

Hamburg, August 24. The twelfth of this month the King of Denmark arrived at Oldenslo, and having viewed his Troops that were encamped there, his Majesty parted from thence the next day for Rensburg; and the Count de Roye, and Lieutenant General Duncan went by his order to visit the four Baillages belonging to the Duke of Holstein Gottorp, where it's said the Danish Troops are to lodge. The Letters we have from Schonen tell us, that the King of Sweden had been at Malmoe, Carelscoorn, and Landscoorn, and that he was going for Gottenburg. They write from Berlin, that the Troops which the Elector of Brandenburg designs to send to the assistance of the Emperor against the Turks, do assemble at Crossen, but that they will not march till the Treaty which the Prince of Anbalt does now negotiate at Passaw, is concluded; and that one of the main Articles of the said Treaty, as it is proposed by his Electoral Highness is, That the Emperor do establish a firm Peace with the Crown of France, upon the Terms proposed by his most Christian Majesty.

Cologne, August 27. We have no Letters from Passaw, since those of the 18th instant, which gave an account of the Assault which the Turks made the 9th upon the Counterscarp of Vienna; and of the Emperors Resolution to part from Passaw on the 23d to go and meet the King of Poland, who it was said would be at Crembs the 26th or 27th, but we have several advices from Ratisbonne and other places, which tell us that the Armies which are designed for the relief of Vienna, would not be joyned till the 29th or the 30th of this month; and that it was feared the besieged would in the mean time be brought to extremity. There are Letters which say that the Duke of Lorraine had desired that so soon as the Auxilliary Troops of the Empire had joyned the Imperial Army, he might, without expecting the arrival of the King of Poland, endeavour the relief of the Town, but that the Emperor did not think fit to hazard a Battle, the Success whereof would be of vast Importance to him, till all the Forces, that are now marching, and particularly those of the King of Poland are joyned together.

Paris, September 4. On Thursday last the King Hunting in Fontainebleau Forest, had a very ill fall; and it was thought at first he had broke his Arm, but it was only put out at the Elbow, which was presently Set again; and a Messenger was immediately sent hither to give the Dauphin and the Duke of Orleans (who were here to assist at the Queens Enterment at St. Denis) an account of the accident, and that it was not of that consequence, but that his Majesty would have them stay and finish the Solemnity. Most of the young Nobility that were at Court, are gone to the King's Army in Flanders, which is Commanded by the Marschal d' Eumieres. We have nothing new from Monsieur du Quesne. Our last Letters from Germany give us an account, That the Turks do push on the Siege of Vienna with all the vigor they are able; that they have made several fierce assaults upon the Counterscarp (and some Letters say they have lodged themselves there;) That the Besieged seem to be full of courage and resolution, and that it was hoped they would be able to defend the place till such time as the Polish Army, and the Auxilliary Troops of the Empire are come up, and joyned, which it was expected they would be about the 28. or 29. of the last Month.
