Whitchall, November 7.

W Herons Complaint was this day made to His Majesty in Council, that his Excellency the Sieur Citters, Ambassador residing here from the States General of the United Provinces of the Netherlands, was on the Fifth day of this instant November, Riotously Assaulted in his Coach, several Squibs, Stones, and Fire brands being thrown, whereby his Lady who was with him, was dangerously wounded.

His Majesty highly resenting this great Insolence offered to the said Ambassador, and for the Preventing all Disorders that may be occasioned by throwing of Squibs, and making of Bow-Fires for the future, was this day pleased to Order in Council, That no person or persons whatsoever, do presume to throw any Squibs, or other Fire-works in the Streets of London and Westminster, or the Suburbs thereof, or any Parishes or Places within the Bills of Mortality, or gather or assemble themselves together upon the pretence of making any Bow-fires, or throwing any Squibs, or Fire-works, at, or upon any Festival day, or at any other time or times whatsoever.

And His Majesty is likewise further pleased to Order, That the Right Honorable the Lord Mayor, and the Aldermen of the City of London, and the Justices of the Peace in their severall and respective Liberties, do from time to time give their particular Orders to their inferior Officers to be diligent and careful in Suppressing all such Riotous and Tumultuous Meetings, and the Seizing all such who are guilty thereof, that they may be Prosecuted with the utmost Severity of the Law.

Francis Gwyn.

Whitchall, Nov. 9. The following Address hath been presented to His Majesty, who was pleased to receive it very Graciously.

To the King's Most Excellent Majesty,
The humble Address of the Grand-Jury at the Court-Lect of Hugh, Lord Viscount Cholmondley, for his Barony of Namptwich in the County of Chester, holden upon the third day of October, in the Five and thirtieth year of Your Majesties Reign, before Sir Francis Manley Knight, Serjeant at Law, Steward of the Court there; together with the Subscriptions of the Inhabitants of the Town of Namptwich, to the said Address.

Most Dread Sovereign,

As nothing is more the interest of Your People, and particularly of us Your Majesties Dutiful and Loyal Subjects, than the Preservation of Your Majesties sacred Person, and of the Government as by Law established in Church and State; so nothing is more our Joy and Satisfaction, than the Honny and Miraculous Deliverance of Your Majesty, and of His Royal Highness Your Majesties Dear Brother, from a Conspiracy carried on under such Hellish Circumstances, that not only lays a Scandal upon the Protestant Religion (for Protestant Subjects to Murder a Protestant King) but even upon Humanity it self, to find such Barbarous Misdreams in nature, that under the height of their Enjoyments, had much by this Clemency and Bounty of an Indulgent Prince, had the Cruelty to contrive the Murder of that Prince; We do with united Prayers, and hearts devoted to Your Majesties Interest, return our most fervent acknowledgments to the Great God of Heaven and Earth, for the Preservation of Your Majesty, and Your Royal Brother. And do in the sincerity of our Souls, by this our humble Address declare, that for the future we will endeavor to repair the former Defections of this Your Majesties Town of Namptwich, contracted upon it more by the Iniquity of the late times, than their proper Guilt. And we will ever continue Loyal to Your Majesty and the Crown, and to the due Succession of it in the right Line, according to the Fundamental Laws of Your Majesties Realm. In the Defence whereof we will Sacrifice our Lives and Fortunes with a Zeal becoming the Duty of such Subjects who desire to Fear God and Honor the King. And that Your Majesty may live long and happy, and Triumph over all Your Enemies, Domestick and Foreign, shall be the incessant Prayers of

Your Majesties Loyal and Dutiful Subjects and Servants,

Gottenburg, October 28. The 23th instant arrived here the Dutch Fleet, consisting in 22 Men of War, under the command of Lieutenant Admiral Bastiaenz, and the next day an Express was sent from hence to Stockholm, to acquaint the King of Sweden therewith. The 25th the Heer Bastiaenz came ashore with his principal Officers, and was entertained at Dinner by the Governour of this place; who was in like manner the day following entertained with the chief Officers of the Garrison, by the Lieutenant Admiral on board his Ship. This day the Heer Bastiaenz is again ashore at the Governours Invitation. The Fleet will return with the first fair wind.

Vienna, October 31. The Letters from the Imperial Army in Hungary tell us, that the Garrison of Newbenzell, which it's said is composed of 12000 Janisaries, had sent to the Duke of Lorraine, and offered to deliver the place to him, upon conditions, to march out with Bag and Baggage, with Cannon, Ammunition, &c. That he had not yet returned them an answer; and that it was believed the terms they demand will not be granted; for that place being blocked up by the taking of Gran, the great Garrison that is there, will not be able to subsist this Winter. We are farther told, that it's believed the Christians will attack Buda and Pest before they go into their Winter-Quarters, the retreat of the Grand Visier, and the great Consideration the Turks are every where in, giving them a fair opportunity to recover Hungary.

Lintz, Nov. 2. Since the taking of Gran, the Imperial Army is marched towards Buda, and its even said, that that place is formally besieged, and if it be, there is great reason to hope it will make no better defence than Gran did; there being a very great terror among the Turks, and the high Hills that lay about it, easily Commanding the Town.

Hague, Nov. 12. The States-General have made choice of the Heer Van Heiren, to go in quality of their Ambassador Extraordinary to the King of Sweden. The Dutch Fleet is returned from Gottenburg, but has not brought any Troops from thence. It's said an Alliance is treating, if not concluded, between the Electors of Brandenburg and Saxony, and the Princes of Lunenburg.

Paris, November 10. Our Letters from Flanders inform us, that the 9th past the Marschal d'Humieres decamped from Lessines, and came before Courtray the second instant, which had been invested five days before by the Marquis de Boufflers. The next day the Marschal sent a Trumpet to the Mar.

Marquis de Wargnies the Governor, to summon him to yield the place, which he refused. The third at night the Trenches were opened within half Musket-shot of the Town, the Count de Maulverper Colbert having the command thereof; the Besiegers made two attacks, the one against the Bastion on the right of the Gate of Ipres, and the other against the Bastion on the right of that; and the works were advanced with so much diligence, that at four a Clock the next Morning, they were lodged on the Counterscarp, and made a Line of Communication between the two Attacks. There was a false Attack made on the side of the Citadel, and another towards the Town, between the Citadel and the River; and in these several Attacks the Besiegers had about 150 Men killed and wounded, the Sieur de la Tremblaye, the Chevalier d'Artagnan, the Sieur de Perigny, and two Ingenieurs being among the latter. The 4th. about Ten in the Morning the Town capitulated, and the Articles being agreed, the French and Swiss Guards possessed themselves of the Gates; and at the same time, the Marschal d'Humieres gave Orders for the Attacking the Citadel; The Fifth at night the Battalion of the Guards, Commanded by the Count d'Artois, and the first Battalion of Picardy, Commanded by the Marquis de Harcourt, opened the Trenches, and carried them to the Counterscarp, with the loss of Six Men killed and Five wounded. The Sixth, many Bombs were shot into the Citadel from two Mortar-pieces, and the Sieur de Metz Lieutenant-General of the Artillery, r-ised two Batteries, the one of eight and the other of seven pieces of Cannon; and by Three in the Afternoon the Guards and the Battalion of Picardy finished the Line of Communication between the two Attacks; In the Evening the Governor seeing the Besiegers Works very much advanced, and that their Cannon and Bombs had done great execution upon the Half-Moon and the Bastions that were attacked, desired a Parley; Hostages were given on both sides, and the Capitulation was Signed, and at seven the next Morning the place was surrendered, the Marquis de Wargnie marching with the Garrison to Gant.

Paris, Nov. 17. The French Troops in Flanders are gone into their Winter-quarters, the Marschal d'Humieres having put Six Regiments of Foot and Four of Horse into Courtray, and Four of Foot and Two of Horse into Dixmuyde, which last place was surrendered the Eleventh Instant upon the first appearance of the French Troops before it; and the young Princes, and other Persons of quality that were Volontiers in the Army, are come back, except the Duke de Vermadois, who is very sick at Courtray. From Lintz they write, that the Garrison of Newbeusel, consisting in 10000 Men, had sent to the Duke of *Lorra*n to desire a Capitulation on which they would surrender the Place, but that his Highness believing them to be in want of Provisions, would not grant them the terms they demand. The Letters add, that the Imperial Army was marched towards Buda; and that it was believed they would attack that place, and Pest before they ended the Campaign.

London, Nov. 8. The Artillery-Company having Humbly pray'd his Royal Highness and the Prince of Denmark, to Honor with their Presence their Annual Feast, which they kept this day at Merchant-Taylor's Hall; his Royal Highness and the Prince came thither, attended with many of the Nobility, and other Persons of quality. The chief Officers of the Artillery-Company having kissed his Royal Highnesses Hand, and paid their humble Respects to him as their Captain-General, and having likewise made their Complements to the Prince, who was pleas'd to become a Member of that Honourable Society: His Royal Highness and the Prince went to Dinner at a Table at the upper end of the Hall, at which sat likewise the Lord Mayor, the Nobility, and the Aldermen; there being several other Tables for the rest of the Company, which was very numerous. After Dinner the Stewards for the next year were chosen, and his Royal Highness and the Prince returned to Whitehall, extremely satisfied with their Entertainment, which was very great and splendid.

Whitehall, Novemb. 2. His Majesty was pleas'd to command the Honourable Mr. Boyle, to attend Him, to give His Majesty an Ocular Proof of the Nicety of his way of examining the freshness and saltness of Water, and to apply it to the Sea Water, prepar'd according to the Patentees Invention; which being done before His Majesty, his Royal Highness, and the Duke of Grafton, several Persons of Quality being also present, it was made apparent by a certain prepar'd Liquid which Mr. Boyle had brought with him, that a Discovery could be made if there were so much as a thousandth part of Salt in a propos'd Water: By which Tryal His Majesty finding that the prepar'd Sea Water, for which He has granted His Royal Patent, was at least as free from Salt as the best Waters used in this Town, received such satisfaction as to the wholesomeness of the said Water, that He was pleas'd to declare His Royal Intentions both to encourage the said Invention, and to have the said Water made use of in his several Maritime Garisons, which Nature has not furnished with wholesome Water.

Whereas Notice has been formerly published in the Gazette, of an intention of disposing of his late Highness Prince Ruperts Jewels by way of Lottery, and the first day of this INSTANT November, being the day whereon it was thereby desired, that the Adventurers would pay in their Money to Mr. Francis Child Goldsmith at Temple-Bar. These are further to give Notice, that such as first pay in their Moneys, shall have their Lots first drawn in order; and as soon as the value of the said Jewels shall be paid in, a short day will be appointed and published for the drawing thereof, and that the Prizes at the same time shall be delivered to those that shall win them.
