Execute by this Exerable Conspiracy, as thinking themselves safe only (for the great Affronts and Insolencies offer'd to Your Majesty and his Royal Highnels) by Committing greater Evils, even the greatest imaginable. We had (Great Sir) before this Accurfed Occasion, oftentimes Contemplated (with infinite Satisfaction) upon that Divine Providence that hath always watcht over your Majesties Safety, and by so many repeated I stances, hath made it to appear. That of all the Crowned Heads in the World Your Majely is the very Delight of the Deity, and the

equal Joy and Care of Heaven

And we nothing doubt but that the fame good Providence

The bumble Petition and Address of Your Majesty's ever Loyal Town of Bruton in the County of Somerset.

SHEWETH,

That Your Petitioners (being either old Cavaliers, who Served with great Fidelity your Majellies Royal Father, their Sons, who inherit more of their Principles than Lands) tannot contain our felves, but (after that we have rendered Thanks to Heaven for the last Miraculous Bleffing we receiv'd by the deliverance of your Majetty from the Confpiracy of those wicked Corahs, who would have Sacrificed the Lords Anointed Corans, who would have sacrined the Lords Anointed and his only Brother (all the Sons of our late Royal Martyr) to their Ambition and Avarice. I do with great Humility befeech your Majelty, not to be too much te apped by your Generofity and Clemency, to hearken to the Broods of Your Father's old Rebels, or their Followers the New Presbyterians, who (if possible) have less Religion and more Crimes than their Impious Predetessors. But if we may not be thought Arrogant, and our withes repre-fented to your Majetty by our Ill-willers as Irelumptuous Counsel, that breaks the Act of Oblivion, (the Magna Charta of those Devilin Saints) we inould hope your Majefly would make a difference between the unchangeable Ca-valier, whose Veins are full of Hoard Blood, and the giddy Distenters from the Government Established in Church and

State, of whatever Perswessions.

Tis nor (Great Sir) Lucre or Gain that inspires these hopes, but the belief that You cannot be otherwise Sale: And while Your Majelty is unsecure, we may be confident the Nation cannot be happy.

We have no more to add, but our Prayers for Your Majefty and Lawful Successors, with this afterance, That as we Pray we will Act, never thinking our Estates or Lives too dear to be hazarded when Your Service requires them, thereby to shew our selves what in truth we are your Sacred Majesty's Your Sacred Majesty's Common-wealth-Principles.

We do therefore in the first place return our most humble acknowledgment to Almighty God, for his great Mercy to us, in preserving your Majesty, and for detecting as well as defeating these Horrid Conspirators.

And then humbly beg leave of your Majesty, to assure you, that we are endued with Loyal Hearts, and cannot sufficiently express our Detestation of the Horrid Conspiracy, that was fo Diabolical, that all good Subjects Itand afformined at it; And we affore your Majetty we will be ever ready with our Lives and Fortunes to defend your Sacred Perlon, and your Heirs and Lawful Successions, according to the Lineal Deicent of the Crown, and the Government established both in Church and State, against all Rebellious Practices and Associations whatfoever.

That great Provisions were made for them. That Vienna was in a good Condition, but that the Governor had defired the Duke of Lorrain to hasten the Conjunction of the Armies deligned for their Relief, because of the Encouragement it would give the Befieged. That there had not been any confiderable Action at Viens fince the ninth, but that the Turks were preparing for a great Assault, which they intended to make the 22th. and that the Emperor had appointed publick Prayers and Processions to be made at Passaw for that day, and that it was believed, according to the Success of it, the Turks would raise, or continue the Siege. The Troops of Saxony are, 'tis faid, Bruffels, August 31. The march of the French Troops does cause a great Consternation among the Countrey People within the Spanish Territories, and those that are nearest the Frontiers do fly with their Goods into the neighbouring Ga-risons. To which we are informed his Excellency answered; That he was much surprized at this Message; That the King his Master had an Ambassadorat Paris, and the most Christian King one at Marick, by whom his miss Christian Majesty might make known his Resolutions to the Court of Spain; That for his part he had noorders therein; And that if the French Troops didenter into the Spainsh Territories, he should take such Resolution as he thought miss convenient; and with this Answer, the shid Others is returned. We have no Letters from Passaw, face those of the 18 h Instant, which we have already given ince those of the 18 h Instant, which we have already given ton an account of; but we have from Ratishome of the 23, which came in last night, and bring us the Confirmation of what we had before, and rell us. That the Turks before View have made most terrible assaults upon the Town, wherein the B fireed have fullained confiderable loss both of Offiers and Soldiers, but not comparable to the great flaughter t the Frienry; That the place is as yet look'd upon to be in no il condition, though the Governor prefies the Duke of Lor-rein to haften their relief left any unexpected accident should e planger the place. There are fome Letters which fay that the Turks are Mafters of the Counterscarpe.
