

vernment, and of your confidence in my Constitutional Advisers.

" You may be assured of my sincere desire to uphold and to improve the securities afforded by the Constitution, for the maintenance of the just rights of my people; and you may rely on my continued disposition to further the adoption of such measures as may seem best calculated for that purpose.

" For the safe and successful accomplishment of such measures, it is above all things necessary, that they should be discussed with calmness and deliberation; and I earnestly recommend to you, to use all the influence you justly possess with your fellow citizens, for the purpose of preserving the public peace from any interruption by acts of violence and commotion."

They were all received very graciously, and had the honour of kissing His Majesty's hand.

THE following Address to the King was this day presented to His Majesty at the Levee, by the Lord Mayor, &c. and graciously received:

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The dutiful and loyal Address of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Liverymen of the City of London, in Common Hall assembled.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Liverymen of the City of London, beg leave to assure your Majesty of our continued attachment and loyalty to your Person and Government, and of our perfect reliance upon, and confidence in, the wisdom, integrity, and firmness of your Majesty's Ministers; and we venture humbly to represent to your Majesty our belief that, under the present trying and difficult circumstances, the security of the public credit; and the preservation of the public peace, depend upon their continuance in office; that no other Ministers would, like them, possess the esteem and the confidence of the country; and that they only would be enabled to carry into effect your Majesty's paternal and benevolent intentions towards your people; and we beg to assure your Majesty of our loyal and zealous approval and support of every constitutional means which may be adopted, in order to secure the speedy passing into a law the great measure of reform in the representation of the people, which has been proposed by your Majesty's Ministers.

Signed by order,

THE following Addresses to the King, on the occasion of their Majesties' Coronation, were this day presented to His Majesty at the Levee, and graciously received:

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble and dutiful Address of the Inhabitants of the Town and Neighbourhood of Huddersfield, assembled at a public meeting, pursuant to advertisement, on the 25th day of September 1831.

Sire,

WE, your Majesty's faithful and loyal subjects, deeply sensible of the blessings of your Majesty's paternal government, beg leave to approach the Throne with feelings of sincere congratulation on the late auspicious coronation; which, while it has given a new assurance to the nation of your Majesty's attachment to the institutions of the country, has called forth the most lively demonstrations of joy.

Deeply impressed as we are with the value and importance of the representative system, and fully aware of its defects, we most cordially thank your Majesty for having called to your councils, and supported to the utmost, Ministers who have so nobly redeemed the pledge they gave to the great constitutional measure of reform; and we most earnestly entreat your Majesty so to exercise your royal prerogative, as may in your Majesty's wisdom appear best calculated to ensure the success of a measure in which the peace, the happiness, and prosperity of the nation is greatly involved, and which will maintain the stability of the Throne, and distinguish your Majesty's reign beyond that of any other British Sovereign.

Signed on behalf of the meeting,

Joseph Beaumont, Constable, Chairman.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble and dutiful Address of the Inhabitants of Holmfirth and its Vicinity, assembled at a public meeting, pursuant to advertisement, on the 8th day of October 1831.

WE, your Majesty's faithful and loyal subjects, deeply sensible of the blessings of your Majesty's paternal government, beg leave to approach the Throne with feelings of sincere congratulation, on the late auspicious coronation; which, while it has given a new assurance to the nation of your Majesty's attachment to the institutions of the country, has called forth the most lively demonstrations of joy.

Deeply impressed as we are with the value and importance of the representative system, and fully aware of its present defects, we cordially thank your Majesty for having called to your councils, and firmly supported, Ministers who have so nobly redeemed the pledge they gave respecting the great constitutional measure of reform; and as they have won the confidence of your people, we entreat your Majesty to retain them in your councils, and so to exercise your royal prerogative, as may in your Majesty's wisdom appear best calculated to ensure the success of a measure in which, the peace, the happiness, and prosperity of the nation are greatly involved, and which will maintain the stability of the Throne, and distinguish your Majesty's reign beyond that of any other British Sovereign.
